KITCHEN POLICE By CUNNINGHAM K. P. is an epidemic. It is slang for Kitchen Police, which can be translated by any doughboy to much out luck. In other words S. O. L. This last fraternity has many members, and while it is an abbreviation for Soldier, it conveys the meaning to the initiated that said boy in khaki is Sure Outa Luck. KEEP THAT SECRET! AFTER five or six tours of K. P. the doughboy discovered all the hard corners and rough edges of housework. Somehow or other in the army they insist that the cooking section of the barracks be as clean and white as a debutante's neck. Everything has to be polished and scintillating.

NOT A-TALL HOMELIKE LEARNING all those intricate household mysteries usually performed by the female part of the sketch is gonna make it nice when the lads return. Jumping into the carpet slippers of married life will be pretty soft for the games. Nothing to worry about except the nose powder.

TWO WEEKS IN THE KITCHEN HUBBY, the ex-soldier, will subway home from the place of toil and dive into a gingham apron. In a couple o' jiffies friend wife will have a neat plate of Army Slum, which is one of the problems of the Peace Conference. After a supper that would test the digestive powers of an ostrich, friend husband will wash the dishes and manœuvre the linoleum rug with a broom.

YES, HE WILL. Treat 'Em Rough!

MILITARY MEN GATHER AT BANQUET TONIGHT General Scott to Preside at Annual Dinner of Order of Foreign Wars

Army and naval officials of the Allies and the United States, associated in bringing the war to a successful close, will make the annual dinner of the Military Order of Foreign Wars at the Bellevue-Stratford tonight the most memorable in the history of the organization.

Major General Hugh L. Scott, commander of Camp Dix, who went abroad as a military observer two years ago, will preside and make a short address. Major General Linton W. Waller, U. S. M. C., will be toastmaster. Representatives of the Allied countries will respond to toasts as their national hymns are played.

Great Britain will be represented by Major General J. E. H. Headlam, Major Ian Hay Beth and several others. Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Whiteley, of the United States army, will tell the story of the "lost battalion," the famous body of fighting Americans who found the Germans so easy that they advanced too fast from the rest of their command and were cut off for several days.

The principal address will be made by the Rev. Dr. Robert McGowan, of Pittsburgh, on "Victory Plus." Lieutenant David A. Constantini will be the official representative of the Italian Government.

Among others who will attend and be called on for five-minute addresses are Admiral Hughes, of the Philadelphia Navy Yard; Admiral Heim, commander of the Fourth Naval District; Captain Peter Latham, of the British army; Captain Frank Schwab, of the Royal Field Artillery; and Major William Shaw, of the American aviation corps.

Asks Police Head Named by Governor A police commissioner appointed by the governor as the head of the police is suggested to the charter revision committee by the Patrolmen's Benevolent and Protective Association. The suggestion is advanced in a letter from Evan B. Lewis, counsel for the police association. Another suggestion is that policemen be prohibited from any form of political activity whatever. The salary for the proposed police commissioner, the policemen say, should be $19,000 a year.
