VICTIM OF OVERWORK Eighteenth Plant on Delawar River at Delanco, N. J.

Remained on Bench Many Months Despite Failing
Health

Devotion to duty is declared to have been the primary cause of the death of Judge Bernard Glipin, of the Municipal Court, who succumbed yesterday at his home, 2924 Spruce street, after an filness of four wagels.

He had not been in health for the last nine months, but continued his work on the bench because of the absence of two other judges, Raymond MacNellie, who was ill, and William T. Wheeler, under indictment.

He collapsed a month ago while teaching Sunday school.
