

MAKING DELICIOUS DISHES FROM LEFT-OVERS—SHOULD BOYS STAY IN SCHOOL?—ANSWERS

MRS. WILSON GIVES TEN RECIPES TO HELP USE UP THE LEFT-OVERS

Piping Hot Soups and Delicious Luncheon Dishes From a Half Cupful of Spinach and a Bit of Beef

What Can Be Done With Four Tablespoonfuls of Peas to Help Reduce Cost of Table

Good Things to Come

Tomorrow Mrs. Wilson's second article on bread making will appear. In this, among others, will be recipes for the famous French loaf, for a Vienna loaf and for rye bread.

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

FREQUENTLY a housewife will write me: "I do wish you would tell me what to do with left-overs. Often I have just a few spoonfuls of this or that and I am at a loss to know how to utilize them so that there will be no waste."

The French housewife could tell you how to make fifty or more dishes with just a spoonful of this or that. Food has always been a real commodity in Europe, and the frugal housewife frequently must contrive a meal from things that we Americans throw away.

Puree of Pea Rub the peas through a sieve and add: One cupful of milk. One-half cupful of water.

Pea Souffle Place in a bowl One cupful of thick cream sauce and then rub Four tablespoonfuls of peas through a sieve.

Pea Pudding Put four tablespoonfuls of peas through a sieve and then place in a bowl and add One cupful of thick cream sauce.

Eminec of Beef One-half cupful of finely minced meat. One hard-boiled egg, minced fine.

Ask Mrs. Wilson Are you planning a Christmas Sunday school party and are you uncertain as to how much food in the raw to order for—say eighty-five persons? Then ask Mrs. Wilson.

Pea Waffles Put the peas through a sieve and then add One cupful of milk. One cupful of flour.

Pea Muffins Beat hard to mix and then bake in a hot waffle iron.

"A BIT O' THIS AND A BIT O' THAT"

A few spoonfuls of peas or a half cupful of spinach can be made into the most appetizing dishes, provided you know how to make use of them.

- One cupful of milk. One egg. One teaspoonful of salt. Two cupfuls of flour. Four teaspoonfuls of baking powder.

Beat to mix and then bake for twenty minutes in a well-greased muffin tin in a hot oven.

Left-overs from the cabbage family are harder to utilize than either peas, corn or asparagus.

Salt and pepper. One tablespoonful of finely minced onion. One tablespoonful of finely grated cheese.

Mix well and then cover with thick cream sauce. Sprinkle with fine breadcrumbs and then with two tablespoonfuls of finely grated cheese.

Spinach a la Bourgeois To one-half cupful of left-over spinach add One tablespoonful of grated onion.

One well-beaten egg. Five tablespoonfuls of fine bread crumbs. Mix and then pour into custard cups.

Puree of Spinach Alsace Rub one-half cupful of spinach through a sieve and then place in bowl and add One cupful of thick brown gravy.

One teaspoonful of salt. One-half teaspoonful of paprika. Two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese.

Five tablespoonfuls of fine bread crumbs. Mix and then pour into custard cups. Bake in a moderate oven eighteen minutes.

Eminec of Beef One-half cupful of finely minced meat. One hard-boiled egg, minced fine.

One cupful of thick cream sauce. One teaspoonful of salt. One-half teaspoonful of paprika.

One-half cupful of finely minced parsley. Mix and then heat to the boiling point. Scoop out the center of corn muffins and fill in the heated meat.

Place in the oven for ten minutes to heat. Garnish with finely minced parsley.

Has Your Heart Ached?

To the Editor of Woman's Page: Dear Madam—I am glad to call the attention of some of your kind readers who make such generous response through your column to a case so pitiful and so full of misfortune that it seems almost unbelievable.

There are nine children in the family, the eldest of whom is fifteen, and the father of all these children is confined to his bed with internal hemorrhages, which resulted from lead poisoning. He was stricken with this during the summer while mixing acids in an ammunition factory. The mother goes out working by the hour in the pitiful endeavor to keep food in her children's mouths. She is nursing a three-month-old baby and you can imagine what this must mean to her.

ONE WHO SAW THEM.

The Editor of the Woman's Page wishes to say this case was investigated and found to be exactly as represented, except, perhaps, that no printed words can do justice to the pathos of it.

It has been a very interesting thing in the fashion world, to see how quickly women took to evening dress, the minute the announcement came that the war was over.

Miss Perplexed

I AM going to answer the second question first, Miss Perplexed, because the answer to the first depends on it. There is just one trouble with your brother. He is unhappy because he is being made to learn the sort of things that don't interest him.

WHAT TO DO WITH THE BOY WHO WON'T STAY IN SCHOOL

Here Is the Case of One in the First Year High Presented by His Sister—Shall He Be Allowed to Stop and Go to Work or Be Forced to Remain in the Classroom?

WHAT is to be done with the boy of fifteen who refuses to take any interest whatsoever in his schooling and wants to leave and go to work?

Her letter follows: I am coming to you for advice on a subject which is a little uncommon on your page, but, nevertheless, I feel sure you can help on it as well as on others.

I have a fifteen-year-old brother who is becoming hard to manage, with reference to what we think best for him. For instance, we heard lately that he has been playing pool in the public poolrooms, and to be certain that he did play, I went myself to the poolrooms last Friday.

Another question I want to ask your advice on is regarding his schooling. He is now a freshman in high school and learns fast with a he might get into something worse.

There had been quite a controversy up to the time of the great news as to just what kind of costumes would be worn for the opera. The women were to wear the opera gown, during the last year or so, without the real clothes which for so long had been a tradition.

Soldiers Ride; Officers Walk

Manly, Dec. 10.—The most interesting feature in every city in Germany today is the new status of the common soldier. He may frequently be seen riding in automobiles while officers walk. He never salutes his former superiors.

Adventures With a Christmas Purse

WHY NOT?

- 1. A little flat square silver case that holds a picture as a soldier and as a civilian. 2. A pair of rings and stakes for fifty cents. 3. A haunting little lullaby for a musical friend.

HERE is the most novel way yet offered to carry a picture of him in civilian clothes and another in uniform. It is a little "square silver case," with chased design and space for a monogram and resembling strongly a little coin purse. It is attached to a chain with a ring which slips over the finger, and when opened this little silver case has a space for the two photographs. The price is $2.75. This would make a most uncommon Christmas gift.

There is ever a fascination in choosing gifts for children, and for the most part each is so interesting, suggests so many opportunities for fun, that it becomes then merely a matter of choosing the one which by all the laws of nature should prove of most fun for your own little people. A game of ring toss should appeal to your little folks, be they all Bobbies or all Betties, or half and half for the matter of that.

"Tell me the name of a sweet, simple little song, that sort of—oh, you know," I said to my friend, who sings. And she did, and I bought it, and I love it. It's a haunting little lullaby, very simple, a tender little tune, with unbelievably lovely words. If it is an elaborate, trilly piece you would be wanting you would pass by my lullaby prescribed distance and endeavors to throw the rings over the stake, by no means an easy matter. It's a real fun, costs only fifty cents and if it develops accuracy of sight of little eyes—well, so much the better.

For the Wash Day Supper

Jim says he hopes he won't ever have to live in a boarding house, because since I've been using Aunt Jimma's Pancakes and I cut it in pieces for serving, and when I've got it slightly heated I pour over it a mixture of a quarter of a pound of melted butter substitute and two tablespoons of A1 Sauce.

It makes a splendid sauce, too, for freshly broiled steak or fish. Jim says he knows I don't mind his bringing company home unexpectedly, even on Monday night. That A1 Sauce certainly does make "pot luck" fare like the Waldorf-Astoria—Ady
