WELFARE OF WORKERS MODEL FOUNDRY IDEA

Innovations at Its New Plant

Comfort for the shipworkers is receiving special consideration in the erection of a model foundry at the Wilmington plant of the Pusey & Jones Company. One of the principal features for the men is the washroom with its rows of showers. Another is a drying room, where the employes can dry out their clothing in a short time. Each man is to have a private locker for clothing and tools.

The new building will be about three times the size of that it replaces. The "The Mayor is not stealing or real estate man of the city, Senator Vare times the size of the times the size of the times the size of the control of the city, Senator Vare the control of the city, Senator Vare that the six months ago to describe that the tax rate would have to be reduced and that he six months ago to describe that the tax rate would not, under any conditions, stand for an increase.

In speaking of his action in announcing a possible reduction to the times the size of that it replaces.

sasting floor will have an area of about 18,536 square feet, and safety devices are to be installed. Labor-saving deare to be installed. Labor-saving devices to go into the building can be depended on, it is said, to speed up production at a great rate. One of these will be for treating and grinding sand in preparing k for the molds. The sand will be conveyed by an endiess belt to a gallery, from which it will pass directly to the flasks by means of special spouts. Large cranes will be one of the notable improvements. Traveling electric cranes will replace the old ones operated by steam. Special runways and doors will enable the cranes to run out into the yard some distance, facilitating the movement of materials to and from the foundry. Large electrically sperated foundry. Large electrically sperated trucks, with platforms that move up or down on the sides, will be used in han-dling pig iron and coke and also for castings from the foundry to the hine shops and storage department.

Billiard and Yeoman, of the Pusey & Jones out department, met a couple of friends at Atlantic City, but failed to meet their rain, and it has been suggested by other rends that the safest place to meet is right the depot, or, better still, right on the

"SPOKE FOR MAYOR," SAYS VARE ON TAX

Pusey & Jones Co. Introduces Senator Frankly Admits City's GAYETY 8th bel. Vine Both Phones. Chief Magistrate, Not He, Desired 1919 Rate

Senator Vare who, for more than a week was given credit for declaring the 1919 tax rate shall not be higher than at present, now frankly admits that he merely acted as spokesman for Mayor Smith and not in his capacity as the leading political power of the Administration.

This declaration followed a statement by Mayor Smith that he six months ago

"The Mayor is not stealing credit from me in his plan to lower the tax rate," said the Senator. "He deserves all the credit. I have done nothing but carry out the suggestions he made some time ago both to me and Chairman Gaffney. of Councils' Finance Commit-tee. When the real estate men came to me I merely passed on the Mayor's word that the tax rate would be de-creased. The Mayor took the initial steps. You may say this: Give Mayor Smith all the credit for this move.

Takes Office at Once

The new board of control of the Pussy & Jones Club, of Gloucester, will go into office at once. The run-off election held Wednesday resulted in the selection of seven members. Besides these, fifteen were put over without a contest. There is one member from each of the twenty-two departments. They are:

Main office, James Songster; drawing room, Milton Fernald; yard department, J. E. Armstrong; New Jerssy loft mold, George Letagus; pipe shop, Charles Harding; installation, William Murphy; liners, Oscar Keiffer; boiler shop, 'Arthur James; erectors, William Ayres; electrical department, Joseph Nettleton; New Jersey receiving and stores, Frank J. Barrett; boilters, James G. McCracken; joiner shop, Lewis Peters; maintenance, A. D. Clark; plate and angle, S. S. Dickey; New Jersey ship carpenters, Mr. Clouser; trillers and reamers, William Addison; New Jersey office, S. E. Southard; burners, John Sebold; New Jersey paint shop, Carl Trebing.

A dog with some of the ajredale's features

A dog with some of the alredale's features that was tramping around the Gloucester shippards has become the property of Herbert Wars, of the machine shop. Coworkers there say Warg is welcome to his find, and cast doubt upon the canine's antecedents. But Warg says he knows an alredale when he sees one, and that settles it. This one finds its master's lunch occasionally, any-how.

"Fish" Hafner, of the Puscy & Cones Gloucester outfit, would like to swim with Miss Olsa Dorfner or any other champion, and "show them up." He claims he can swim from Philadelphia to Chester any old time. If this were a movie scenario, we would put Herbert in bed in the main part of the film and then screen a smaller picture showing him spisshing from Philadelphia to Chester during his lunch hour.

Tom West, of the Pennsylvania plate and angle shop, came to Philadelphia to get a live duck, but neglected to handcurf it. The fewl got away from him on the train to Westville, where he lives, and ducked him until at last Tom clubbed it over the head with a string of frankfuriers. Next time Tom will know better than try to get a duck to go to Westville without protest.

Miss M. Vite, a stenographer in the industrial relations department at Hog Island, has described the ship, but hot for long, her friends there hope. She has gone to her home in Union. Mo., and said she would be back goon.
