ADDITIONS TO DAY'S

A Merry Christmas to you! What a world of happiness lies in the A Merry Christmas to you! What a world of happiness lies in the word Christmas! At this blithe Season of Joy, when the "light of love shines over all," its glad spirit warms every heart with its radiant flame, and the little remembrances sent far and wide as messengers of love, or friendship, become so many links in a golden cltain, binding one and all in a circle of tenderness and cheer.

Stockings are still hung up with care on Christmas Eve, and little hands still eagerly explore them the first thing the following morning, and if these most mysterious of grab-bags do not come up to expectations the joy of the Day of Days is dimmed. At B. F. Dewees, 1122 Chestnut street there are hosts of wee articles in the Toy Department made for this purpose. Bean bags of cretonne or leathen, in the shape of children. What more fascinat-ing gift, then, could be made than a rich and harmonious Oriental rug from the comprehensive stock of Fritz & La Rue, 1124 Chestnut street. All are not expensive. The Mahals, which come in many sizes, are good medium-priced Persian rugs of artistic colorings and pat-terns. Rich mahoganys and blues predominate, and the designs are copied from all the old Persian patpredominate, and the designs are copied from all the old Persian pat-terns. Sometimes a special type is copied or certain features of several types are combined, but the Iranian ideas are carried all through. Whenever a man is asked what he wants for Character What he wants for Christmas he invariably answers, "Noth-ing." Who believes him? We all know that he would be much grieved if overlooked, and his pretended in-DRIDE goes before a fall, we are told, but that is not always true, for the hostess or housewife if overlooked, and his pretended in-difference only increases our per-plexity. But the difficulty of choos-ing vanishes with a visit to the wall-stocked establishment of William H. Wanamaker, 1217-19 Chestnut street, where one gift suggestion after another is displayed. Neck-wear in all the leading styles; leather waistcoats, with or without sleeves; smart crepe de chine shirts in fancy patterns; smoking jackets of neat reversible cloth; sweaters, plain and heather mixtures, and newest of all, stunning detachable shawl fur collars in beaver, nutris and Hudson seal, which can be but toned on any coat and removed on mild days.
