A Lower-Priced Shoe Store That Welcomes All the Family

It is a shoe store so big that it covers half the Chestnut street end of this big Down Stairs Store. And it is busy early and late smoothing people's paths and sending them light-footedly along life's highway.

Wee brother, big sister, mother, father and even grand-dad can be fitted here in the shoes best suited to their needs. And the best part of it all is that the prices never startle you. It isn't a case of "which shall I have, a coat or a pair of shoes?" for both can be had—and a hat besides, mayhap—when you come a-shopping in the Down Stairs Store.

Women's Shoes Begin at $2.85 for patent leather shoes with cloth or leather tops.

At $4.90 there are black kidskin shoes of many sorts, including plenty of the common-sense lasts for women much on their feet.
At $5.40, good laced shoes of dark tan or black calfskin.
At $5.75, brown kidskin with ivory tops and gray with fawn tops.
At $5.90, plain black kidskin shoes, shoes of dark tan calfskin with lighter tops of leather much like buck; also shoes made entirely of gray leather, resembling buckskin.

Men's Shoes Are $4.25 to $5.40

This includes shoes of black kidskin and of black or tan leather of heavier weights. They are all cut on good lines and have soles heavy enough for service. Both English and wide toe-shapes.
