The Christmas Spirit is Too Fine to Be Hoarded Up for One Day

How Do Things Look to You, Mr. Wanamaker? Is the Frequent Question

these days, since the Store remained closed that Monday morning when the peace star arose and we were too happy to do anything but to take a day off to celebrate.

Well-we have been celebrating ever since, and justly so, and our boys are coming homebless them—and never cease to bless them!

Now that our President has started off strong in his own judgment to hasten, to the best of his ability, the terms of peace assured by the armistice signed, and the surrenders of our enemies which have followed, let us cease to discuss the wisdom of his going away from the United States and only judge him by his acts henceforth.

As the President of the United States, we must stand by him and not impair his standing while he is conscientiously doing what he believes to be the best for our great nation.

This is no time for small politics. Let us faithfully take care of our own home work, and give President Wilson the chance to bring to proper conclusions what his brain and hand have planned.

Let us have peace at home and stop wrang-

It comes in a good assortment of light and dark colors, plenty of grays and various dainty striped effects.

A Great Many Fine Fur Coats for Women

First of all come the rich, plain coats of Hudson seal (dyed muskrat), which really are the most staple of all fur coats: These are mostly cut straight and loose in varying lengths and with shawl and muffler collars, and prices are $225 to $450.

The trimmed coats of Hudson seal (dyed muskrat) are 30 to 48 inches long and are made still more rich and novel by means of Australian opossum, mink, sable squirrel and skunk fur. Prices of these are $300 to $650.

Novelty coats include those of leopard, tiger cat combined with Hudson seal (dyed muskrat), nutria combined with taupe squirrel and others, at prices varying from $325 to $700.

Other street coats still are those of black ponyskin with dyed racoon trimming at $125 to $150; nutria coats at $200 to $450, and natural muskrat at $225 to $325. •

While coats for motor use are of hardy racoon, civet and other furs. (Second Floor, Chestnut)

Finding It In the China Store

THE China Store is a great big gift store in itself. Everything your eye lights on here possesses what one might call the gift quality.

Very many are gifts of real individuality.

Do you know that no two of these pottery bowls and vases are just alike: that as a matter of fact not one bowl or vase in the collection can be exactly duplicated? Not even the man who made it can make an exact reproduction of it in color and finish. That is due to the firing process through which all such pieces have to pass and out of which no two emerge exactly alike in glaze and shading. That surely means individuality with a capital 1.

We have a most attractive collection of these pottery vases at $2.50 to $25 each.

DOR sick people, who r breakfast in bed because they have to; for lucky people who do this because they don't have to do otherwise, and for good, lazy people who do it anyhow-a favorite and appropriate gift is an individual breakfast set, $5 to $20 a set. Of kindred attractiveness are afternoon tea sets for six people at $5 to $20 a set.

Good gifts also are chocolate sets, salad sets, berry sets, cake sets, ice-cream sets, coffee sets, chop sets, celery sets. The beautiful Pickard ware seems as if it were made specially for seekers after lovely gifts. Many utility pieces will be found in this group, rich in gold incrustations and patterns of fruit in natural colors-

$5 to $100 a piece. Individual China pieces are all gifts of a practical and inexpensive kind-cake plates, chop dishes, celery trays, sugar and cream sets, chocolate pots, teapots, coffee pots, bonbon dishes, cracker and cheese dishes.

Plates are a fine gift group in themselves-especially the richly decorated English and French service plates, not to speak of dinner plates, entree plates, dessert plates, bread and butter plates.

Tea cups and saucers are always welcome because always needed. Likewise bouillon cups and saucers and after-dinner cups and saucers in dozens and half-dozens. THEN the great substantial gift in china—a good dinner set, French. English or American. We show full assortments of sets of the finest qualities at moderate prices, $15 to
