STOCK PRICES REACT ON BIG BOARD FOLLOWING EARLY GAINS

Texas Land Trust Soars as Much as 105 Points—Oils Attract Most Attention—United States Steel Declines

High Points in Today's Financial News Interest centered in oils on New York Stock Exchange, which declines following early gains.

New York, Jan. 9.—The stock market was of a seamy character in today's trading, violent advances in the first half of the day being followed by reactions in the afternoon.

Advances during the forenoon traveled over a wide range, including violent jumps in Texas Land Trust, on which that stock gained as much as 105 points to 335 on a small turnover.

Many low-priced industrials also moved up without special reason during the early trading. Associated Dry Goods making a gain of 4 points to 23 1/2, and a long list of specialties including many in that class designated as "rats and dogs," made gains ranging from 1 to 5 points.

The oil stocks maintained the most prominent position in the general market, but the idea prevailed in some important circles that oil speculation has been overdone.

Not only was oil brought forward as a reason for advances in those companies concerned in the industry, but vague oil prospects were used as reasons for advancing both American Beet Sugar and Texas Pacific Railway.

United States Steel was heavy all through the day, declining more than 1 point to below 93, and railroads and copper stocks, after strength in the morning, were heavy in the afternoon.

The two leading oil issues were under pressure in the late trading, Mexican Petroleum, after selling at 199 1/2, dropped to 186, and Texas Company fell from 191 to 188.

The statement was made by some of those concerned in the trading that stocks had been distributed on the display of strength in the first half of the day.

Bonds were irregular, with Liberty 4 1/2 continuing in demand at the improved level recently established. Traction bonds reflected liquidation by recent buyers.

BEARISH NEWS SENDS

CORN PRICES LOWER

Support Is Lacking and Stop-loss Orders Are Reached. Oats Also Break

GRAIN BELT WEATHER FORECAST Chicago, Jan. 9.—Fog and rain today and Friday.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—There was general selling of corn today and the market was very weak under the influence of unconfirmed reports that the food administration was against high prices for the cereal and had recommended the removal of restrictions on imports from Argentina.

Other bearish factors were statements that the fixing of the price of wheat for the 1919-20 season would be delayed until January 22, larger receipts and a weaker tone to the cash article, support was lacking and stop-loss orders were reached. The chief buying was against privileges bought last night.

In sympathy with the drop in corn, oats also broke under general selling, but support was lacking. The buying of futures, however, noted during the last few days and supposed to be for Omaha interest, was said to be in evidence.

Prices in the Northwest were weak. Receipts were light, but stocks are plentiful.
