British Naval Officer—Guess you're a little Finn?
Ingenuous Northern Maiden—Ah, no, no, you little big boy; I see fat!

Some Nose

Sergeant Rednose—Now then, what do you mean by moving your arm without orders?
Recruit—A fly was worrying me, sergeant, and I brushed him off my nose.
Sergeant—Then why the blazes don't you get a nose like mine and burn the blighter's legs off?

WITH REASON

Bathing Machine Proprietor—Yer needn't go away, miss. I can see the young lady inside is just getting ready to come out.
Fair Bather (hastily)—Er—thanks; but I think I'll put it off until tomorrow.

What He'd Think

Medical Officer (holding a half crown in his hand)—And what do I hold in my hand?
Recruit (anxious to be passed C-3)—Well, sir, it looks like a three-penny piece to me.
M. O.—Now, that's splendid! A man like you would imagine you are opposed by the Bantams when in action with the Prussian Guards—A-1.

MOVING PICTURE FUNNIES

Cut out the picture on all four sides. Then carefully fold dotted line 1 its entire length. Then dotted line 2, and so on. Fold each section underneath, accurately. When completed turn over and you'll find a surprising result. Save the pictures.

Into each life some rain must fall.

Spoiled Her Pleasure

—The London Bystander.
Erminie—What made you so angry last night?
Gertrude—Just got a letter from Jack that he is engaged to Margaret.
Erminie—Well, you're engaged to Joe and you were going to throw Jack over.
Gertrude—That's just it. He's spoiled my chance.

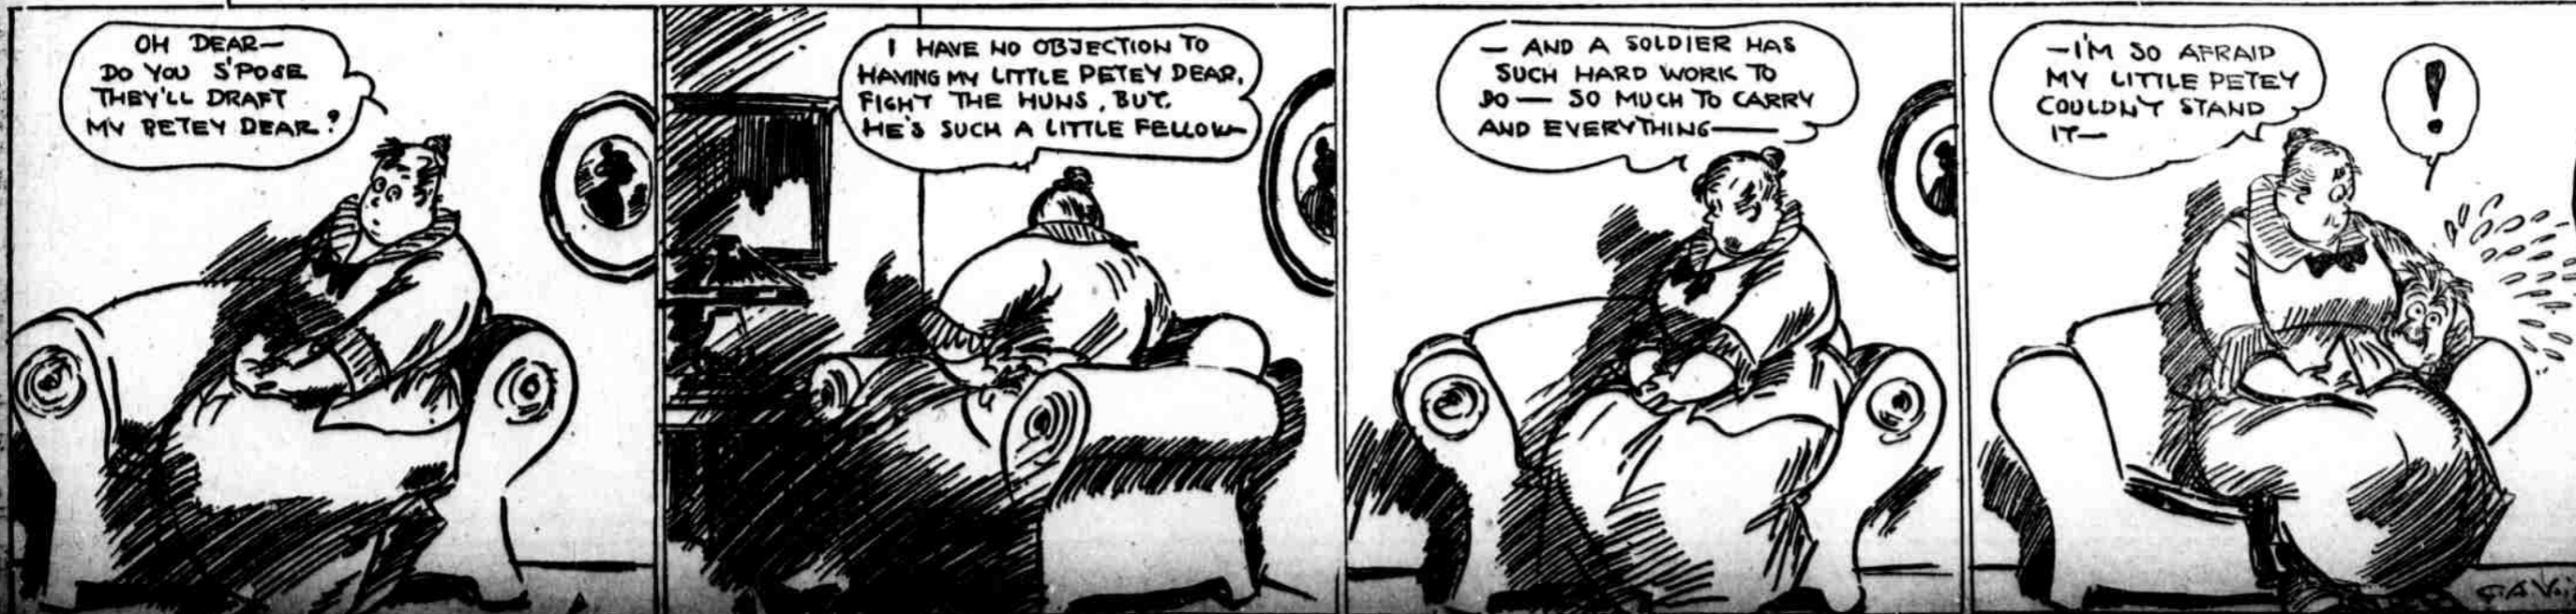

His Ailment

—The Tattler.
"My old man had a bit of fish for his supper; 'e was took very queer in the night, I 'ope 'e ain't caught this 'ere Bolshevism."
