Smiling Father Kelley, of Meade, in Three Charges With 10th

HIS HAIR TURNS WHITE

Giant Clergyman Ministers to Wounded While Battle Raged

The Rev. Francis A. Kelley, of Albany, N. Y., who served as Camp Meade's first chaplain and director of Knights of Columbus activities, today figures in the war dispatches from the St. Quentin salient.

Father Kelley, a Hercules in stature and known in army circles as "Smiling Father Kelley," held close to his boys, according to the war dispatches, and actually went over the top three times in one day.

"He finished the day with his hair white," says the Associated Press correspondent.

Knowing the wishes of his men and fellow officers, the priest was on the firing line for hours, ministering to the badly wounded.

Father Kelley is known to thousands of Philadelphians who were in the advance guard of soldiers to arrive in Meade. As chaplain of the Tenth New York Infantry, he was camp commander for several weeks and relinquished his position when his regiment left for France in October, last year.

At Camp Meade

The Tenth was at Meade and doing guard duty until the soldiers from this city and other points in Pennsylvania were trained sufficiently to take over the work.

Standing at the dust-ridden station was a lone woman who had been fortunate enough to arrive in camp a half hour before the entrainment of the regiment.

"Maurer's case shows what we can do for crippled soldiers," said Miller, after he had found him a job. "We want more like him. We will find the jobs. We are making a special effort to place cripples."

Lieutenant Abt Back From Front Before Official Notice Arrives

While Second Lieutenant David M. Abt was at his home at Metuchen, N. J., on leave from a base hospital, a War Department telegram was received by his parents, announcing he had been severely wounded in action.

Although the officer was hit by a machine-gun bullet in an engagement on the Velle, August 7, his name did not appear in the casualty list until yesterday. He was sent to this country from a hospital in France last month.

Lieutenant Abt, describing some of the enemy's tactics, said they attached poisoned berries to clusters of growing plants in the territory over which they retreated.

Two more Lancaster boys have been reported severely wounded in action. They are Privates Jibosko Charles Nixdorf and Lloyd Walker. Both are comparative youngsters. The reports were received in War Department telegrams.

There is a general misunderstanding on the part of the public and the families of soldiers, sailors and marines of the working of the plan put into effect in July under which the War Risk Insurance Bureau now sends out only allotments to wives and children of the enlisted fighting men and the allowances are sent out from the War and Navy Departments.

NEW HOSTESS HOUSE OPENS AT CAMP LEE

Influenza Epidemic Delays Formal Presentation of Y. W. C. A. Building

Camp Lee, Va., Oct. 4

The branch hostess house of the Y. W. C. A. was opened at Eighth street, and camp last night. On account of the epidemic of influenza, formal ceremonies were postponed to a later date, when the building will be presented to the commanding general.

The building, though small, is of an attractive design and will serve a section of the camp, a mile or more from the main hostess house. A large porch, attractively screened, is to be enclosed in glass windows. A fireplace is also to be built in the porch. It is planned to have an orchestra concert every night and a piano is to be placed in the building. A cafeteria service will be installed. A secretary will be in charge at all times with volunteer workers during the busy hours.

An interesting social christening of the building was made last night, when Miss Edna Y. Knox became the bride of Paul R. Newman. Both of the parties are from Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Newman is in the noncom school. The ceremony, performed by Chaplain E. McLeod, was followed by a banquet in the cafeteria. The building was attractively decorated for the event.
