Dorothia Bigelow, now playing in "Maytime" at the Shubert, confeques that she is more stagestruch today, after several months of experience, than when she first made her debut. "It is really terrible to be so stagestruck," declared Miss Bigelow.

"This is my first professional engagement, and I certainly am a strong believer in keeping up the enthustasm after the excitement of the first plunge subsides, which is but another way of saying that the actress who goes about her work in a bread-and-butter spirit cannot hope to fulfill any great place on the stage.

We find ourselves taking so prominent a part may give the needed impetus, a fine that truly great at which is born only of the angulish and suffering of a whole people. However, the war will let down the bars to might wait long for a hearing.

If OUR local chamber music society has not completed its programs for the scason, there is a new trio recently formed to New York which would be well worth a hearing. The organization of the stage.
