SUFFRAGISTS LEAVE FOR RALLY IN CAPITAL

Demonstration to Force Senate Action, Not Harass President, Says Leader

"To stimulate interest in national suffrage for women we are going to Washington and participate in a demonstration to be held this afternoon in that city. Our real purpose is to get action from the Senate and not to annoy President Wilson."

That statement was made by Dr. Sarah H. Lockrey, of this city, who escorted several members of the Pennsylvania branch, National Woman's party, to Washington. The delegation left Broad street station at 10:30 and will appear at the Lafayette statue late this afternoon.

Arrested Last Tuesday. Last Tuesday a delegation of women representing the party were arrested when they attempted a demonstration at the statue.

"The arrests," said Doctor Lockrey, "were a violation of our constitutional rights and cannot be justified by the most rabid anti-suffragist. The House of Representatives has passed the suffrage amendment, but to gain any results from that action we must win the approval of the Senate. For seven months that body has been silent. Why? What are the forces that are working against the liberation of women? These are the questions that must be answered."

"The charge that our activity is a reflection upon the President is absurd, and, in fact, too childish to consider."

History Recalled. During the Civil War when Susan Anthony was fighting for our cause, she was asked to wait until the close of the war. "The war ended and fifty years have passed, but suffrage in America is not a reality. Now is the time for the Senate to pass upon this question that is so vital to the life of the nation."

In the party were Mrs. Lawrence Lewis, Miss Lavinia L. Dock, of Fayetteville; Miss Kate C. Hofflinger, of Sharnock, and Miss Mary Winsor and Miss Cora Crawford, of Philadelphia.

Raise a Service Flag. Hundreds of persons attended the service flag raising held by the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief League of the Twenty-eighth Ward at Eighteenth and Huntingdon streets. A feature was the participation of the children of the Stanton playground. They marched to the grounds led by the Firemen's Band. All were costumed in the national colors.

Fingerprint experts are trying to establish the identity of the yeggmens who robbed five safes near Thirteenth and Market streets, less than 100 yards from City Hall. The loot approximates $25,000. "GARABED" A CLOSED BOOK

Committee Agreed Not to Divulge Principles on Which Based. Boston, Aug. 12.—Edward F. Miller, of Nepon, Mass., a member of the committee of engineers who reported unfavorably on "Garabed," refused to discuss the matter further. He said: "By that name the committee agreed not to divulge the principles on which it is based. We were asked to make an investigation of Mr. Giragosian's so-called invention and we did so. We reported the principles on which it was based were unsound. I have nothing to add to that statement. By that name the committee agreed not to divulge the principles on which it is based."

Relative to the report, there is a great stock-selling clique behind "Garabed," Mr. Miller said: "If the American public, once having had a look at Mr. Giragosian's model, is foolish enough to put money into it, all right. That's their lookout. They will be the kind of people who believe they can pull themselves up by their bootstraps."

CITY BOND O. K. EXPECTED

Mayor Looks for U. S. to Approve $10,000,000 Loan. The capital issues committee is expected this week to approve a sale of Philadelphia bonds to the amount of $10,000,000. Mayor Smith is waiting final word before advertising the sale and getting it out of the way before the fourth Liberty Loan drive is started September 23rd. The new bond issue is urgently needed for the completion of the Frankford elevated and the furtherance of several projects now under way in the department of Public Works and Wharves, Docks and Ferries. These include street and sewer improvements and port construction work. The city is urgently in need of loan funds for extensions to the water system and for the payment of large mammoth items that will be left standing on the books at the close of this year. The Government however is opposing any increase in indebtedness and for this reason city officials will consider themselves fortunate if bond sales are not held up on loans already authorized.

TWO POLICIES FOUND FOR MISSING CHILDREN

Searchers for "Baby Farm" Ask Coroner to Act—Tales Conflict. Following discovery today that Mrs. B. B. Blackton had taken out insurance on lives of two children who could not now be found, detectives working on the "baby-farm" investigation asked the Coroner's office to excavate the cellar of Mrs. Blackton's home, 1345 South Fifteenth street. Detectives Doyle and Beckman dug in the cellar Saturday night, but found only a few bones, which may be either those of a human or an animal. The detectives found in a pile of insurance policies for several youngsters alleged to be children and grandchildren of Mrs. Blackton, two policies for Archibald Blackton, five years old, and Florence Worthington, six years old. Neither child could be found. Insurance companies are being questioned this afternoon by the detectives. Mrs. Blackton has told the detectives several conflicting stories regarding children in the house. She has a son, Howard, supposed to be twenty-four years old, with the American army in France. The father of the soldier, John Blackton, has been dead twenty-five years, according to Mrs. Blackton. Also, she says she is only thirty-seven years old.

MUST KEEP RECORD OF ALL SUGAR SALES

Customers to Sign Cards and Retailers Report to Food Administrator. A detailed record of all sugar sales is being kept by retailers, beginning today, to insure an equitable distribution of the product. This was ordered by Howard Heinz, food administrator for Pennsylvania. Every grocer must record name and address of each customer, the number of persons in family and the amount of sugar bought weekly. Each person is entitled to a half pound of sugar a week. If possible, the grocer must tear the number of pounds each family has and restrict sales to make sure no one is getting more than the proper share. Customers must sign a registration card after each purchase. Samples of the approved official forms can be obtained from the county food administrator. Grocers failing to forward to Mr. Heinz each week a full report of sugar sales will not receive any additional sugar. If an order comes by telephone, or is brought in by a minor, the grocer will sign for the customer.

The NOISELESS TYPEWRITER

"Number nine" is now "Miss Private Secretary"

Away off in another room they used to put her, so that the noise of the typewriter would not disturb the other workers.

A fine capable girl she was, too, but no chance to prove it. No individuality—no personal part in the bigger things—no opportunity for real advancement. Somebody suggested Noiseless Typewriters—the salesman's anti-noise arguments sounded reasonable—and several machines were put in for a trial.

They are still there. "Number nine" is now "Miss Private Secretary." She does more work—better work—more important work than ever before. And she does it in less time. The speed and durability of the Noiseless Typewriter are just as gratifying as its blessed freedom from noise.

The Ediphone BUILT BY EDISON FOR BETTER LETTERS

41 years old today—

Forty-one years ago today, August 12th, 1877, Edison made this sketch of the original dictating machine and sent it to his assistant. It marked the birth of the dictating machine, which Edison, as an important part of his life's work, has developed into the modern Ediphone.

It was one problem to make a machine talk; it was another and equally great problem to make it behave, so that business men who are now writing over a million Better Letters a day with The Ediphone would have a secretary, with ideal abilities.

A third problem that Edison's initiative has solved is the national service behind The Ediphone—a service that enables you to call upon your local Ediphone office with the assurance that they have the system for the installation of the equipment and its future maintenance, to insure an investment which will pay for itself twice a year in efficiency and economy.

Make the acquaintance of The Ediphone today—its birthday. Get our souvenir 41st Anniversary Catalog.
