

400,000 WORKERS GOING TO EUROPE

Exodus of Americans for Reconstruction Seen by Sun Ship Man

WILL MODIFY PROBLEM Supply and Demand Will Be Brought Closer Together by Emigration

C. J. Drennen, labor expert of the Sun Shipbuilding Company, Chester, Pa., expects 400,000 workmen to go overseas next spring to help rebuild war-shattered Europe.

He believes 45 per cent of all workers of foreign birth in this country will return temporarily to their native lands, seeking the big wages and opportunities offered there during the reconstruction period.

He sees in this movement of American labor toward the countries of Europe the only solution of the problem created by the nationwide cancellation of war contracts and the return of the men of our armies to the vocations of peace time.

Unless the American Government facilitates this labor exodus by the wholesale granting of passports, it is impossible to place the men of the demobilized overseas forces in lucrative jobs.

Because of changes which are swiftly being brought about in the labor situation by the dismissal of hundreds of thousands of employees who had "war jobs," he looks for lower wages, cost-balanced labor by lower living cost.

Mr. Drennen bases his opinion on a knowledge of labor conditions in America gained by ten years spent in Europe, supervising labor in big corporations.

Mixed Half Million He has hired more than 500,000 men during these ten years in all parts of the United States and in many countries of South America.

He has in the files of his New York office the names, addresses and labor qualifications of 1,750,000 men.

He says he is ready to ship abroad at two weeks' notice an advance guard of 20,000 workers. His list contains men of every type of experience and ability, from high-salaried executives down to day laborers.

I believe that 45 per cent of foreign-born workers in all nationalities will return to their native countries as soon as they can get passports," said Mr. Drennen.

Good for Labor Here "This will be an excellent thing for labor here," he says. "The United States Department of Labor will not be able to cope with the conditions that are bound to arise unless passage is assured by two or three hundred thousands of men who are eager to enter the foreign labor field."

I am convinced that from 300,000 to 400,000 Americans will seek work abroad. I anticipate a tremendous foreign demand for American labor. This is not speculation, but based upon facts in my possession.

There will be work in plenty for riveters, bricklayers, machinists, boiler makers; in fact, for mechanics of every trade.

The men who are waiting for the Government's permission to go to the continent are not only men of high ability, but they are men of high wages. The pay probably will be the highest in the history of the world.

As to the "sticking" qualities of the men who will go abroad to work, Mr. Drennen said: "The best nationalities for overseas reconstruction work will be the Russians, Italians and Greeks. The Greeks will stick better and do more work than any other of the nationalities."

MARCHING CLUBS JAM HARRISBURG

Vare and Pittsburgh Bodies Help Lead Colorful Demonstration

WAR HEROES IN LINE Bands Blare and Red, White and Blue Umbrellas Add Patriotic Touch

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds. In the twinkling of an eye other clubs formed in line and thousands of men and women rushed into the central section of the city to view the parade.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30. They were followed by the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

One that divided first honors with the Pittsburghers was the Harrisburg Republican Club. This club, led by its marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

The parade was a colorful one, with bands blaring and red, white and blue umbrellas adding a patriotic touch. The marchers were led by a band of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen.

The parade was a colorful one, with bands blaring and red, white and blue umbrellas adding a patriotic touch. The marchers were led by a band of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen.

ROTAN PREPARED FOR SMITH TRIAL

District Attorney Will Have Assistants Prosecute Mayor Tomorrow

SILENCE AS TO DELAY Defense Counsel Gives No Indication if New Delay Will Be Sought

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

One that divided first honors with the Pittsburghers was the Harrisburg Republican Club. This club, led by its marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

The parade was a colorful one, with bands blaring and red, white and blue umbrellas adding a patriotic touch. The marchers were led by a band of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen.

The parade was a colorful one, with bands blaring and red, white and blue umbrellas adding a patriotic touch. The marchers were led by a band of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen.

GIRLS ESCAPE DEATH IN CAMDEN FIRETRAP

Thirty-five girls escaped death in a fire which almost totally destroyed the soap manufacturing plant of J. Evanson & Sons, Delaware avenue and Penn streets, Camden.

Thirty-five girls escaped death in a fire which almost totally destroyed the soap manufacturing plant of J. Evanson & Sons, Delaware avenue and Penn streets, Camden. Finding exit cut off by the fire-escape, the girls groped their way out by throwing coats and bags over their heads. Above is a group of girls who escaped from the burning building.

Thirty-five girls escaped death in a fire which almost totally destroyed the soap manufacturing plant of J. Evanson & Sons, Delaware avenue and Penn streets, Camden. Finding exit cut off by the fire-escape, the girls groped their way out by throwing coats and bags over their heads. Above is a group of girls who escaped from the burning building.

ROTAN PREPARED FOR SMITH TRIAL

District Attorney Will Have Assistants Prosecute Mayor Tomorrow

SILENCE AS TO DELAY Defense Counsel Gives No Indication if New Delay Will Be Sought

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

One that divided first honors with the Pittsburghers was the Harrisburg Republican Club. This club, led by its marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

The parade was a colorful one, with bands blaring and red, white and blue umbrellas adding a patriotic touch. The marchers were led by a band of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen.

The parade was a colorful one, with bands blaring and red, white and blue umbrellas adding a patriotic touch. The marchers were led by a band of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen.

SPROUT TAKES OATH AS GOVERNOR

AMID CHEERING CROWDS PLAUDITS Continued From Page One

Senator Hoffman, had administered the oath of office to him.

Brumbaugh Greets Sprout Martin G. Brumbaugh, the retiring executive, was the first to greet the new Governor and congratulate him.

Before starting his address the Governor posed patiently while the photographers snapped his picture. The photographers stood on stoepadders in front of the inaugural stand. The crowd behind him became impatient and began to yell.

"Get down through in a minute," the Governor reassured the crowd and smiled. State street, which stretches in front of the inaugural stand, was roped off and a guard of mounted State troopers kept the immense crowd in check.

The crowd formed a solid mass on State street for half block and lined Third street, which skirts the Capitol grounds, for many squares on both sides of the State house.

"Cheer and handclapping frequently interrupted the Governor's remarks. His reference to the Bolshevik menace and his proposal to divide the State into two political units gave a roar of approval from the crowd.

Cheer Governor's Speech As he declared his policy of co-operation and not coercion in dealing with the legislative branch of the State government, he turned and directed the crowd to the members of the Senate and House on the stand.

Vigorous applause greeted the assertion of Governor Sprout's policy. A few feet from the new Governor, maintained outward calm at the announcement of this new policy in the face of the cheering and handclapping.

Another outburst of applause followed the assertion that Pennsylvania should not scatter its financial resources on ceremonial occasions. The Governor reached the middle of his long address, his voice showed signs of fatigue. His plea for higher pay for the State's executive officers, however, drew another outburst of applause from the crowd.

The big parade starts. During the latter part of the Governor's speech, a movie operator named Heilmann, who was standing on a roof of the scene.

IN CHAIRMANSHIP REDS IS SOUGHT

Vickerman Reported Certain to Head Committee Handling Amendment

LESLIE SERVES NOTICE WORKS WITH COMBERS Senator's Objection Apparently Overruled—Vares Get Five Places

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 21.—In the first clash between the "wet" and "dry" forces in the Legislature victory is reported to have perched on the banner of the "drys."

The trouble started over the tentative selection of representative John W. Vickerman, of Allegheny, leader of the "dry" forces in the House, for chairman of the Law and Order Committee.

Senator Max Leslie, Republican leader of Allegheny County, is reported to have served notice on the other leaders that he would not stand for the slating of Vickerman, who has never been aligned politically with the Leslie forces.

It is generally understood that the "wet" forces generally the retention of Representative William C. Wagner, a "wet" of Allegheny, as chairman of the Law and Order Committee.

Some higher authority, however, decreed that the chairmanship should go to Representative Vickerman. It is now considered certain that the "dry" leader will not only head the committee, but that it will contain a majority of "dry" members.

The next fight on the amendment ratification will be an attempt by the "wet" forces to divert the resolution from the law and order committee to the committee on constitutional reforms.

A certified copy of the Federal prohibition amendment was received from Washington yesterday by Representative Wood, Secretary of the Commonwealth. He will certify it to the Legislature as soon as the constitutional amendment is organized.

Representative Vickerman held a conference with Governor-elect Sprout last night and said he would call up the resolution in the House today or tomorrow.

The "drys" intend to introduce it in the House last night. Vickerman went to the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth yesterday to get a copy of the prohibition amendment, and while he was gone the House adjourned.

UNION TO CRUSH

American-Italian Labor Mission Here as Foe to Bolshevism

WORKS WITH COMBERS Senator's Objection Apparently Overruled—Vares Get Five Places

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 21.—In the first clash between the "wet" and "dry" forces in the Legislature victory is reported to have perched on the banner of the "drys."

The trouble started over the tentative selection of representative John W. Vickerman, of Allegheny, leader of the "dry" forces in the House, for chairman of the Law and Order Committee.

Senator Max Leslie, Republican leader of Allegheny County, is reported to have served notice on the other leaders that he would not stand for the slating of Vickerman, who has never been aligned politically with the Leslie forces.

It is generally understood that the "wet" forces generally the retention of Representative William C. Wagner, a "wet" of Allegheny, as chairman of the Law and Order Committee.

Some higher authority, however, decreed that the chairmanship should go to Representative Vickerman. It is now considered certain that the "dry" leader will not only head the committee, but that it will contain a majority of "dry" members.

The next fight on the amendment ratification will be an attempt by the "wet" forces to divert the resolution from the law and order committee to the committee on constitutional reforms.

A certified copy of the Federal prohibition amendment was received from Washington yesterday by Representative Wood, Secretary of the Commonwealth. He will certify it to the Legislature as soon as the constitutional amendment is organized.

Representative Vickerman held a conference with Governor-elect Sprout last night and said he would call up the resolution in the House today or tomorrow.

The "drys" intend to introduce it in the House last night. Vickerman went to the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth yesterday to get a copy of the prohibition amendment, and while he was gone the House adjourned.

PENROSE FIGHTS HOOVER'S POWER

Insists on Commission to Control $100,000,000 to Feed Europe

TO DIRECT DISBURSING

Washington, Jan. 21.—Pronouncing "almost unanimous support" of the $100,000,000 food appropriation bill if his amendment is agreed to Senator Penrose today asked the Senate to create a commission of three, at an annual salary of $10,000 each, to supervise expenditures in feeding European nations.

Senator Penrose said that much of the hostility to the measure arose from opposition to Herbert Hoover's direction of the expenditures.

"He is currently a president of this country and, after his present commission with the United States Government ends, he probably will retire to England, where a congressional subpoena can't reach him—and there will be subpoena after March 4 for several department heads."

"Coming from a leading Republican, this was accepted as a definite rebuff to Hoover's attention to investigate the conduct of the war from every angle when the Republicans control Congress."

Senator Penrose said that if Hoover really were starving, $100,000,000 would be only a drop in the bucket, "while, if it is not starving, the $100,000,000 is an appropriation to contribute to Hoover's pocket."

Senator Kenyon today introduced a bill to create an emergency public works board to provide immediate work for the unemployed. The bill would appropriate $100,000,000 for immediate use, to enable any State, or Federal Government, to proceed with public work projects at any time when extraordinary unemployment exists.

ROTAN PREPARED FOR SMITH TRIAL

District Attorney Will Have Assistants Prosecute Mayor Tomorrow

SILENCE AS TO DELAY Defense Counsel Gives No Indication if New Delay Will Be Sought

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

ROTAN PREPARED FOR SMITH TRIAL

District Attorney Will Have Assistants Prosecute Mayor Tomorrow

SILENCE AS TO DELAY Defense Counsel Gives No Indication if New Delay Will Be Sought

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

ROTAN PREPARED FOR SMITH TRIAL

District Attorney Will Have Assistants Prosecute Mayor Tomorrow

SILENCE AS TO DELAY Defense Counsel Gives No Indication if New Delay Will Be Sought

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

ROTAN PREPARED FOR SMITH TRIAL

District Attorney Will Have Assistants Prosecute Mayor Tomorrow

SILENCE AS TO DELAY Defense Counsel Gives No Indication if New Delay Will Be Sought

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

ROTAN PREPARED FOR SMITH TRIAL

District Attorney Will Have Assistants Prosecute Mayor Tomorrow

SILENCE AS TO DELAY Defense Counsel Gives No Indication if New Delay Will Be Sought

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.

ROTAN PREPARED FOR SMITH TRIAL

District Attorney Will Have Assistants Prosecute Mayor Tomorrow

SILENCE AS TO DELAY Defense Counsel Gives No Indication if New Delay Will Be Sought

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—The lead that held the joy and hopes of Pennsylvania Republicans broke at 11:30 this morning and an hour and a half before the inaugural parade was scheduled to move more than 5000 exultant Sprout men began their colorful street parade.

Any attempt to check the demonstration or delay it until the scheduled hour would have been as futile as an effort to stem the ocean tides, for the men who came here to celebrate the elevation of ex-Senator Sprout to the Governorship were determined to have their way.

Yesterday the Union Republican Club of Philadelphia, with Uncle Dave Lane Special Club and the rest of the marching clubs, and the band of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the parade from far-away Pittsburgh toward a share of glory from the Philadelphia and with Joseph G. Armstrong as their marshal started at 11:30.

It was just 11:30 when thousands of visitors, standing in Capitol Park, heard the music of the Pittsburgh Marine Band. A musical procession of brass and yellow coats of the bandmen were seen crossing Third street at Market.

Five hundred Pittsburghers carrying banners made from red, white and blue flags followed and began to break loose. There were bands of brass and marching clubs, and holding the crowds.

Immediately following the Pittsburghers, 400 members of the Berks County Special Club, led by their marshal, Joseph G. Armstrong, started at 11:30.