WOUNDED OFFICERS CARRY FALLEN MEN

Colonel Brown Writes Philadelphia Boys Held Germany's Best at Marne

How wounded officers of the 109th Infantry carried wounded enlisted men to safety in the Aisne-Marne fighting is described in a letter from Colonel Millard D. Brown, commander of the regiment, to his father, former Sheriff Wilson H. Brown, of this city. Colonel Brown was the commander of the First Regiment before it became part of the 109th.

The colonel writes that the sector held by the 109th was attacked by part of the best of the German army, but the Germans did not go through the Philadelphians. Praising he valor of his men, Colonel Brown writes:

"They are wonderful, and I love them, down to the very last scamp.

"Officers and men, wounded, stayed in the line and refused to quit until the action was over. Men coming from the front, through machine gun and artillery barrages, shaken and exhausted by their experiences, would turn around and go back, refusing rest and food because their comrades could not get any.

"One battalion counter-attacked with the French in our endeavor to capture a hill in front of us. The Germans fought desperately to stop us, but failed. We lost quite a few in wounded, but our men jumped forward under all kinds of fire and carried them to safety."

McADOO DEMANDS COURTESY

"Public-Be-Damned" Policy Not Tolerated on Railroads, His Order

By the Associated Press

Washington, Aug. 19.—Railway employes were specifically ordered by Director General McAdoo today to show courtesy in dealings with the public and to cease excusing train delays and others errors with the plea that "Uncle Sam is running the railroads now."

"The public be darned' policy will in no circumstances be tolerated on the railroads under Government control," said the director general's order, addressed to "all employes in the railroad service of the United States."

NARBERTH'S POSTOFFICE

Commodious Quarters Replace Former Cramped Building

Narberth's new postoffice, which is in the Harris Building, across from the station, opened this morning. It is commodious, attractively fitted up and equipped with combination lock boxes.

The old office long ago was found inadequate, and the removal to the new quarters today marks the successful end of a campaign for which Postmaster Haws is given chief credit.
