

SWINDLERS DUPE KIN OF SOLDIERS

Police Hunt Men for Selling "Information" About Heroes Abroad

PARENTS GIVE MONEY

Father of Lieutenant Perrine Victim of Man Posing as War Veteran

Search is being made today for several men who, posing as returned soldiers, are victimizing the parents of missing heroes by selling them alleged information about the whereabouts of their sons.

Police in all sections of the city have been notified to be on the watch for the fakers, one of whom is known to have mastered the name of "J. W. Rodgers," a discharged soldier from the Twenty-seventh (New York National Guard) Division.

The police say that after locating the parents of a missing man and learning as much as they can about the soldiers, the impostors call at the home of the parents or wife and furnish information about the missing one, generally telling a story of having met him in some base hospital in France.

Always Ask for Money

The information is always followed by a request for money, generally on the plea that the informant is far from home and needs the money for carefare to take him to his home town where a good position awaits him.

Among the families victimized was that of Lieutenant Nelson W. Perrine, 521 South Forty-eighth street. Lieutenant Perrine was attached to Headquarters Company, 110th Infantry, of the Iron Division, and disappeared in action during the heaviest part of the action that drove the Germans from the Soissons-Chéris sector.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrine have made unremitting efforts to locate their son, keeping in constant touch with the authorities at Washington, and even getting in direct communication with France. Their efforts have been unavailing so far, but they are hopeful, and this conviction made them rather easy prey for the man who visited Mr. Perrine twice this week telling of how and where he met Lieutenant Perrine.

The first time the pseudo soldier came told the story of meeting the lieutenant in a base hospital. The "veteran" said his name was "Rodgers," and told of his recent honorable discharge from the New York division. The man was shabbily dressed, and otherwise made a bad impression on Mr. Perrine. On his second visit "Rodgers" took some money, under protest, and said he would take new overcoat later on.

Then Mr. Perrine got L. S. He got in communication with Washington and found that they had no record of such a person. The police were notified, but the address given by the impostor was found to be fictitious.

Lieutenant Is Only Son

Lieutenant Perrine is an only son. He is twenty-three years old. He was graduated from the Central High School in 1914. He entered the University of Pennsylvania and was in his third year when the war broke out. He enlisted in the First City Troop and trained with that unit at Camp Hancock.

He was selected from the third officers' training camp and graduated with honors. He went overseas as first sergeant in Company B, 110th Infantry, and received his commission after arriving in France. He left the company just one day before the second battle of the Marne, when Company B was almost wiped out.

At the time of his disappearance, on July 20, the 110th was engaged in the perilous work of blasting the Germans from the Grimpeettes wood. The place was taken and retaken several times, Lieutenant Perrine being left on the ground wounded after the Germans had made one of their successful counter-attacks. A wounded private reported that he saw the superior officer, but the address given by the impostor was found to be fictitious.

VICTIM OF AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT IDENTIFIED

Man Killed by Motorcar During Rainstorm Was Felix Snyder

A faded tag in the pocket of his coat brought about the identification today of the body of Felix Snyder, 1531 Butler street, who was run down and killed by an automobile during the rainstorm last night at Broad street and Duncannon avenue.

Mr. Snyder was a member of the firm of the Snyder Furniture Company, 124 North Tenth street. For some time the police were at loss to establish his identity.

The accident happened about 8:20 o'clock last night, and Mr. Snyder died shortly after being admitted to the Jewish Hospital.

Charles H. Cullin, of Ogontz, owner and driver of the machine was arrested by the police of the Branchtown station, and was given a hearing today. He attempted to cross the street at Broad and Duncannon avenue in the driving rain and did not see the approaching automobile.

Breakish weather conditions, bringing regulation April weather in January, culminated in a series of unusual incidents during the wind and rain of the night. Signs and awnings were blown down and many pedestrians barely escaped injury by the falling property. A big black-glass window at the Shubert Theatre, 12 South Broad street, was blown out with a loud crash. Shipping virtually was at a standstill.

PHILADELPHIANS URGE CEMETERY IN FRANCE

Approve Movement for Soldiers' Memorial Burial Ground Over There

Many Philadelphians and Pennsylvanians are in favor of a bill proposing the establishment of an American cemetery in France, in which would be buried the bodies of American soldiers killed in the world war, which has been introduced in Congress by Representative Simon D. Fess, of Ohio.

The measure seeks to incorporate the American Field of Honor Association, which would construct and maintain the proposed memorial cemetery.

In introducing the bill, Mr. Fess repeated suggestions that were made to him by the persons who have taken an active part in proposing the shrine to the dead American soldiers in France, that a French chateau or similar place large enough to be purchased near the western battleline. On it would be constructed a building which would be a monument to the Americans who laid down their lives in the war.

The incorporators of the association, said Mr. Fess, have anticipated the practical impossibility of removing the bodies of the American soldiers to the United States for permanent burial, and propose the "field of honor" in France is really an American national cemetery, in which the dead soldiers of all creeds could be buried in a fitting place, and with proper identification marks, similar to the burials at home in the Arlington or Gettysburg national cemeteries. The association, he said, proposes to raise $15,000,000 by popular subscription with which to endow the "field of honor" permanently.

The incorporators of the American Field of Honor Association include the following: William E. Bailey, Wilson Kyre, George Wharton Pepper, William Potter, Charles L. Borje, Judge J. Willis Martin, Owen Wistler, A. J. D. Dixon, Mrs. Meigs, Violet Oakley and Agnes Reppeler, of Pennsylvania; William Howard Taft, of Washington; James S. Cushman, Dr. John E. Finley, Bishop Luther B. UNITED BUSINESS MEN ASK CITY TO RUN CARS

Annual Meeting Also Asks Chestnut Subway Joining Frankford Elevated

Transit matters occupied much attention at the annual meeting of the United Business Men's Association in the Bingham House last night. Resolutions were adopted demanding: "That the Frankford elevated be completed and connected with the Chestnut street subway, and that the Chestnut street subway be built or as much thereof as can be constructed with funds available.

"That the franchise for operation of a street railway on Race and Vine streets be recalled and canceled and that a feeder line for the Frankford elevated, with a transfer station at Front and Race streets, be established.

"That independent operation of the city's lines be worked out until the extensive fixed charges of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company are adjusted to a fair and normal charge, or until the company provides a guarantee that it will assume operation of the city lines, bearing all sinking fund, interest and depreciation charges on the city's system, except that we favor a purely temporary arrangement for joint operation of the Frankford elevated and Market street subway until the Chestnut street subway is completed.

A further resolution was adopted authorizing the transportation committee of the association to have introduced in the Legislature a bill providing for through routes and joint rates on the street railway lines proposed to be built and those in operation.
