LATE TAX RETURNS KEEP CLERKS BUSY

Receiver's Office Open Until Early Today by Last-Minute Payments

Clerks in the office of Receiver of Taxes W. Freeland Kendrick were kept at their desks until early this morning receiving and tabulating belated payments brought into the city treasury. The new year opened with the city a half million dollars behind, but it is expected this sum will be made up when mail payments have been computed.

The last day of the year was spent by Mayor Smith and his directors in signing the annual contracts. These included street cleaning, $3,683,000; garbage collection, $698,000; gasoline lighting, $509,750, and the annual electric lighting contract with the Philadelphia Electric Company.

The Mayor approved two of the annuol appropriation bills, the City Treasurer's, $14,275,731, and the City Commissioners', $2,602,306. The latter included $200,000 for the Municipal Court officers, who have heretofore been paid by mandamus.

REPUBLICAN ALLIANCE MOVES

Penrose Wing of Republican Organization Plans House-Warming

The Republican Alliance, the Penrose wing of the local party organization, opened the new year today in its new headquarters, 1430 South Penn square. As soon as the headquarters have been furnished completely a reception will be held.

Senator Penrose is expected to be the guest of honor at the reception, at which a "declaration of principles for 1919" will be promulgated.

The entire second floor, two office rooms and an auditorium, have been taken by the alliance. John A. Voorhees, executive director, is in charge of the headquarters.

The alliance formerly had headquarters adjoining those of the Town Meeting party on the third floor of the Transportation Building, 26 South Fifteenth street. The Town Meeting party will retain its present location for the time.
