JOE WOOD AND SPEAKER MAY NEVER PLAY HERE AFTER COMING SERIES

Cleveland Followers Hope Hitting of Two Stars Will Yet Displace Boston Red Sox in Race for the American League Flag

> By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Public Ledges

IN SPITE of the fact that they are three games behind the Boston Red ox and that the old season will close up shop on Labor Day, the members of the Cleveland baseball club are all chock full of hope and are certain they will cop the flag in the American League. The chances for this are remote, because the Cleveland club is on the road, while the Red Sox not only are at home playing in Feaway Park, but have at present the Browns for opponents. This means that unless the Red Sox crack badly in the last few days of the season the Indians have little chance to win out even if they play consistently good baseball.

But baseball is a queer old game and it is possible that Tris Speaker and Joe Wood, who have done the bulk of the offensive work for the Indians all season, may cram on an extra head of steam and bat out enough victories to put the Red Sox under. It would be a great thing if Cleveland did win the series. In the first place, it has never had a winner, and secondly the world series games could be more easily arranged because of the short traveling distance between Chicago and Cleveland.

In their recent games the Indians have had excellent pitching. Bagby has been going well and so has Coveleskie. George McQuillen, the ex-Philly hurler, is now with the Clevelanders, but his work has not been as good as Lee Fohl had hoped it would be. Coumbe, Morton and Enzmann have been tossing consistent ball and to them belongs lots of credit for holding Cleveland up in the race under very trying conditions.

The rest of the Cleveland team is well balanced, but is not brilliant, either on the offense or defense. Doc Johnston has been working well around the first sack, but his hitting has not been up to the mark.

Hitting Has Decided Many Contests

IT IS very likely that Philadelphians will see Tris Speaker and Joe Wood for the last time in baseball during the present series. Tris is going into the aviation corps and it is not likely that he ever will take up the pastime again, even if he returns from the war uninjured. As for Joe Wood, he is a veteran and will doubtless have outlived his usefulness by the time baseball again is back on the map.

The work of Joe Wood has been the most remarkable of any player the game this season. He has been hitting far beyond anything that Fohl ever dreamed of and his fielding has been superb. Joe has shown that he can hold down an outfield position with the best in the business, and also can come into the infield and play second in splendid fashion with out letting up in his hitting.

The latest official averages show that Speaker is hitting at a .320 clip and Wood at the rate of .305. The best part of the hitting of both these players is their ability to come through in the pinches. Time and again this season hits by Wood or Speaker or both have been the deciding factors in Cleveland victories.

Wood has not been decorated for superfluous base-stealing, but he uses his head on the paths, which is a far greater asset than actual speed. Tris has pilfered twenty-seven bases this season.

With two such reliable long-distance hitters a club is apt to bat itself out of a hole at any time and turn what seemed to be certain defeat into victory. Fohl and the fans of Cleveland are depending on the ability of these players to push the Red Sox out of first place. Both players are right at the top of their game, and it can be asserted with certainty that if the Indians do not win it will not be the fault of these players, whose spirit and ability have added so much to the power of the Cleveland club.

Must Guard Against Substitutions

Boxing promoters should guard against disappointments in the star bouts this season and take immediate steps to protect the public. It frequently happens that one of the principal contenders who has been advertised to appear in the windup is taken ill or finds it impossible to fulfill his contract. The fans attend the match and at the last moment are told that a substitution has been made. The public does not approve of things like that and many of the spectators feel they have been victims of a bunco game. They place the blame on the management instead of the boxer, who really is the guilty party.

In some cases, however, the management makes a mistake in not announcing a substitution which probably was made three or four days before the fight. This, too, should not be allowed, as stunts like that injure the game.

The 1918-19 boxing season officially opens tonight at the National A. A. with the first substitution of the year. Patsy Cline, who was billed to meet George Chaney, says he is ill or indisposed or something and cannot appear. He is said to have been in good health on Monday, but on Tuesday his manager asked to call off the bout. The management of the National, in order to make sure, then sent a man to New York to see Cline, and after he had made his report Harry Pearce, of Brooklyn, was substituted. Matchmaker Pop O'Brien tried to get Rocky Kansas, Willie Jackson and several others to meet the Baltimore slugger, but they wanted none of his game. Pearce, howe er, who substituted for Jackson against Cline at the ball park a couple of weeks ago and made a great showing, was willing to take the date and the match was arranged.

Perhaps Cline really is sick, but if such is the case his manager pulled a boner. After calling off the Chaney match Harry Pollok sent me a letter challenging Benny Leonard and stated that the lightweight champion was running out of the match. It looks as if Cline is being saved for Leonard and no chances will be taken with any one else. If Chaney stopped Patsy the New Yorker would be ruined as a drawing card. He could get more money with Leonard and a knockout would not be so bad. That's how it looks from here, and it would be a good plan to bar Cline from all future bouts in Philadelphia until he fulfills his contract and boxes Chaney at the National A. A.

Big Crowds at Point Breeze Races

MOTORCYCLE and motor-paced races are attracting big crowds at Point Breeze and the sport is gaining in popularity. All of the races are exciting because there is an element of risk and also considerable doubt from the start until the finish line is crossed. There always are plenty of accidents, such as punctures, blowouts, broken chains and the breaking down of the motor pacers. A rider may be leading by a mile and a slight accident will cost him the race.

On Thursday night Carman, Sutter and Wiley performed in a fiftymile race and it was exciting from the start. Sutter, who is one of the best riders in the country, was out to win, and Carman also had designs on the race. Wiley, too, had a good chance to cop. So the trio started out like a gang of firemen on a 4-11 call. It could easily be seen there was intense rivalry among the riders, for the first five miles were at a fiftymile an hour clip. That's traveling some on an ordinary bike, but the object was to kill off one of the participants. Sutter was leading, but a puncture threw him behind. Wiley then jumped to the front and set the pace until one of his tires went bad.

In the meantime Carman plugged along without accident and increased his lead until he was seven laps to the good. Then he had trouble. Jimmy Hunter's machine laid down and died and while a change was being made the lead was cut down to three laps. Sutter tried hard to make up the lost ground, but failed, and finished two laps behind.

All of this was very exciting and many spectators left the track believing Sutter could beat Carman if he had the breaks. Tim Buckley, owner of the track, matched the pair for a race tonight to settle the question of supremacy. Lawrence will be the third man in the event.

Ty Cobb Halted by Mack Hurlers

TY COBB went on a batting rampage during the last week that endured for twelve consecutive games, when a pair of Athletic hurlers, Watson and Jamieson, halted him. During his stretch of hitting Ty came through with twenty-three hits in fifty-five tries for an average of .418, and also tallied nine runs.

Tris Speaker had punched out his base hits for seven straight games when he was stopped by Sam Jones. During his streak Spoke punches out sieven hits in twenty-seven attempts for an average of .407. Joe Wood had batting streak that landed him into the .300 circle of hitters. Woodle hit safely for seven straight contests, in which he got eleven hits in twentycoven tries for .407, when he was stopped by Sam Jones.

WITH Bob Folwell back on the coaching job, Penn is assured of another successful football season. It has been presumed that ell had signed his contract long ago, but it appears that he has spired his John Hancock to the document. Folkell was not at the pridition program would be carried through on account the control for that remain he did not don up sooner. Folwell the first first students guther

WHY HE WAS ADVANCED

Tillie Walker, heavy-hitting outfielder

Tillie Walker, heavy-hitting outfielder of the Athletics, who has left the club to report to his draft board in Limestope. Tenn., has three dependents. His aged parents and an invalid brother are solely dependent upon Tillie, yet without warning or any reason being given he was suddenly taken from Class 3 and put in Class 1-A and told to report for duty. Walker has another brother who is an aviator in France.

Before Walker left the Athletics he stated that he had no idea why his classification had been changed. When he heard that he had been advanced in the draft he appealed, but heard nothing from the appeal board. He said that he would be glad to go into the first line trenches at any time if he knew that his dependents would be taken care of, but stated that not one of three dependents could earn anything and that they could not live on $30 a month, the pay of a private in the army.
