Americans Going to Kiel With British Squadron

London, Nov. 25.—(By A. P.) The British squadron which will go to Kiel and Wilhelmshaven this week, it is understood in naval circles, will be commanded by Vice Admiral Montague Browning, who will be accompanied by American, French and Italian admirals. The purpose of the journey is to see that German vessels in those ports are properly disarmed. The squadron, it is reported, will comprise one battleship and a flotilla of destroyers.

By the Associated Press

London, Nov. 25.—A flotilla of minesweepers left the Firth of Forth this morning to escort a passage to Kiel for the British squadron, which it is understood, will disarm and intern the remnants of the German navy.

Harwich, England, Nov. 25.

In the presence of Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, twenty-eight more German U-boats surrendered yesterday. This was the most imposing flotilla to haul down the German flag thus far. It included several very large submarines and four of the cruiser type, one being nearly 350 feet in length.

Two Americans Aboard

When U-152 drew into the harbor two American officers stood on deck, shouting joyfully. They were Lieutenant Frank Miller, of Oakland, Cal., and Lieutenant Junius Pulcher, of Norfolk. They were on the merchant cruiser Ticonderoga, which was sunk by the U-152 on September 20, after a battle lasting twenty minutes. Miller was taken from a coastal lifeboat, while Pulcher, who had been wounded three times, was picked off a raft.

They were quartered with the officers of the submarine and reached Kiel from Harwich on November 15. Then the workmen and soldiers told them they were free.

"Tell my wife and baby Ruth 'hello' and that I am coming home as fast as possible," said Pulcher.

Pulcher said the Ticonderoga was hit twenty times by shells, three of which exploded in the engine room, before she went down.

"You're the first American we've seen in two months," declared Miller. He said they were treated well and had good food. In his opinion the Germans were genuinely glad that the revolution came.

The Germans gave Miller and Pulcher three cheers when the Americans left the submarine.

"You must write to us," shouted one of them.

Justify Lusitania Sinking
The Germans still justify the sinking of the Lusitania, because she had a munition aboard; she was given warning not to sail," declared Karl Ober, a machinist on one of the twenty-eight German submarines which surrendered here today.

Other members of the crews said they were ashamed of Germany's ruthlessness and many hoped to win back America's friendship.

"Say hello to my cousin, Helen Richter, of Chicago," said Eric Hagenstein, a rosy-cheeked lad of twenty-three, when he learned the correspondent was an American.

Wilhelm Mueller, a soldier and Workmen's representative, declared that Germany favored the revolution "a hundred per cent."

Carl Meier, formerly of Charleston, S. C., said America has again become popular in Germany since the revolution.

CHARLES FEARS BOLSHEVIK RULE

Former Emperor Pleads for Allies to Send Austria Food

SUFFERING IS GREAT

Deposed Monarch Declares Hunger Threatens to Bring Reign of Disorder

By the Associated Press

Vienna, Nov. 25.—(By A. P.) Charles I, former emperor of Austria and Hungary, issued today a plea for the Allies to send Austria food. He said that the suffering here will be very great within a few weeks. Indeed, it is already so and every day we do not use in the endeavor to get food is a day lost.

"We have some very good food and more cannot be done. If food and coal are not brought, we shall have disorder in Vienna. Possibly that disorder from Russia which we call Bolshevism will come. The people here are fine, kind and patient, but when any one is without food he is apt to do many unusual and violent things. Looking back, we may recall that Bolshevism started in Russia because of the lack of food. I think it is in the interest of the Allies to aid me, Bolshevism, when started, only spread and become a danger to the Allies too."

Always Worked for Peace
"Our soul and food situation is worse because of transportation conditions. The railroads became badly disorganized lately. I am very glad to see an American representative in a country which is always for peace. I have worked for peace always."

Regarding the future, I cannot speak of the past. I can only repeat that I feel I did my duty. However, I do hope that peace will bring good for us, happier days and a better understanding among all people."

During the process of the former monarch did not show bitterness toward the Allies or Austria because of their military victory, though it may be inferred that he is bitterly over his failure to preserve his empire intact. He said that the breaking up of the empire into small groups of nations is bound to bring economic and political disaster to all and that some sort of a central government is necessary for their common interests.

Charles Not Heavy Drinker
It was pointed out to the correspondent by officers at the castle that the former emperor's whole heart and mind had been centered on the work of assuring the welfare of the people. The only pleasure he has taken during the war has been to hunt for a few hours each week. He worked sixteen hours a day for long periods. He is said to be much hurt by stories which were circulated in England about his private life, especially drinkableness. As a matter of fact he drank only one glass of wine or beer at lunch and never drinks liquor at dinner.

Before the correspondent left, after half an hour's conversation, Charles invited if President Wilson was well. He expressed surprise when told that the President's hair had grown white since the United States entered the war, seeming himself to feel the undermining strain of the great conflict.

Met by Captain Serdak
As the correspondent entered the gates he was met by Captain Serdak and conducted through a lofty hall to the second story of the castle, where he was received by the former Emperor. Charles wore a general's uniform and was apparently vigorous, but lines about his blue eyes gave hints of the strain of recent days. He appeared to feel keenly the great tragedy that has come through the collapse of his empire, but he cordially greeted the correspondent, shaking hands with a strong, friendly grip.

Mentioning the correspondent to a chap by a center table and taking another himself, the former Emperor spoke first in English and then lapsed into French.

Urges Haste by Allies
"I authorize the Associated Press to say that not a single day should be lost by America and the Allies in helping the people here, so grave is the situation," he said. "During the war one of my preoccupations was the task of obtaining food for the soldiers and people, but now, notwithstanding all my

Red Leader's Attacks on Proposed National Assembly Meet Rebuffs

SEES ANARCHY SPREAD

Radical Predicts Bolshevism Will Flame at Once in Entire Nation

By the Associated Press

Berlin, Nov. 25.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the radical Socialist leader, is devoting himself primarily at present to an effort to influence the men returning from the front. His lieutenant comprise a small army of red soldiers who are accused of packing various meetings sufficiently to secure the majority necessary to push through resolutions and other measures calculated to embarrass the present Government.

Dr. Liebknecht's agitation in its entirety is the official propaganda of the Spartacus group of extreme radicals. He directly directs his attacks at the proposed national assembly. The indications so far, however, are that his effort to win over the returning soldiers has failed absolutely, and yesterday's meeting was marked by the violent opposition of soldiers who are declared to have been attracted to the meeting under false pretenses.

Appeals to Proletariat
The radical leader's oratory is forceful and vindictive. His principal appeal is to the proletariat.

"Did the bourgeoisie, while in power, permit you to have a voice in the Government?" he will ask. "No," he answers; "then the workingman must not allow it to have a say now. We need a Government of soldiers and workmen, one typical of the proletariat, which will not have to bow down before the Entente."

"There must be no hickering with Entente imperialism. We will dispose of that just as we did of the German emperor. The revolution is bound also to reach the Entente countries, but we, who made the Russians waste whole years, are demanding that the revolution

break out in England and France within twenty-four hours.

Emma Luxemburg is ably seconded by Philip Scheidemann. In Vorwärts, the Spartacus group meetings are invariably attended by numerous workers.

Philip Scheidemann, in Vorwärts, declares that the insecurity of the Government may be deduced from the undisturbed activity of the Spartacus faction. In their press their pamphlets and their meetings are endeavoring to win over the soldiers for Bolshevism."

The irony of the situation lies in the fact that the freedom of speech and of the press for which the Social Democrats have been clamoring now is proving the chief source of menace to the new Government.

Reds Accused of Robbery

An attempted robbery recently of 60,000 marks belonging to the treasury of Field Marshal von Mackensen's army is charged against members of the Spartacus faction. When the car containing the funds reached the railway station here a few days ago it was taken over by a detachment of red-badged soldiers, claiming to represent the Berlin Soldiers and Workmen's Government.

The funds had reached Berlin under a strong guard and the unexpected demand made upon the station crew caused suspicion and led to an investigation by secret service men. Notwithstanding apologies to the effect that a misunderstanding was responsible for the attempted seizure, the red guards were arrested and interned at police headquarters.

Von Mackensen's army now is on its way through Austria for Germany. Part of its baggage was sent in advance and the word of its coming apparently had leaked out.

Mackensen Reaches Berlin
Amsterdam, Nov. 25.—Field Marshal von Mackensen, the former German commander in Rumania, arrived in Berlin Thursday with his staff, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Ithorsh-Westphalian Gazette. The German troops returning with him met Czech-Slovak forces at Silesia, Moravia, and were unable to continue the journey by way of Oederberg and were forced to withdraw from Austria by way of Vienna and Passau.

Dance Fund for Soldiers "Smokes"

Proceeds of a dance given by "The Ardentes Tobacco Fund," a club consisting of fourteen girls, organized the latter part of last August will be devoted to buying "smokes" for service men overseas. The affair was held at Marton's, 1710 North Broad street, and through the hard work of every member and the undivided attention of Ethel Steinberg, president, and Eva Moser, secretary, the dance was a great success.
