

DON'T FORGET THE BIG BENEFIT GOLF MATCH AT WHITEMARSH THIS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

MATT SWIPES HONORS FROM FLOCK OF EXPERTS IN LU LU GOLF TOURNAMENT

Young Star Turns in Card of 76 in Qualifying Round and Wins the Medal—Seventh Hole Is Stumbling Block for the Players

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

At Edge Hill, where the Nobles of Lu Lu are putting on a golf tournament for the championship of the club or something like that, more than 100 prominent club welders made a gallant attempt to survive the qualifying round yesterday. Some sixty-four were successful and will play it out in four different classes today and tomorrow. The others carted their clubs back to the old homestead and retired to the sidelines with the other spectators.

J. W. Platt, a youth who first gained fame on the football field before turning up the strenuous game on the links, floated through the mob like Barney Oldfield racing a flivver, and copped all of the stray medals in the place. Decorations were pinned on his manly chest after he had turned a score of 76, which is considered a nobby card even at this late date.

Platt was second with 78 and the other experts trailed along in the 80s and 90s. Platt, however, was stacked up against Billy Gray and was forced to extend himself. The youthful phenom put in his best hole just to show Mr. Gray how it was done.

The talent—meaning the high-class players—found it difficult to get started and many had tough luck in the first round. Those who got by in the first ran into squalls in the second, which proved they were not soaking with their customary ease and grace. For example, Doc Higgins, of Stanton, has a swell card for the first nine with a 37, but after that his foot slipped and he finished with a cluster of 44. Fred Knight had a pair of 31s, and Walter Reynolds, after gathering 46 strokes, came back with a 28 and managed to be among those present in the first sixteen.

The athletes found the course in excellent condition, but the greens were hard and tricky and very deceptive when it came to putting. This is their excuse, and they will stick to it.

Short Hole Worries Our Very Best Golfers

HOWEVER, and be that as it may, the boys ran into a short hole which gave them no more trouble than the Asiatic fever. This has two points names, the seventh and the sixteenth—and several others which seemed to be more popular. This pretty little spot is perched on a hill which slopes into a quarry, where the rough stuff predominates. All one has to do is to lift the pellet over this slight valley and it is easy sailing. However, the mental hazard was too great, for many bun drives resulted and the players devoted much time and language in personally conducted tours to the foot of the hill. The best score of the day on the second round, and our own Bill Sykes, raved himself with an 8 on the second round. This was the big stumbling block of the day.

W. Freeland Kendrick, who answers to the name of "Pete" and is supposed to give a cup because he is, obliged us with a little act in the quarry, which proved that even good players occasionally get into trouble. Kendrick lifted one into the valley and after executing two perfect back shots—the ball hitting one side and bounding back to its original position—executed a trick shot which placed him on the fairway, but out of the running.

Mr. Smith, who also is known as Mayor of our city, was in the tournament, but perished with a card of 98. His Honor played with great skill and cunning, but there were about seventy others who were slightly better. Mr. Knight, our well-known Coroner, was with Mr. Smith when the ship sank, and the accident prevented one of the greatest matches in the history of the game.

When Mr. Smith was turning in his card Mr. Knight said: "What did you do today?" "Got a 98," was the reply. "I got a 99," responded our Coroner. "If we hook up in one of the games tomorrow I'll play you for the City Hall!" "No need of that," answered Mr. Smith, "because you own it already." Upon the gallery chorled with glee, for that humorous stuff always sells big.

It was rumored that B. Wilson, our Director of Public Safety, got his score for the eighteen holes confused with his weight, and declined to turn in his card until the mistake was rectified.

National A. A. U. Championships Start Today

The national track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic Union will start today on the new athletic field of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station near Chicago. Despite the fact our country is deep in the throes of a regular war, followers of the cinder path have come to realize that this year's meeting is to be the real thing. This condition is largely due to the fact that the games have been taken over by the Navy Department, which, with the assistance of the A. A. U. and the Chicago A. A. U., is putting the meet over in a manner that betrays a national championship affair.

There are three potent factors in making an athletic meeting a success—the entry, the field and the crowd—and at this writing all of these are assured. The field has been provided by the Navy Department and the layout at the Great Lakes Training Station is the best I ever have seen. As to the crowd, the nucleus will be made up of some 50,000 sailor boys, who will be greatly interested in the events because a team composed of men drawn from their ranks will be a slight favorite for the championship. From every part of the country have come groups of athletes. It is estimated that not less than a score of army and navy concentration points are now in the service are legion. Lieutenant Alma Richards, the Utah boy who went to the Olympic games at Stockholm six years ago a rank outsider and won the world's championship, will lead a squad from Camp Fremont, California. From Los Angeles has come Earl Murray, the coast's best timber-topper, and Clarence Bean, a newcomer in the vault event. Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, will be headed by Jack Norton, the crack hurdler.

Clinton Larsen has come all the way from Kelly Field, Texas; Edward Egan, who made such a sensational comeback this spring, has arrived from an officers' training school out West to compete in the sprints, while Frank Stone and a host of others are representing eastern naval districts.

EST we forget: J. Howard Barry, one of the greatest athletes of the day, together with Harold Barron, has obtained a furlough from Camp Hancock to represent the Meadowbrook Club, of this city.

Tendler-Chaney Bout Booms Boxing Game

The success of the Tendler-Chaney bout at the National A. A. Wednesday night proves beyond question of doubt that boxing still is a popular sport and the public will attend if the attraction is high class. Despite a rain and apparent lack of interest on the part of the boxing fans, special show was well attended and the gate receipts greater than were expected. Boxing promoters held up their plans for the winter until they found the financial returns from this bout, and everything looks so rosy and lovely that many special attractions will be on the cards this season.

In Philadelphia the next special event will feature Jack Dempsey, the fighting heavyweight champion who has not gone into retirement, battling Levinsky. James F. Dougherty, who is promoting the affair, has planned to stage an open-air show at the ball park on September 28, but later changed his mind and decided to hold it indoors where the weather would not interfere. There will be other star bouts on the program and the date will be announced in a few days.

In the meantime Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Ted Lewis, welterweight titleholder, will fight it out next Monday night at Newark in an eight-round fust. Leonard is stepping out of his class to fight Lewis, but is confident he can win. There will be little difference in weight, however, and as Benny has the hardest wallop, he stands a good chance to cop the verdict. Bouts like that are hard to figure, for one can tell what will happen. Every time a boxer steps out of his class to grab laurels in another division he comes to grief. Johnny Kilgore aspired for the lightweight title, but Leonard soon convinced him that he was talking through his hat.

Football Definitely Assured at Penn State

Many of our leading colleges still silent and uncertain about football for the coming season, Penn State has gone ahead and made plans for the game this fall. Major Baylies, military commandant at the college in favor of football, and with that one hour a day approved for work in colleges with S. A. T. C. units, State is sure to develop a team. Twelve men reported to Coach Hugo Bezdek the first day, a number of good athletes will appear when the new students

TENNIS CLUBS ASKED TO AID THE RED CROSS

National Association Decries That All Organizations Hold Special Benefit Tournaments

The United States National Lawn Tennis Association has decried that Saturday, September 28, shall be known as "Red Cross Tennis Day," and, according to an edict, every club in the United States is requested to arrange a special tournament on that date. The proceeds of which will be donated to the Red Cross. This universal tournament is the result of a special request of the medal committee of the Red Cross, which will award medals and certificates to the winners and runners-up, respectively, in all competitions.

GOLF RECORD FOR JONES

New Britain, Conn., Sept. 20.—Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., seventeen-year-old golf star, broke the course record in a golf match at the Shurtle Meadow Club here yesterday when he turned in a card of 71, against the former record of 72.

HOT OFF THE GRIDIRON

Washington, Pa. Several more regulars from last season's team reported to Coach Hutchinson at Washington and Jefferson yesterday. Captain Henry, a tackle, Truesell, the star end, and Lehigh, who has been in line for the first time, as were Peabody, center, and Pittsburgh, right, and Tom Davison, the sensational Kiki halfback and quarterback.

Bethlehem, Pa.—After a brief let-up, due to Wednesday's rain, Lehigh football warriors resumed practice yesterday. With the arrival of more than half a hundred latecomers, the squad is now in excellent shape. Among the new men out was Edward, a graduate of the Springfield High School, who is a quarter-back, a position that needs filling at Lehigh. Coach Knapp, assisted by Henry Butler and Walter Gibson, put the men through a strenuous preliminary drill and followed with a heart to heart talk.

Middletown, Conn.—Russell H. Anderson, 1920, of Bridgeport, N. J., has been elected captain of the Wesleyan football team to succeed Arthur E. Markshaler of Elizabeth, N. J., who is in the aviation service. Anderson played tackle last fall and was one of the two Wesleyans who picked for the All-Connecticut Valley eleven.

Annapolis, Md.—With five weather yesterday, Coach Holtz resumed his triple sessions of football at the Naval Academy, having the main squad out morning and afternoon, and the fourth class men later in the day. The arrivals today included Roberts, half-back, Arthur, one of the candidates for center, Willing and Hucher, who were frequently used at guard last season, and Skinner, a tackle.

Whitely, a back, and Foster, another center candidate, arrived yesterday. Whitely is likely to be one of the mainstays this season. He played a strong game for Colgate in 1917 and had a brilliant year during two seasons at the Naval Academy. King, led from town, but sounds very strong and active, is making a bid for one of the tackles.

State College, Pa.—Barging machines and tackling dummies yesterday were dated out and used for the first time in Penn State's football workout. Hugo Bezdek, but the varsity and freshman line candidates through long drills in the mechanics of the play are tackling.

His Pacific coast tactics were wholly new to the State candidates, but they readily absorbed Bezdek's ideas. For a time he pitted the two lines against each other, using Ralph Henry, the Harrisburg boy, for personal demonstration in correct methods of breaking through.

Two new candidates reported today. They were Aiken, a former Butler High School player, and Friedman, a freshman from West Philadelphia.

Special $5000 Purse Offered if Billy Kelly, Eternal and Purchase Start

Queens, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The Queen's County Jockey Club has guaranteed to add $5000 to a sweepstakes of $5000 each for a race at six furlongs by the two-year-olds Billy Kelly, Eternal and Purchase, to be run here next Thursday, September 26, providing the track is in good condition and all three start.

"Cap" Huston Is Now a Lieutenant Colonel

New York, Sept. 20.—A cablegram from France just received contains the pleasant intelligence that "Cap" Huston, half owner of the New York Yankees has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

"Cap" as he is familiarly known in his friends, organized a regiment of railway engineers from his home town, Cincinnati, immediately upon the outbreak of war and accompanied it to France as captain of Company A. He declined the commission of colonel at the time. A couple of months ago they colorfully "capped" and forced him to accept a majority with the regiment.

He is now a lieutenant colonel in the 10th Cavalry, and is serving in the front lines.

FIVE MEMBERS OF 1917 SQUAD RETURN TO PENN

Straus, Weil, Rosener, Supplee and Wolfe to Enter Students' Corps

Five members of last season's varsity football squad at the University of Pennsylvania appeared on the Red and Blue campus of coaching and barracks yesterday afternoon. They are the first of the advance guard to report.

The early arrivals are Joe Straus, the battering ram of a halfback who shattered every line that he dove his bulk into last fall; Ed Weil, the little end, whose gameness overshadowed his lack of weight; Walter Rosener, the former Central High star, who played such a brilliant game at quarterback in the Michigan engagement; Dick Supplee, former freshman tackle, and Bill Wolfe, a substitute varsity line-man of last year.

All these students will be admitted to the students' army training corps. They are anxiously awaiting the time when the football candidates will be called out for practice, and had there been uniform and balls available yesterday the first practice of the season would have been held.

Due to the uncertain condition of affairs, however, the necessary football togs are not ready and probably will not be ready until Major Griffith, the military commander, gives the word.

MEADOWBROOK STARS WILL MAKE STRONG BID FOR NATIONAL HONORS

Dallas's Proteges All Primed for the Junior A. A. U. Events This Afternoon at Great Lakes Naval Training Station

Great Lakes, Ill., Sept. 20.—The eyes of the athletic world were focused on the Great Lakes Naval Training Station today where the greatest array of athletes assembled since the Olympic games, held in St. Louis, 1904, will test their speed and skill in the National A. A. U. outdoor track and field championships which cover a three days' program.

Never before in the history of America's amateur classic has such a well-known field of cinder path and field performers been brought together. The athletes are from points as distant as New Orleans in the South, Boston, Pelham Bay, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia in the East, Camp Fremont, Cal., in the West, the aviation fields in the Southwest and the Royal Air Force of Toronto, Canada, in the North. In the entry list of 781 for the carnival is a record breaker and comes from universities and athletic clubs as well as naval stations and army cantonments.

325 Athletes in Today's Races

The contests today are for the junior championships. Tomorrow the national titleholders and other "blue-ribbon" performers will meet for the senior championships. On Monday the relay and all-around championships will be decided.

Three hundred and twenty-five athletes will arrive for honors in the junior events, with teams representing the Meadowbrook Athletic Club, of Philadelphia; the Chicago Athletic Association, Great Lakes, Illinois Athletic Club and Pelham Bay Naval Training Station, ranking as favorites to bag the biggest total of points. These organizations have nominated the largest teams, and each is certain to score heavily in several events.

Many Service Stars

Two-thirds of the number who will take part in today's program are training for service overseas. They will run under the colors of a score of army camps and naval stations.

In keeping with the spirit of the entry list, the new athletic field at the station, which furnishes the setting for the games and the great crowd of spectators, seating arrangements have been provided for 75,000 persons, and it is certain that close to this number will watch the program, as the Great Lakes station alone will furnish nearly 50,000 sailors to fill the rows of circus seats. The admission is free.

Quarter Mile Straightaway

The middle distance races will be run over a 440-yard straightaway, the only one of its kind in the country. The other distance events will be over a four-lap track, which is declared to be in perfect condition.

Justice Barlow 8 Weeks of the New York Supreme Court, National A. A. U. official of years of experience, will be the honorary referee. Other officials include Captain William A. Moffett, commandant at the station; Charles A. Dean, president of the National A. A. U., and Frederick W. Rublen, secretary of the National A. A. U.

There are sixteen events on today's program, which means that the final events will not be finished until nearly dusk.
