Adventures With a Purse

FOUND TODAY A real little wardrobe trunk for a dollie. Golden yellow chrysanthemum plants.

Preparation to remove stains from the carpet.

BELIEVE that one of the most re-I markable toys I have ever seen is the wonderful little doll's wardrobe trunk be a boy or a girl. However, dear, men is Some of them just wonderful little doll's wardrobe trunk one of the shops is showing. It was open, standing on end when I saw it, and its height is, if I recall correctly, close to eighteen inches. The lid is fitted with four drawers and a large space for t hats, for all the world like a real grown-half has a rod, on which are three little "and provide trunk. And the bottom half has a rod, on which are three little "having a real wardrobe trunk for her i best doll. The remarkable part of it is that it is only $2.50.

A plant will do much to brighten a room, and, of course, if the plant should have flowers, its effect will be just so chrysanthemum plants, each with probably half a dozen chrysanthemums of golden yellow. And the price of these plants is only $1. I have good news for you! At last a great deal let the matter drop.

Dear Cynthia—This is my second cal u and if it is answered as astisfact the other I will certainly appreciat Dear Crintia-This is my second call on you and if it is answered as satisfactorily as the other I will certainly appreciate it. In March I met a young man who wince has taken me out two and three nights a week until July, when he went to a distant city. Before he left he asked and received permission to write. He was gone five weeks and I received no letter. When he returned he called the same as before and was as polite and courteous as any one could be, siving a good excuss for not writing while away. Two weeks he was home and then left again, promising to surely write, giving me his address of I might answer. That was August. Now it is November and I have received no letter from him. I have head of him from friends and know he is still in the same place. I have met bin twice during this time and each time, sevens side oses me above think to write The said one that it was the giving the or that the waiting for me to write The said one that it was the giving the first, but I may it is his. Which is right? I to the place of the one who goes and I feel as though I would like to thank them all personally: however as that is impossible I want to say thanks to them all through the medium of your splendid column. Christmas Gift Suggested

Dear Cynthia-Will you please tell me through the Evening Puning Language what would be the proper Christmas gift for a young man of twenty years to give to a young lady of the same age, having been ereing steady company since becoming ac quainted a month ago? B D B

R. D. R. A handsome box of bonbons or chocolates, a book, or flowers would be appropriate. On such a short acquaint-ance it would not do to give a more personal gift, unless you and the young girl intend to marry and you have al-ready spoken of it to her. In that case a piece of jewelry would be appropriate. R. D. R.
