also flew bunting, but only the Stars and Stripes and Alsatian colors. The Alsatians put a stop to ties, demanding that whoever refused to fly the French tricolor should fly no flags whatever. A former German officer, the owner of a hardware establishment, summoned to comply with this demand, hastily drew in the American and Alsatian colors. Automobiles arrived with officers in placement without delay. An appeal was made to Lord Klichener who refused to divert one rifle or one cartridge from the European front.

Lord Harcourt said that he searched the world for nearly a week and ultimately found the weapons required in a friendly country. A ship was dispatched from England loaded with arms and ammunition and sent to Cape Town. It reached its destination in sixteen and ammunition and sent to Cape Town. It reached its destination in sixteen days and the most critical period ever experienced by the Union of South Africa was virtually over.

Lord Harcourt, who was formerly Colonial Secretary, said that immediately after the British ultimatum to Germany expired at midnight. August 4, 1914, he had capiled the faul to the whole Rupert Sargent Hollande is sure lished this year, is an authentic history in narrative form of forty fa-mous Indian chiefs. And don't overlook the Washington Square Classics, a series of books for young people beautifully illustrated in color.

THE common expression "Artiste" are born, not made" is particularly true of the rug weavers of the Orient, where the average worker, though of primitive simplicity and virtually no education, produces wonderful combinations of colors. But while the rugs are artistic, they are not all of the same cuality, every district making different grades, from the best to the poorest. The mere name is no guarferent grades, from the best to the poorest. The mere name is no guarantee of excellence, and unless hought from a reliable firm there is high probability of being "taken in." At Fritz & La Rue. 1124 Chestnut street, there is an exceptional selection of Oriental rugs, surpassing anything in the city, and selling for at least 25 per cent less than elsewhere. Being experts, all rugs are as represented and inspection and comparison are invited. comparison are invited.

Come in and see our goodles, Thanksgiving is very nigh!

HAVE you seen the stunning baskets of fruit at Henry R. Hallowell & Sons, Broad below Chestnut street? They are always dreams of beauty, but in these for Thanksgiving they have really surpassed themselves, and for gifts or decorating the family dinner table nothing could be handsomer. The baskets (of which there is the largest assortment in town) are mostly Japanese or Chinese, unique in shape and design, many being hand painted. When filled with the choicest and most luscious of fruits the harmony of colors is so perfect none can tell where nature ends and art begins. According to size, they hold different quantities of appies, delicious pears, grapefruits, grapes, pineapples, tangerines and Florida oranges. These and hosts of other fruits can also be bought there loose.
