

CONDONS OF SONS HURT IN FIGHTING

Mother of Five Philadelphia Service Men Is Notified

162 CITY CASUALTIES

Six Slain in Action, Four Dead of Wounds, Many Injured

Another of the five fighting sons of Mrs. Sarah Doyle, 821 Lombard street, has been reported wounded in France. A telegram from the War Department has just brought her the news that Corporal Robert Rowan is the second casualty in her family of soldier and sailor boys.

The first son to appear in the official list was Newport News, twenty-nine years old, who received severe bullet wounds in the thigh while fighting with the 80th Engineers, William, 1917, and went overseas in June.

Corporal Robert Rowan, however, has been in France ever since the famous Iron Division week. He is a member of Company B, 10th Infantry, now in France.

Thomas Rowan, of the Fifty-second Pioneer Infantry, also is in France, and two of Mrs. Doyle's boys are in the navy, stationed at Newport News, Va., and Joseph, on recruiting duty here.

Today's list brings the total number of casualties so far reported for the army up to 147,291. There are 5439 in the list, and 428 are Pennsylvanians.

Eight Philadelphians Killed

Philadelphians appear in the report to the number of 182. Of this number six have been killed in action, four died of wounds, three died of disease, one was accidentally killed, fifty-five were wounded, seven severely, twenty-one were killed, and twenty were wounded and killed.

Corporal James Brennan, formerly a policeman at the Third and Dickinson streets station, has been wounded severely. He is one of three brothers in the service. Corporal Brennan and his brother Edward entered the army when the United States entered the war. James, twenty-seven years old, became a member of Company D, 31st Field Artillery, and Edward, twenty-five, was attached to Company E, 31st Field Artillery.

Both brothers trained at Camp Lee and went overseas on May 1st. William, twenty-four, another brother, twenty-four, entered the army in 1917, in the quartermaster's department and served as a clerk, later being promoted to sergeant.

SKETCHES OF THE HEROES

Private William C. Roberts, wounded in member of Company I, 31st Infantry, Writing for Mrs. Matilda Roberts, of 1610 North 22d street, Germantown, commented in humorous vein on his brother's death. "You remember you used to call me 'Daddy' when you were fresh around the house?" he inquired.

"I got fresh with Fritz and the chump got mad and sent me home, how he did man! But I am getting all right and I am going to get a promotion. Private Roberts is twenty-three years old, and was drafted in April of this year. He was in the 10th Infantry, but would not be the only Roberts to see action of the big war. One of these cousins, Thomas, was killed in action; another, George, Robert, has been wounded in seventeen places. Prior to joining the army, Robert is a skilled coal miner, and was drafted into the British industrial corps. He was in the 10th Infantry, and was killed in action on November 5, 1917, six days before hostilities ceased, and his mother received the official notice of his death on December 1, 1917, a record-breaking bit of speed on the part of the War Department.

Private Charles C. Knouff, wounded, is twenty-three years old, and a member of Company D, 31st Infantry. He was drafted last May and trained at Camp Meade. According to the telegram received, he was killed in action on November 5, 1917, a record-breaking bit of speed on the part of the War Department.

Private Clayton W. Groff, wounded, is thirty-one years old and member of Company C, 18th Infantry. His wife, Minnie, lives at 21st and Locust streets. He was killed in action on October 23, 1917, and his mother received the official notice of his death on November 1, 1917, a record-breaking bit of speed on the part of the War Department.

Private Howard C. Patterson, wounded, made his home with his parents, Mrs. John H. Patterson, 2813 Susquehanna avenue. According to a telegram received, he was killed in action on October 7, 1917, and his mother received the official notice of his death on November 1, 1917, a record-breaking bit of speed on the part of the War Department.

Corporal Arthur E. Alker, twenty-three years old, of 2418 North Fairhill street, was reported to be killed in action on November 5, 1917, and his mother received the official notice of his death on November 1, 1917, a record-breaking bit of speed on the part of the War Department.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private William E. Bernard, Jr., former physical director at Girard College, was slightly wounded in action on November 5, 1917, and his mother received the official notice of his death on November 1, 1917, a record-breaking bit of speed on the part of the War Department.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

Private Joseph Lyons, missing, formerly resided with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Lyons, 1608 Spruce street, near the corner of Schuylkill. His wife, who is employed as a stenographer, recently received a letter from him stating that he believed that he had come through a battle without a scratch. She has since received a letter from him stating that he had long since resigned his regiment.

partment, but he fully regained his strength. His father has been connected with the Philadelphia Coal and Navigation Company for a number of years.

Private William J. Meyers, twenty-three years old, Company D, 10th Infantry, was seriously wounded on October 14, and after many months in the hospital and numerous operations his leg had to be amputated. Yet his mother, Cecelia Kenney, 4633 Chestnut street, with whom Private Meyers made his home, was not informed of her husband's injury by the War Department until December 8. She had heard from him direct a number of times and in his letter he said he expected to start for home about the first of January, 1917, and went overseas in July of this year.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

Private William A. Billie, Jr., wounded on November 4, of this month, wrote his mother, Mrs. Jennie Billie, 1011 Locust street, that he was better and expected to be home soon. He added that the peace was equal to a couple of Philadelphia New Year's celebrations. Young Billie was drafted last May, given a brief training course at Camp Meade and assigned to France six weeks later with Company I, 31st Infantry. He was formerly employed at the Philadelphia Refinery. A brother, Sergeant Patrick J. Malloy, is attached to the Headquarters Company, Ninth Infantry, now in France.

INSCRIBED ON AMERICA'S ROLL OF HONOR

WILLIAM E. BERNARD, Jr., Wounded; JOHN SOKUSKY, M. VENTURELLA, Wounded; W. C. ROBERTS, Wounded; FREDERICK S. TALLMAN, Missing

Sgt. MAX ABRAMSON, Sgt. WM. ROWAN, Wounded; ELLSWORTH NICHOLS, Wounded; A. BOVESVITCH, MICHAEL JOZWIAK, Wounded & Missing

Corp. A. E. ALKER, IRA MACOMBER, Sgt. ROBT. ROWAN, MORRIS THAL, Corp. C. W. GRAFF, WAITER ROTKAWECH, Wounded

He is now able to be out and about again, and the physicians at the Cape May Hospital say that with a month or two more careful attention he will be home as usual.

Private Ellsworth Nichols, nineteen years old, lived with his parents in the Argonne Forest. When taken to a base hospital in France in June, he was a part of a part of his left arm was necessary. He is now on his way to this country and is expected to reach his home in West Chester within the next few days. Young Nichols is the son of Harry Nichols, Westtown, Pa., township, near West Chester, and enlisted in the old Sixth Regiment, U. S. F., shortly after this country entered the war.

Later, at Camp Hancock, he was assigned to Company I, 11th Infantry, thirty-five years old, served with Company I, 11th Infantry, and was reported missing about six weeks ago, but has now been put on the official casualty list. He is now on his way to this country and is expected to reach his home in West Chester within the next few days. Young Nichols is the son of Harry Nichols, Westtown, Pa., township, near West Chester, and enlisted in the old Sixth Regiment, U. S. F., shortly after this country entered the war.

Private Alfred R. Irwin, wounded, thirty-five years old, served with Company I, 11th Infantry, and was reported missing about six weeks ago, but has now been put on the official casualty list. He is now on his way to this country and is expected to reach his home in West Chester within the next few days. Young Nichols is the son of Harry Nichols, Westtown, Pa., township, near West Chester, and enlisted in the old Sixth Regiment, U. S. F., shortly after this country entered the war.

Private Alexander Beresfitch, wounded, was born in Poland and came to this country when twelve years old. Although he had never taken out citizenship papers, he was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

The young soldier, who is twenty-three years old, lived with his parents at North Hancock street, The War Department, in a telegram dated December 1, reported that the impact of the shrapnel had been hit in the head and had been hit in the head and had been hit in the head.

Private Walter Rothkewich, wounded, is a member of Company K, Ninth Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

Private Joseph Macomber, wounded, is a member of Company I, 31st Infantry, and was reported as being a member of the 10th Infantry, and was assigned to Company C, Fifth Machine Gun Battalion, and called for duty on August 1, 1918.

MARINES SAVED FRENCH BY AROUSING NEW SPIRIT

Morale Had Been Broken, Says Returned Officer, but Chateau-Thierry Renewed It

Captain Orlando H. Petty Says He's Glad War Is Over—Wants to Forget It

"The French morale had been broken, but the gallant United States marines, at Chateau-Thierry, by saving Paris and stopping the German drive in the early days of June, gave to the French and, in fact the Allies, an entirely new spirit."

This statement was made today by Captain Orlando H. Petty, of 6215 Ridge avenue, just returned. He was medical officer with the Fifth Regiment of marines.

"Deep down in the heart of every marine who went into that terrible fight at Chateau-Thierry was the firm conviction that he belonged to an invincible fighting organization. It was that spirit that gave the Fifth Regiment the power to drive back the boche hordes and save Paris."

"I never heard of a German who would stand up against an American marine in a bayonet duel. Our men, the equal of any soldiers in the world, are not bloodthirsty. They are men of civilization and sink to the level of barbarism. I am glad the war is over, but I am not glad to see the Germans."

Four days before the declaration of war, Doctor Petty enlisted in the naval reserve, and was given the rating of second assistant surgeon. He wanted service in France and asked for a transfer to the marines.

"I am on my way to Washington," said the officer today.

TRY LA FOLLETTE, MINORITY URGES

Pomerene and Walsh Demand Exoneration, Censure or Expulsion

DEEM TALK INDICTABLE

Report Says Any Jury Would Have Ordered Prosecution Under Espionage Act

By the Associated Press Washington, Dec. 14.—Further proceedings in the case of Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, looking to his exoneration, censure or expulsion from the Senate as the facts may warrant, are recommended in a minority report from the Senate Privileges and Elections Committee presented in the Senate today by Senator Pomerene, of Ohio, Democrat, chairman of the committee.

"The report charges the Wisconsin senator with violation of the espionage act by alleged misstatements in his address before the Wisconsin League in St. Paul, Minn., September 22, 1917. The report opposes the pending resolution recommending that the proceedings be dropped."

"The statements alleged to have been made by the report to be a 'slander' on the Government and sufficient cause for conviction in criminal proceedings. The speech itself, the report says, would have been sufficient evidence for indictment and conviction under the espionage act."

Specifically, the report urges that a "full and complete" hearing be ordered by the Senate to the end that the committee may be completely exonerated if the testimony justifies it.

"This is our duty," the minority report says. "It is our duty to see that the Senate of Wisconsin, to the United States Senate itself and to the public. More we ought not to do and less we cannot be expected to do."

"This is our duty," the minority report says. "It is our duty to see that the Senate of Wisconsin, to the United States Senate itself and to the public. More we ought not to do and less we cannot be expected to do."

"This is our duty," the minority report says. "It is our duty to see that the Senate of Wisconsin, to the United States Senate itself and to the public. More we ought not to do and less we cannot be expected to do."

"This is our duty," the minority report says. "It is our duty to see that the Senate of Wisconsin, to the United States Senate itself and to the public