DICKER WITH RAILROAD MEN

Federal Agents Will Confer To day With Pennsylvania Shopmen MARKET WAITING of the Federal railroad administration from Washington will arrive here today from Washington will arrive here today to take up with the representatives of the craft unions the adjustment of the wage muddle and to try and reach a satisfactory settlement with the Pentisplyania Raliroad shopmen.

Union men have adopted resolutions agreeing to accept the new schedule, under which piece workers will lose virtually half the differential which they receive in addition to the regular day rate, but it will be under protest and without signing a receipt in full, so that it will not stand as a barrier against an adjustment.

There is a belief in the financial district that the stock and security market will not assume its normal condition till neace is signed. According to a certain banker, this is based on the belief that the leading industries of the country will not be in full swing till that important event. It is said that many large orders from abroad are being held back till the final settlements are determined.

This does not necessarily mean that everything will remain in abeyance till the final touches are placed on the peace treaty, but just as soon as the fundamentals are reached and decided upon.

This banker says he understands from converations he has had with manufacturers and business men generally, that a flood of both foreign and domestic orders will keep every wheel of industry moving for many months, and no great reduction in wages, or in the prices of materials is expected for a considerable period.

One would think something serious had gone wrong if any day failed to bring the news of another 100,000-barrel well being struck in the Mexican field. To the thoughtless appeculator, he said, it makes little difference whether the

There was not, therefore, the usual human interest of attempts to forecast conditions, the conflict of different policies, and in general the exhibition of the fallibility of the human mind. Even the sudden advent of the armistice did not materially after this condition. Nevertheless, the actions of the bureaus in Washington their policies and the attitude of the producers toward them furnish subjocts for review.

The results of price-fixing are known well enough by those who were concerned, but not so well generally. Nor is if ampreciated that Washington had no well-determined policy in this matter, but as opportunist acted in the way that seemed easiest and best at the moment. The record of lis performance ances exhibits the danger of interfering with economic laws, even in such an extraordinary time as 1912-18. The men hibited its own characteristics in 1918
