

GLOBE SPRINKLERS FIREMEN EVERY TEN FEET Did your plant help make this record? The National Fire Protection Association states that from 1897 to 1917, out of 18,793 fires in sprinkler-equipped buildings, 62.4% were extinguished by sprinklers and 33.1% held in check, 95.5% assurance against fire.

LONGER SCHOOL DAY PLAN STIRS PROTEST Principals Will Ask Joint Committee to Reject Revised Schedule Principals of the Philadelphia high schools will petition the joint committee of higher schools this week not to adopt the proposed revision of schedules which would increase the time spent by pupils in high school by three-quarters of an hour daily.

The change was suggested by the physical training director of West Philadelphia High School to make a course in preliminary military training fit into the schedule. He brought the proposition before the board of physical education, and it was recommended by its members.

Dr. Robert Ellis Thompson, principal of Central High School, and principals of other high schools are opposed to lengthening the school hours. A census of Central High School students showed that nearly 60 per cent of them work after school hours to help pay their expenses at home and to help in war industries.

"Lengthening the school time from 2:15 to 3 o'clock," explained one principal, "would mean that many boys would have to stop work at school. Some of them are newspaper and newsboys, and unless they get out in time to get their editions they can't hold their jobs. It would mean that 2000 hours a day less in war industries, where every bit of time and work is needed. That is, considering it from the boys' standpoint."

A number of parents have written the school principals protesting against the change, and a petition is being prepared by the high school boys. Doctor Thompson said most of the other schools have been able to arrange their schedules satisfactorily to include two hours of military training within the old time, and there is no reason why all should be made to suffer because the West Philadelphia High School cannot fit its program into the old time.

SHOW LIBERTY MOTOR HERE Ledger Central Will Exhibit Famous Aircraft Engine A Liberty motor will be placed on exhibition in the display window at Ledger Central, Chestnut street east of Broad, the week commencing September 30.

It will be the first public exhibition of the new motor. The Government consented to the exhibition to help stimulate the fourth Liberty Loan drive. Repeated efforts have been made by the Packard Motor Company of Philadelphia to win the Government's consent to exhibit one of its latest models. It broached the subject at the beginning of each one of the three loan drives, but until now without success.

When success seemed certain it was necessary to send a special messenger from the factory to Philadelphia to obtain the consent of the proper authorities.

MAN KILLED, WOMAN HELD Police Expect to Make Additional Arrests Today May Mowbray, twenty-eight years old, is being held by the police of the Fifteenth street and Snyder avenue station in connection with the death of George Haydt, who was found on the sidewalk in front of his home at 1715 South Lehigh street, yesterday.

His jugular vein was severed and the police found evidence of a struggle in the front room of his home. The Mowbray woman is said to have been the common-law wife. Police expect to arrest other persons who were in the "party."

GASLESS SUNDAY BROKEN BY TRICK Doctors' Green Flag Improperly Used Fuel Administration Hears INQUIRY WILL BE MADE Lansdowne Crowd Damages Car Driven to Church by E. Wager-Smith Persons in Philadelphia and throughout the State are abusing the privileges of the "gasless Sunday" by placing green flags, according to reports made to the fuel administration today.

An investigation will be made at once to determine whether there is any truth in the reports. According to E. L. Cole, director of conservation, a large number of automobiles carrying women and children as passengers and flying the physicians' green flag were in use yesterday. In a statement this afternoon issued, holders of the city and the state were asked to refrain from starting either heater or kitchen fires until the "proper date" shall be announced by the Fuel Administration.

Modification of the restrictions on elevator operation will probably be made within a few days. Instead of keeping one in every five elevators idle, changes will be made in the operating time and it may be decided to keep only two elevators in every eight idle.

The corner of Baltimore avenue and Lansdowne also until early today told the story of the result of at least one violation of the "gasless" Sunday request of the fuel administration. Mr. and Mrs. E. Wager-Smith rode to services at the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John in the handsome sedan, but they went home in a humbler car.

While the Wager-Smiths, who live at Marshall road and Weymouth avenue, Lansdowne, were in the church a crowd of at least 100 Lansdowne residents crowded the gasoline tank and filled it with water, jabbled the tires with knives and let the air out of them, and later, when Mr. Wager-Smith protested, pelted the car with garbage.

Mr. Wager-Smith declared he intended to sue the crowd of Lansdowne for the price of the damage to his car. He could not be located today, having left his home early without saying where he was going. He was a stout, middle-aged man, but they went home in a humbler car.

Friend Escapes Ducting Charles E. Evans, 347 Owens avenue, barely escaped a ducking when he befriended the Wager-Smiths, offering $100 reward for the name of the "perpetrator of the outrage."

Mr. Wager-Smith telephoned to his son to bring another car to haul the battered one home, but it couldn't be done. The crowd refused to permit them to put the car in the rectory yard, so the Wager-Smiths rode home in the smaller car.

Mr. Wager-Smith is a wealthy contractor, and has two sons, Richard and Daniel. Mrs. Wager-Smith is a member of the Pennsylvania Council of National Defense and is active in Red Cross work and other war activities. Richard has been naval service, and was on board the wrecked steamer Tippecanoe.

TO BE ARMY STENOGRAPHERS Philadelphia Today Sends Fifteen to Fort Slocum One hundred and fifty stenographers drafted for the army left for Fort Slocum today from various parts of Pennsylvania. Except for Philadelphia District No. 20, which sent fifteen, about three-fourths of the districts only sent one man.

Wednesday 300 colored men, mainly from Allegheny County, will go to Camp Upton. Next Monday 1500 limited-service men will go to Fort Thomas. The big October calls are now being arranged.

DAVIS TRIAL POSTPONED Lawyer Accused in Army Desertion Case Ill in Hospital For the second time in the last two months illness prevented A. B. Gordon Davis, an attorney with offices in the Real Estate Building, from facing trial on the charge of inducing a soldier to desert the United States army. Davis' trial was scheduled for today before Judge Dickinson in the United States District Court. When the case was called a physician from the Pennsylvania Hospital took the stand and announced the defendant was seriously ill of heart trouble in that institution and may not recover. The case was postponed indefinitely.

MILK COMPANIES HERE MAY UNITE Labor Shortage Likely to Make Consolidation of Concerns Necessary Milk companies in this city may be compelled to consolidate by the shortage of man-power, according to a statement issued by E. E. Stevens, agricultural director of the State Chamber of Commerce.

It is asserted that the situation calls for immediate action on the part of the big milk distributors. In addition it is hinted, the Government may see fit to step in and force the merger through. According to the Stevens statement, the directors of the State Chamber of Commerce have been conducting an inquiry throughout the State as to the best plan of increasing efficiency and reducing cost of milk distribution, especially in the large cities.

The farmers are declared to be back of the suggestion of present competitive methods, which involve duplication of overhead expenses in connection with pasteurizing plants, receiving and loading equipment for milk stations and delivery routes. These are declared to add greatly to the consumers' milk bills while seriously reducing the margin of profit for the farmer.

NEW LOAN DRIVE GETS START HERE Artistic Posters Calling Attention to Campaign Cover City RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS Philadelphia District's Quota Is $500,000,000—Campaign Proper Opens Saturday

LOAN RACE WITH GERMANY Germany's ninth "Victory" loan campaign opened today. In just five more days America's fourth Liberty Loan drive will start. The people of the two countries will be engaged in another contest to see whether "Victory" or "Liberty" will succeed.

Philadelphia began today to give the fourth Liberty Loan campaign a running start for the opening next Saturday morning. Eight thousand posters, designed by some of the country's best artists, already cover the city and banks and trust companies have begun receiving subscriptions, allowing interest on the payments at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent up to the date of the issue of the bonds, October 24.

Full realization of the task the Liberty Loan workers have before them has been made clear by the committee in Philadelphia. The district must make purchases of $22,222,222 a day—nearly three times the amount of the third loan—in order to pay the debt of the Government.

The quota for this district is equivalent to at least one-fourth of the amount of the first Liberty Loan, and two and a half times the amount of all the bonds bought by the entire country to finance the Spanish-American war twenty years ago.

Pageant to be Elaborate The pageant which will open the drive Saturday will be one of the most unusual, elaborate and educational ever attempted in the streets of Philadelphia. Arrangements for the float division, the most important, are nearly complete.

An army supply truck will be in line with signs advising that it cost $4000 and the money of the loan is needed to buy more like it. Many prospective purchasers of bonds of the fourth loan have bought and are buying Treasury certificates of indebtedness sold in anticipation of the floating of the fourth loan. These certificates are sold by bill for the only money Federal Reserve banks to the national and State banks, and they are being resold by the banks to their customers and others in preparation for the loan. The holder of the Treasury certificates can convert them into fourth Liberty Loan bonds and receive 4 1/2 per cent interest on the certificates until they are converted into bonds.

Announcement Today Announcement of the amount and maturity date of the fourth Liberty Loan is expected to be made today, when Secretary McAdoo will deliver what is thought will be his only speech during the coming campaign. This will be at a meeting of the newspaper editors of the eastern section of the country in Carnegie Hall, New York.

Passenger to Speak E. Percy Passmore, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, and chairman of the Third Federal Reserve District Liberty Loan committee, will address the Germantown Liberty Loan workers at a public meeting in the Germantown Y. MIDVALE TO AID WORKERS' UNION Steel Corporation Recognizes Right of Employees to Organize REVERSES OLD POLICY Lukens Company Falls in Line With President Wilson's Mutual-Voice Suggestion

Recognition of the right of wage earners to bargain collectively and to organize has been made by the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company and the Lukens Steel Company for years strongholds of unionism labor. Not only are the rights of the men admitted, but the companies will assist them to form an organization, and to arrange for a plan of representation by the employees that shall be thoroughly democratic and entirely free from interference by the company or any official or agent thereof.

Announcement of this most revolutionary step in the history of the Midvale company is made in a statement by the president, A. C. Dimley. His statement included workers of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company plant at Middletown, employees of the Edgelyton Rifle Company, and of the Cambria Steel Company in Johnstown. The announcement was taken in accordance with President Wilson's suggestion that the workers should have a say with the owners of the business they help to produce.

Recognition of the men follows announcement of the production of a million Enfield rifles at the Edgelyton plant in a year. A celebration of this record will be held this afternoon, with Secretary of Navy Daniels and Acting Secretary of War Crowell as honor guests. The ceremonies will start at 3 o'clock, and all men and women who have helped make the record possible will attend.

Announcing Mr. Daniels, who will address the rifle-makers, will be Assistant Secretary Crowell, of the War Department; General William C. Williams, chief of the Ordnance Bureau and other notable army and navy men.

This Midvale company will be represented by William F. Corey, chairman of the board; Alvin C. Dimley, president, and Samuel M. Vaulain, a director, who was responsible for the erection of the Edgelyton plant.

All the employees of the Edgelyton plant will gather in a body at the scene of the exercises, which will begin at 3 o'clock.
