I am afraid I am not going to agree that the girl he left behind him."

But let me hasten to say the world does not have as great a number of these tragedies as you think. Each day in our great, broad land hundreds for the girls who never made hits have found happiness and a Dear One just around the couper. Let me explain what I mean. Take a class of girls in high school. There will always be two or three who are retiring and different who do not get asked to things by the boys. The other girls in the class secretly plty them and take it for granted they will always be unwanted.

"Look out for snakes," was her mother's last warning.

It began to get late. Ann was picking a few berries to have the pails brim full, when she spied something moving. It was green!

"A snake!" screamed Ann.

She turned and ran just as fast as she could go, looking back every now and then to see if the reptile was pursuing her, when suddenly, bump! What was that? Turning her head Ann saw a fine looking young man looking down at her.

"Why—er—er, I beg your pardon, Rob. Er—I mean Mr. Gordon," she panted.

Ann did. She told about the green anake and all. Mrs. Dale wasn't a bit surprised for she had been let into the ecret long ago.
The girls laughed, and Betty sang out,

Black satin will be used in the dresses for fall and silk braid trimming will play a prominent part. The young lady in the sketch is wearing a black satin frock braided to give the effect of heavy lace. This trimming is used in deep bands on the skirt, on the square neck and the cuffs

For general afternoon wear the satin frock is going to be very much in de-mand when the leaves begin to take on their yellow and brown tints.

I firmly believe the black satin frock will be the favorite especially for street wear. Following the black there will be frocks of navy blue satin and even taupe and brown. These street dresses of satin are extremely simple in design.

Silk braid provides one of the favorite ture shows you a frock where considerable ingenuity has been expressed in the manner in which the silk braid has been used to ornament the frock. At a short distance this trimming resembles a heavy black lace, but this effect is gained by the clever manipulation of the silk braid. The long apron front and the full tunic have deep bands of this trim-ming, while a narrow width is used to finish the square neck and the long sleeves at the wrist. The foundation skirt of this dress is straight and in-

"I knew it and suspected it all along," exulted Helen Brander.

"Yes and you nearly gave it away." returned Ruth. "Did any of you hear her ask me across the table?" A laughing negative to that question.
"I surely never saw a more wonderful ring," said another, "you and Jack are so well suited Ruth."

"Aren't they?" in chorus.
"O. I don't know about that," came a voice in denial. "I hardly knew at first announcement?" whispered Helen Bran whether it was Jack or Scott Raytered about Scott and the war. Ruth feit instantly out of it. But tactful Myra Briggs came to the rescue and in an instant the talk began again.

"Are you going to be married soon? How long have you had your ring?" And from that moment to the end of the afternoon when Jack arrived carrying flowers and was overwhelmed by the throng of chattering girls, everything was as it should be.

Myra drew Ruth close to her just before she went. "I'm so giad for you.

Emergency Training for Wartime Business THE WAR HAS TORN GREAT GAPS in our business organizations. At the same time the Government calls upon our industries to expand. Readjustments are called for all along the line. Executives are looking about for people who are capable of moving ahead and shouldering new responsibilities. The demands for trained men and women have never before been so great.

WHAT ARE YOUR OWN PLANS FOR ADVANCEMENT THIS FALL? If you are already holding an important and well-paying position, the opportunity is open now to rise still

If you are dissatisfied with the progress you have so far made, the opportunity is open now to show your mettle.

THREE NEW AND PRACTICAL COURSES OF TRAINING will be open to you this fall. Each one of these courses is aimed to meet a special need of the present business situation. Each one is under the personal direction of men of national reputation. Each one is intensive and brief, requiring only a limited amount of study for a few weeks.

BUSINESS ENGLISH

COURSE concerned only incidentally the mere handling of correspondence: its chief function is to spondence: its chief function is to give an advanced training in methods of building up business through the effective use of well-written and well-pianed jetters. Its value to the man or woman of considerable business experience who is reaching out for more responsible duties at a higher salary can hardly be overestimated. MODERN PRODUCTION is of particular value at this time to all whose business is in any way affected by the overseas exnansion of American trade and investment. This in-cludes men connected with export houses, banks, in-vestment houses, and al-lines of manufacturing which new or later may reach foreign markets.

FOREIGN TRADES

COURSE .

IN CONDUCTING THE TRAINING we shall have the co-operation of the Business Training Corporation of New York City. In addition to enjoying the advantages of personal instruction and service from a staff of specialists, you will have the opportunity of attending round-table discussions and lectures one evening each week. The fees have been fixed on a wartime basis, within the reach of any one who really wishes to increase his value and earning capacity.

GET INTO STEP WITH MODERN METHODS AND IDEAS. Even from this brief description you will be able to make up your mind as to which one of these three courses will do you the most good at the present time. As the various classes now forming are necessarily limited in size, we suggest that you write or mail the coupon today. Or, better still, drop in today or tomorrow between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. and talk the matter over with our Mr. Fiske, who will be glad to give you full information.
