

A Varied Pictorial Portrayal Gleaned by the Camera From Here, There and Everywhere

NOT MOTHER CAREY'S CHICKENS, but sea-going poultry on the French cargo carrier Atlantique, of Dunkirk, now unloading her cargo in Philadelphia.

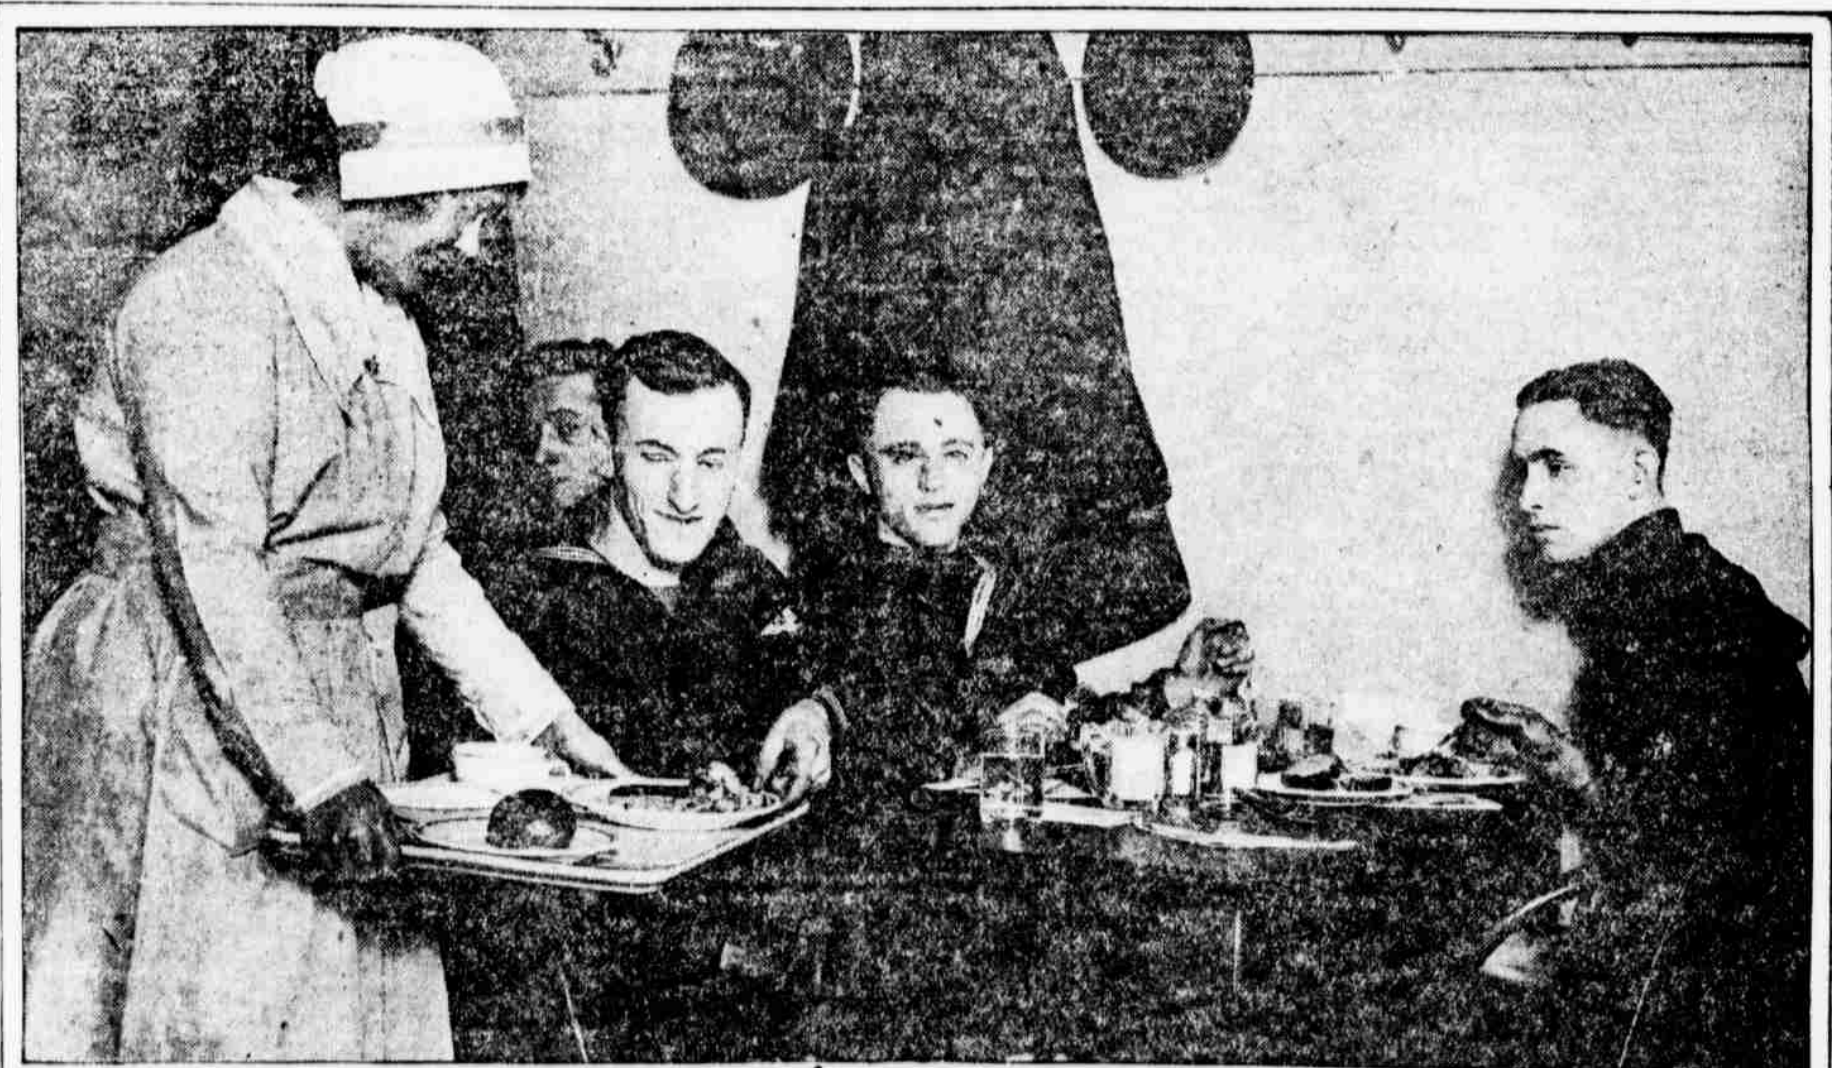

THE WAR OVER, Jack Pickford has doffed his suit of navy blue, ready to be his ingratiating self once more before the motion-picture camera.

AN OLD KENTUCKY MOUNTAINEER and his cabin in the moon-shine country. The moonshiner is commonly believed to favor the byways of Kentucky and the fastnesses of the Cumberland Mountains; but the illicit still has been found far from these haunts and, as the Internal Revenue agent will attest, the moonshiner distills quite as illegally in the city.

J. OGDEN ARMOUR appeared before House Interstate Commerce Committee in opposition to bill providing U. S. ownership of refrigerator cars.

MORRISON MARSHALL, a youngster adopted about two years ago by the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, quickly won a place for himself not only in the affections of his adopted parents, but in the hearts of many of their friends as well.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE FOR WOMEN'S SERVICE operates the canteen at 340 North Water street with the enthusiasm that characterized its war-day management; here sailors, soldiers and war workers are served.

MISS EDITH SMITH, war camp community service worker, serving Jack ashore at the Water street canteen, where the service man may lunch, from soup to ice cream, at moderate rates and well.
