What a contrast there is between the Paris of today and the Paris of January 27, 1871. Then, with all hope lost, gloom, sorrow and despair reigned everywhere, and on the 28th the city capitulated to the Germans. This year, for the first time in forty-eight years, the anniversary has lost its sting. The sword plunged into the heart of France has been plucked forth; Paris is herself again, supreme mistress and arbitratrix in the world of art and fashion, already following her favorite pursuits, not the least of which is supplying the Chestnut Street Shops with the inimitable creations which are daily making

O F COURSE, you wish you had a piano, yet you take it out by supinely saying, "If wishes were horses beggars would ride."

Now, are you a beggar? Is there any real reason why you should not mount your wish and ride away with a piano? Naturally, if you insist that your borse be a rare Arab steed, with long, flowing tail, you may have to wait for altered circumstances to purchase this priceless treasure, but if you can be satisfied with an excellent, all-round, serviceable medium of delight, then waste no more time, but he you to C. The Only Possible Peace

By Frederic C. Howe Commissioner of Immigration of the Port of New York

Dr. Howe sees the European war from an entirely new angle as a struggle for imperialism of world states and primarily economic. He sketches the economic development of Germany, the colossal banking institutions, the industrial imperialistic classes that have risen to power during the last twenty-five years, and traces the war to the industrial rather than exclusively to the Junker class, The road to a durable peace is through ending the struggle for exclusive territories by the opening up of the world to freedom; by the ending of economic exploitation and the conquest of weak peoples. He would place the Mediter-ranean, the Balkan States, Turkey, and Asia Minor under

The Duo-Art Pianola-Piano

> This-the latest Aeolian creation-is the greatest musical instrument in the world.

(C. J. Heppe & Son, Philadelphia Representatives)

Can you imagine a piano so built that Harold Bauer—or any artist—can sit down and play it and then leave the piano and listen to it as it repeats his previous effort?

The Duo-Art is such an instrument!

It records as the artist plays, and then reproduces every note exactly with most accurate expression. It does this in your home.

It is also a perfect player-piano-you yourself can play any standard roll most expressively without pumping.

As to its merit as a piano-one need only mention the pianos in which the Duo-Art is built-the Steinway, Weber, Steck and Stroud -all on sale at Heppe's.

Call at Heppe's and hear your favorite pianist play any standard composition. Illustrated catalogues will be sent if you desire.
