

KEEPING THE CHILDREN HAPPY ON HOT DAYS

A FEW YARDS OF CRETONNE TELL WHO'S WHO IN CAMP

They Put in Their Appearance When the Only Man Went Away on Business, Which All Goes to Show That the Woman Movement Can't Destroy Femininity

DEAR PLAIN JANE: There are men who go about the world worrying for fear the woman movement will take away from them the things which they have long enjoyed. They are the men who are afraid of the woman movement.

AND that's quite true, Plain Jane. I am sure that the woman movement will take away from them the things which they have long enjoyed. They are the men who are afraid of the woman movement.

Alice Kent and the Day's Work

The Story of a Business Girl Who Would Not Fail

CHAPTER LXXVIII There had long been rivalry between the senior young men and the girls. It was a rivalry that had been going on for years.

But in May a young man joined the class who had all but finished the school course the year before when sickness intervened.

Government Favors Men for War Work Women Will Be Used in Industry in Large Numbers Later On

Visiting factories in search of the occupations for which women are best adapted and studying working conditions and sanitation with the view of placing women in industries—these are a few of the duties of Miss Louise Cornell and Miss Idabel Stevenson, of the women's branch of the industrial service section, United States Ordnance Department.

"The Government has adopted a very wise policy in regard to women in industry," remarked Miss Cornell, as she discussed her work today. "It is realized that before the war is over it will be necessary to employ large numbers of women to augment war production, but it is believed that the women who are available have been trained.

"Our work is to advise with manufacturers as to the introduction of women in plants where such a course appears desirable. We are ready to train the women for the work. We try to find the occupations where women are best fitted, so when the need grows they may be put on tasks they are capable of doing.

The Pongee and Foulard Coat A Daily Fashion Talk by Florence Rose

IT HAS been said that there would be more people who would spend their summer this year in their city homes than ever before.

Almost every one welcomes the invitation for the week-end in the summer homes of those who are fortunate enough to have them. These are usually only very short trips, which can be made in two or three hours either by train or motor car, and as it only means two or three days at the most, the clothes problem is not a difficult one.

One of the most important articles of apparel for the woman who spends the summer in a succession of week-end parties is a good-looking coat. The long coat of wool which was most useful during the spring months is far from warm during August, and even the lightest of the summer coats does not look quite all right in the motor, when one reaches the end of the journey its use is over.

Ask Florence Rose To have something light to wear all the week-end, or to have something to wear in the evening dress is the wish of most women.

Another forthcoming announcement which will be particularly pleasing to a number of young officers will be a list of promotions for them. A large number were examined at the Depot here, and the recommendations, with approvals, were forwarded to the War Department.
