SALOON MEN HERE TO TEST "DRY" LAW

Philadelphia to Lead Fight Against Country-wide Prohibition

Liquor interests of the country have decided to test the constitutionality of the prohibition measure just signed by President Wilson and have selected the Philadelphia Retail Liquor Dealers' Association to inaugurate the legal battle. The bill makes the nation bone dry after July 1 next unless American troops now in France shall have been demobilized.

The fight was decided upon yesterday at the annual meeting of the Philadelphia association. Neil Bonner, president of the local dealers, was empowered to appoint a committee to employ such lawyers as may be necessary and to take any other steps.

Who will compose the legal battery has not been determined and will not be definitely decided until after consultation with representatives of the retail liquor interests of other States.

"With the brewers and distillers virtually out of business, we retail dealers have felt that it was high time for us to be up and stirring to protect our investments," said Mr. Bonner today. "We shall employ the very ablest counsel to be hired. We understand that the retailers in other States will join in the movement to test the constitutionality of the law just passed."

"I have not yet made up the committee which will have the conduct of our fight against the prohibition measure. Within the next few days I shall announce it. The selection of counsel will be made as soon as possible."

DUMPS COAL IN SEWER

Fuel for Restaurant Dropped Into Wrong Hole in Pavement

It grew increasingly colder last night in the Horn & Hardart restaurant on Eighth street below Chestnut and the manager finally telephoned to another branch eating house. The branch promised to send the coal at once. Time passed and no coal arrived in the cellar. More telephoning.

"But we sent four big tons of coal a little while ago," was the reply. Investigation developed there are two coal holes or what look like coal holes in front of the Eighth street place. One leads into the cellar, the other connects with a sewer.

GET BUTCHER'S GOAT

Dealers Fined for Selling It as Lamb—Other Prosecutions

Fines were imposed today on twenty-one alleged violators of the pure-food laws by Magistrate Beaton at his office, 1025 Spring Garden street.

Robert M. Simmers, special agent of the State dairy and food commission, who made the arrests, announced he will begin a crusade against violators of the cold-storage act of 1913, requiring all cold-storage products to be so marked when offered for sale.

The defendants today were accused of various infractions of the pure-food laws, ranging from the sale of goat meat for lamb and mutton to the use of saccharine for sugar in soft drinks.

ASK SLOW CHANGE TO PEACE TRADING

Two Associations Request Government Not to Cancel Contracts Abruptly

WANT PRICES KEPT UP

Credit and Hosiery Men Appeal for Careful Readjustment of Business

Two national trade associations have appealed to the Federal Government not to cancel war contracts abruptly. One also asks that there be no summary lowering of commodity prices, fearing disruption of business.

The appeals to continue war contracts until they are completed have been made by the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, which has its headquarters in this city, and the Council of Credit Defense of the National Association of Credit Men.

The credit men ask that present prices be continued to a gradual readjustment; industry be permitted to participate in the readjustment, and that credits be kept liquid by substituting negotiable instruments for open accounts.

The hosierymen have acted in anticipation of a general stopping of work on textile contracts for the Government. A resolution forwarded to the Secretary of War, Secretary of the Treasury and the war industries board urges:

"That the proper authorities give immediate consideration to the question of public interest here involved, and that these contracts be continued until their completion, to the end that these workers may not be thrown out of employment, and that manufacturers may, while thus engaged in the completion of Government contracts, be enabled to divert their product to ordinary and normal civilian goods."

"It was the sense of the meeting that there would be enough people out of employment in the next two months from the shutdown of munition plants without augmenting their ranks with textile workers, who are working on useful articles and that if there was to be prosperity in this country in the next year, the purchasing power of the public must not be curtailed too drastically."

It will be the purpose of the credit men, as announced by J. H. Tregoe, secretary-treasurer of the association, to secure for this program not only the endorsement and co-operation of the 25,000 members of the association, but to impress the conclusions reached upon the business men of the country and the Government authorities.

"It is primarily essential that the Government shall not at this time abruptly terminate Government contracts upon which the larger percentage of our industrial resources has been concentrated and which would merely serve to disrupt the co-ordination between capital and labor so splendidly achieved for the prosecution of the war," said Mr. Tregoe.

"It is essential that the transition from a war to a peace basis, in so far as Government contracts are concerned, be accomplished in orderly and methodical fashion and without undue haste."

The Credit Men believe that the Government recognized this need and will be guided by these considerations.

"The second conclusion reached is that the prices of commodities be not suddenly lowered, that the stocks of merchandise are in no sense excessive except those accumulated solely for war purposes and that there is every reason why, with the demands to be made upon us from abroad, prices should not decline to a pre-war basis; that would bring disorder and distress, if too suddenly achieved."

HEAR THIS SORRY CAT TALE OF OSWALD, PEG AND ANDY

They Were Happy for a While, but Kitty's Health Failed. She Languished and Died—Wicked Negro Stole Her and Coffin

The poor little kitty of Oswald Huldin died.

Oswald is a cobbler. He is a good, kind man. The kitten wandered onto the step of his shoe shop near Tenth and South streets one night when it was raining. That was many months ago.

Oswald dried kitty and gave her some crackers and milk. She cried a long time because everything was so awful strange.

The kitten began to like Oswald. She used to play with the pegs on his bench while he mended the shoes, so Oswald called her Peggy.

Peggy got lost the other day. Oswald found her wandering on Lombard street. She looked awful tired and thin. The kitty was glad to see Oswald and meowed constantly to show how fond she was of her master.

Oswald put Peggy in her little bed in the soap box in the corner of the shop. When he gave her crackers and milk she looked sadly at him and did not touch the food. Poor Peggy began to get thinner each day.

Oswald missed her greatly when he worked at the bench. When she rubbed her fuzzy head against his arm he knew she was happy.

TALK GOODNOUGH FOR SPEAKER

Cameron County Man Mentioned for House Place

State Representative C. Jay Goodnough, of Cameron County, is the latest member of the House to be mentioned as a possibility for the speakership when the lower branch of the Legislature organizes in January.

Goodnough is a "dry" and is aligned with Protemore forces. He is entering on his third term as a member of the House.

The Cameron County man is engaged in the manufacture of pig iron and has held a number of offices in his home county, including probate judge, register of wills, recorder of deed and clerk of courts.

Other candidates mentioned prominently for the speakership are George W. Williams, of Toga; Robert S. Spangler, of York; and Anton B. Hess, of Lancaster. Hess is the only "wet" member whose candidacy has received any prominence.

BRUMBAUGH JOB STIRS PROTEST

Tener's Former Secretary Objects to Governor as State Historian

TAKES FORMAL ACTION

Files With Auditor General Snyder His Reasons for Demurring

Possible use of State funds to pay for a history of Pennsylvania's part in the great war, with Governor Brumbaugh as the munificently paid historian, has been protested by Walter H. Gaither, who was private secretary to Governor John K. Tener.

There has been little concealment about the impending appointment of a State historian. The choice is to be made by the committee of safety and defense, which is fortified by a $2,000,000 appropriation for purposes of defense.

Governor Brumbaugh is chairman of the committee. The proposition, therefore, narrows down to the selection of Brumbaugh as State historian by a body which he heads. The post, at a salary of $10,000 annually, the amount he receives as Governor, would be quite unattractive to him, when his gubernatorial term expires in January.

It is also regarded as likely that William H. Ball, the Governor's secretary, would be appointed as collaborator in the preparation of the history.

Gaither's protest was lodged with Auditor General Snyder, who is a member of the Committee of Safety and Defense. The other members, besides Brumbaugh, are Lieutenant Governor McClain, State Treasurer Kephart and Adjutant General Beary.

According to George Wharton Pepper, chairman of the Pennsylvania Council of National Defense, a war history commission appointed by him already has collected a wealth of data pertaining to this State's glorious record in the great war. All of the data has been filed for safekeeping with the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

STORE TO HONOR SERVICE MEN

Home Ties Club of Strawbridge & Clothier's Plans Reception

The Home Ties Club, an organization of all the employees of Strawbridge & Clothier, which has a systematic plan for keeping in touch with the store's men in the service of the United States, and their families, will give a Thanksgiving reception in honor of the boys next Wednesday evening.

The families of the store's soldier boys, and a company of sailors and marines, will have dinner in the French room of the store restaurant at 6-12, after which they will be conveyed by cars to the Metropolitan Opera House, where all the employees of the store will gather for a stirring victory celebration at eight o'clock. Prominent speakers have accepted invitations, and the Strawbridge & Clothier chorus, with a large orchestra, will render a program of patriotic selections.

The Prices on Our Finest Overcoats are LESS than those prevailing generally for the same High-grade Qualities today!

Part of the explanation lies in the fact that we kept ahead of the market in securing the fabrics; part of it lies in the fact that we marked the prices close.

There aren't any finer Overcoatings woven in America—and there isn't any finer workmanship possible than we have put into them.

There are rich beaver fabrics of soft silken finish, sound texture, distinguished patterns and colors.

There are rough, shaggy materials made for rough usage that will endure under the strain of the hardest wear, and will last till the cows come home.

There are double-breasted Overcoats in smart browns, quiet grays, dignified Ox-fords, and in in-between mixtures that lean a little to bluish or to greenish hues.

There are stately blacks in single-breasted models and fly fronts—Chesterfields, if you please—velvet-collared coats of fine, smooth finish fabrics that will grace a Sunday promenade.

And there are wonderful plaid-back fabrics, the backs of various patterns, the outside of the cloth in quiet colors that reflect both depth and warmth.

Crombies, Montagnacs, Worumbos combined with Perry "N. B. T." lines and workmanship—$65, $70, $75, $85.

We Will Renew Your Velvet Suit

Restoring all the original beauty to the fabric at a very moderate cost.
