THE road to Paris was wide, wide open. The Prussian Guard moved forward. Two days march, and the city would be in their murderous hands.

Only a handful of Americans-rushed over in motor lorries-stood between the Hun and his most coveted prize.

If those Americans—boys you used to crowd and jostle on your own streets—had given an inch the Kaiser would be in Paris now instead of Holland

BUT, instead of going backward with the others, the Americans went forward! Instead of delaying that advance of the Prussian Guard, they halted it forever.

> On that day Germany was Defeated: the Retreat began; Peace came into sight

Over in the Hospital, a few weeks ago, lay a wounded Marine-Orley M. Dunton-one of the boys who was there. His story of what happened is in December Hearst's. He calls it "Mussing Up The Prussian Guards."

TF you are satisfied with the dull, long old I fashioned magazine "article," you won't want Hearst's this month or any other. But if you prefer short vital bits of history in the making-articles more interesting than any fiction-don't fail to read Private Dunton's story in the December Number of
