

ON ROLL OF HONOR

Philadelphia Youth Had Been Turned Down by Recruiting Officers

WETS IN BY DRAFT

Twelve City Soldiers Dead, Six of Whom Were Killed in Action

The complete casualty list given out by the War Department today will be found on page 11.

Rejected by the army, navy and marine corps, not only once, but on three attempts to enlist in each, Private Raymond W. Platt was drafted by local board No. 24, inducted into the National Army, sent to the firing line, and now lies in a French hospital severely wounded.

The combined casualty lists for this city and district for the last forty-eight weeks give the largest total this section has ever had for a similar period.

All told, 1776 names are on the three lists, including 228 from Pennsylvania.

There are seventy-four soldiers from Philadelphia and its vicinity named on the three lists, eight from this city having been killed in action, one having died of wounds, four from disease and one having been killed in the trenches.

Twenty-eight from nearby points are included in the total.

The list released for this morning's papers contains 876 names, including 67 from Pennsylvania; the afternoon numbers list another 111 names, including 11 from Pennsylvania.

Private Platt tried his best to get into the "big game," as he called it, making his first attempt shortly after this country declared war on Germany.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

When he was drafted he claimed no exemption and made no mention of his previous failures to pass the doctors.

Profiling by his former experience he managed to slide by the examining officers at his draft board and set out joyfully for Camp Meade.

NO CLASSIFIED STATE PROOPER BY GRIP EPIDEMIC AND NURSE DEAD

Death Tolls in Army, Navy, Church, Medicine and Finance

LT. J. T. EDWARDS DIES

Influenza Claims Number of City's Prominent Men as Victims in Last 24 Hours

The army, the navy, the church, medicine and finance are represented in the list of prominent residents of the city claimed by epidemic influenza in the last twenty-four hours.

Senior Lieutenant Joseph F. Edwards, son of Mrs. Rosalie C. Edwards, 2118 Locust street, died late yesterday in New York of double pneumonia following influenza.

He was commissioned in the construction corps of the navy about eight months ago and was stationed in New York. His mother and his wife, who was Miss Marie Able, of Baltimore, were with him when he died.

He was taken ill a week ago and early in the week pneumonia developed. He died at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

He was a brother of Lieutenant Commander W. Allen Edwards, member of Admiral Sims' staff and now on foreign service, and of First Lieutenant R. Baldwin Edwards, who is in France with the engineering corps under Major General Atherton. He was a cousin of First Lieutenant George E. Peterson, of the 31st Infantry, and of First Lieutenant Wilfred E. Fisher, of the medical corps, who recently awarded the Croix de Guerre for bravery under fire.

Graduate of De Lancy School

Lieutenant Edwards was graduated by De Lancy School and Fordham University. His education was completed in this city, where he was connected with Henry & West, bankers and brokers of this city, and later with the Pont Powder Company, at Wilmington, Del. He was widely known in the technical circles and contemplated entering grand opera.

He was the son of the late Dr. Joseph P. Edwards, a widely known sanitary expert of this city, who died about twenty years ago, and of Mrs. Edwards, who was Miss Rosalie Combs. He was the grandson of the late George W. Edwards, who was a member of the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroad.

He is survived by a widow and three children, who are now at their summer home at Bayshore, N. J.

Funeral services will be held in St. Patrick's Catholic Cathedral, New York, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The casket will be in the New Catholic Cemetery, Darby.

German Town Deaths

Dr. English Dallam, Jr., Wisconsin avenue and Stafford street, Germantown, died yesterday of pneumonia developing from influenza. He is survived by his widow, who is in France with the National Army, and a daughter and a son.

The funeral will be held Wednesday.

Mr. Dallam was a graduate of the Germantown Academy and the University of Pennsylvania, class of 1907. He was associated with his father in the manufacture of machinery and was president of the Manufacturers' Club and the Union League.

Mr. Francis Polley is dead at her home, 124 Locust avenue, Germantown, and her husband, Irvin Polley, an instructor at the Germantown Friends School, is seriously ill.

Private Kelly was born in Scotland and came to this country in 1905. He was a member of the National Army and was wounded in action during the capture of Cambrai, in the summer of last year, but was turned down after two months' trial. He then enlisted in the First Regiment, N. G. P., was trained at Camp Hancock and sent to the front in the 10th Infantry, where he was killed in action.

Private Albert Montomery, wounded in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Corporal W. E. Shieneman, wounded, died for an officer's commission at the Fort Niagara training camp in the summer of last year, but was turned down after two months' trial. He then enlisted in the First Regiment, N. G. P., was trained at Camp Hancock and sent to the front in the 10th Infantry, where he was killed in action.

Private Phillip G. McDowell, died in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Edward J. Kearney, reported as wounded in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Phillip G. McDowell, died in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Edward J. Kearney, reported as wounded in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Phillip G. McDowell, died in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Edward J. Kearney, reported as wounded in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Phillip G. McDowell, died in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Edward J. Kearney, reported as wounded in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Phillip G. McDowell, died in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Edward J. Kearney, reported as wounded in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Phillip G. McDowell, died in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

Private Edward J. Kearney, reported as wounded in action, formerly lived at 1927 Summer street. That block has been torn down, however, to make room for the parking space for the young soldier's family has been compelled to move to "somewhere in West Philadelphia."

WOMEN CHEERED BY LOAN ADVANCE

Nearly $2,000,000 in Subscriptions Send Total Over $25,000,000

Reports from district chairman of the women's Liberty Loan committee were encouraging today, though the total still does not reach the amount they would like.

Mrs. W. B. Gurley, chairman of the Germantown district, reported that her district had already subscribed more than $2,000,000, almost as much as it subscribed during the entire four weeks of the third loan drive, when $2,000,000 was raised.

Mrs. E. Johnson Altemus was jubilant over the fact that $16,200 in the district of Falls of Schuylkill was raised Friday night in the "Wakes Up, Philadelphia" drive. Door bells were rung and personal solicitation resulted in obtaining this amount.

Mrs. George Dallas Dixon, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad women's war relief committee, reported $290 taken in through the Broad Street Station booths, in charge of Mrs. A. J. County. Mrs. George W. Boyd was in charge Saturday, when $12,000 was obtained.

Friday, when $100,000 was subscribed by the Philadelphia Electric Company through Mrs. Joseph B. McCall. This makes the Pennsylvania Railroad committee a grand total to date of $1,929,950.

New Century Club

The New Century Club has turned in $24,500 worth of subscriptions.

Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury reported that in addition to the $25,000 raised through the continuation school pupils at the Curtis Publishing Company, $5000 has been turned in by the Beck Engraving Company. These subscriptions were given through David Unterberger, who attends the McCall Continuation School.

Shellegrams are still popular at the Liberty State booth. Every day dozens of "messages to the Kaiser" are given in at the booth and sent to the Frankfort Arsenal, where they are engraved on machine-gun shells.

Bloomed Girls Assist

A group of bloomed girls employed from the Arsenal assisted at the Liberty State booth Saturday. The total amount received for the day from all the booths managed by Emergency Aid aides was $185,650.

In one evening the booth in front of Bailey, Banks & Biddle, "manned" by members of the Truhart Auxiliary of the Red Cross, obtained $17,700 in subscriptions.

Mrs. Walter S. Thomson, chairman of the women's Liberty Loan committee, who expected to be at her post in the Lincoln building again this morning, was kept at her home by a doctor's order. She had been ill more than a week, but her interest in the campaign has not flagged and each day she has sent a cheering and inspiring message to her workers.

Members of the men's committee of the Liberty Loan have so appreciated the efforts of Mrs. Thomson in this, as well as previous campaigns, that they subscribed $10,000 through the artists' quarters on the Bellevue-Stratford roof, with the request that Mrs. Thomson's portrait be painted by Leopold Seyffert. Mrs. Thomson expects to pose as soon as her health permits.

Priest's Mother Breaks Neck on Stairs

Mrs. Mary Healey, sixty-three years old, died today of a fractured skull and broken neck, after falling from a second-story window at her home, 1215 Chestnut street, when she was carrying a bundle of laundry.

Mrs. Healey was the mother of the Rev. Thomas Healey, who recently became pastor of the Catholic Church at 1215 Chestnut street. Her husband, Thomas Healey, was assistant pastor of Holy Trinity church.

Wife of Lieutenant Fair-service Tried to Save One of Men

An early morning train from western Pennsylvania today brought the body of Mrs. Virginia Fair-service, a former Philadelphia girl, who died early Saturday morning in the Beaver Valley General Hospital. She is the tenth Philadelphia woman to sacrifice her life while attending influenza patients.

Mrs. Fair-service contracted pneumonia while nursing a member of the State constabulary. Her patient, Joseph Malloy, member of the detachment at Junction Park, told the young woman to leave him and protect herself against influenza, but determined to "see him through," she stuck until attacked by the disease. Early Saturday morning she died. She leaves a husband and a young son. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

WOMEN CHEERED BY LOAN ADVANCE

Nearly $2,000,000 in Subscriptions Send Total Over $25,000,000

Reports from district chairman of the women's Liberty Loan committee were encouraging today, though the total still does not reach the amount they would like.

Mrs. W. B. Gurley, chairman of the Germantown district, reported that her district had already subscribed more than $2,000,000, almost as much as it subscribed during the entire four weeks of the third loan drive, when $2,000,000 was raised.

Mrs. E. Johnson Altemus was jubilant over the fact that $16,200 in the district of Falls of Schuylkill was raised Friday night in the "Wakes Up, Philadelphia" drive. Door bells were rung and personal solicitation resulted in obtaining this amount.

Mrs. George Dallas Dixon, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad women's war relief committee, reported $290 taken in through the Broad Street Station booths, in charge of Mrs. A. J. County. Mrs. George W. Boyd was in charge Saturday, when $12,000 was obtained.

Friday, when $100,000 was subscribed by the Philadelphia Electric Company through Mrs. Joseph B. McCall. This makes the Pennsylvania Railroad committee a grand total to date of $1,929,950.

New Century Club

The New Century Club has turned in $24,500 worth of subscriptions.

Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury reported that in addition to the $25,000 raised through the continuation school pupils at the Curtis Publishing Company, $5000 has been turned in by the Beck Engraving Company. These subscriptions were given through David Unterberger, who attends the McCall Continuation School.

Shellegrams are still popular at the Liberty State booth. Every day dozens of "messages to the Kaiser" are given in at the booth and sent to the Frankfort Arsenal, where they are engraved on machine-gun shells.

Bloomed Girls Assist

A group of bloomed girls employed from the Arsenal assisted at the Liberty State booth Saturday. The total amount received for the day from all the booths managed by Emergency Aid aides was $185,650.

In one evening the booth in front of Bailey, Banks & Biddle, "manned" by members of the Truhart Auxiliary of the Red Cross, obtained $17,700 in subscriptions.

Mrs. Walter S. Thomson, chairman of the women's Liberty Loan committee, who expected to be at her post in the Lincoln building again this morning, was kept at her home by a doctor's order. She had been ill more than a week, but her interest in the campaign has not flagged and each day she has sent a cheering and inspiring message to her workers.

Members of the men's committee of the Liberty Loan have so appreciated the efforts of Mrs. Thomson in this, as well as previous campaigns, that they subscribed $10,000 through the artists' quarters on the Bellevue-Stratford roof, with the request that Mrs. Thomson's portrait be painted by Leopold Seyffert. Mrs. Thomson expects to pose as soon as her health permits.

Priest's Mother Breaks Neck on Stairs

Mrs. Mary Healey, sixty-three years old, died today of a fractured skull and broken neck, after falling from a second-story window at her home, 1215 Chestnut street, when she was carrying a bundle of laundry.

Mrs. Healey was the mother of the Rev. Thomas Healey, who recently became pastor of the Catholic Church at 1215 Chestnut street. Her husband, Thomas Healey, was assistant pastor of Holy Trinity church.

Wife of Lieutenant Fair-service Tried to Save One of Men

An early morning train from western Pennsylvania today brought the body of Mrs. Virginia Fair-service, a former Philadelphia girl, who died early Saturday morning in the Beaver Valley General Hospital. She is the tenth Philadelphia woman to sacrifice her life while attending influenza patients.

Mrs. Fair-service contracted pneumonia while nursing a member of the State constabulary. Her patient, Joseph Malloy, member of the detachment at Junction Park, told the young woman to leave him and protect herself against influenza, but determined to "see him through," she stuck until attacked by the disease. Early Saturday morning she died. She leaves a husband and a young son. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fair-service will be remembered in this city as Miss Virginia E. Green, of Overbrook. She was twenty-two years old and eighteen months ago married Lieutenant Richard H. Fair-service, of the State police. Her body will be placed in a receiving vault at Fernwood Cemetery.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1918