CAMP DIX PREPARES FOR VISIT FROM BAKER

Secretary to Take Part in Dedication of Salvation Army Hotel

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger

Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., Nov. 20.

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker will arrive at Dix about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning as far as is known now, but until definite words is received as to length of time he is to remain here no program will be outlined by Major General Hugh L. Scott, the camp commander.

The Secretary will take part in the dedication of the $100,000 Salvation Army hotel at Wrightstown at which Major General Scott and high Salvation Army officials are to take part and 5000 doughnuts are to be distributed to the guests.

Among the speakers will be Commander Evangeline Booth, Colonel William McIntyre, who designed the hotel; George Gordon Battle, of New York, head of the Salvation Army welfare committee; W. M. Bardy, president of the New York Railway Company, and others. The closing address will be made by Secretary Baker.

Following the dedication exercises it is likely that the Secretary will be the guest of General Scott at luncheon and afterward on a tour of the camp.

The future of Camp Dix is now the matter of discussion among army officers and those who are interested in the country's program in the years to come in order that the nation might at all times be prepared for any emergencies that might arise.

Three things stand out prominently at Dix, and Major General Hugh L. Scott, camp commander and former chief of staff of the American army, is one of those who, knowing the results obtained believe that Dix should and will be selected as a permanent military post and a center of universal military training. The three features are the advantages accruing through the intermingling of all classes and the resultant good for the foreign-speaking men; the Americanization of foreigners and the physical upbuilding of the American manhood.

"The location of Camp Dix, midway between the great seaboard metropolises of New York and Philadelphia, where military chiefs have long recognized the need for a permanent military post, also makes it a logical site for the use of the youths of this and other nearby States," said General Scott. "Its location and terrain make it the healthiest of cantonments, and its situation enables the Government to absolutely control the conditions in surrounding towns and thus protect the morals of the men in training, a big problem where there are thousands of soldiers."
