BLAMES GIRARD ESTATE

Wilhelm Says Royalties Demanded Are Unjust

Pottsville, Jan. 30.—William Wilhelm, attorney for the United States Senate Committee which is investigating the anthracite business, in a review of reports in preparation for the government charged that transportation companies in Pennsylvania control over 80 per cent of the anthracite production, "in direct violation of the State Constitution, which forbids transportation companies to be interested directly or indirectly in mining."

Wilhelm says the investigation has proved that what is known as the Reading Company, a holding corporation, not only owns the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, controlling 45 per cent of all the unmined coal, but has, in addition, the ownership of all the collieries of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Company.

In his report Wilhelm finds that the Board of City Trusts is violating many of the most important provisions of Stephen Girard's will. "I can think of nothing more unjust and inhuman than the excessive royalties demanded by the Girard Estate, running from 70 cents to $1.30 a ton, necessarily making the cost to the consumer most burdensome. This is an unpatriotic and uncharitable act which Girard himself would never have sanctioned. The high price of coal to the consumer is more the fault of the Girard Estate than any other one cause."

BOLD, BAD BOY BANDITS

They Commit Burglary, Steal Tools and Candy and Bombard Schoolhouse

Lansdale, Pa., Jan. 30.—A gang of small boys, for several of whom warrants have been issued, broke into the Blue Rock farm, the country estate of Miss Anna Weideman Burger, on the Welsh road. Miss Burger is in California. So far as can be learned nothing of value was taken from the house. Tools were stolen from the garage.

Boys of the same "gang" broke into the Lansdale High School and took a small sum of money and some candy which was being sold for the benefit of the school athletic association. Two boys of the same "gang" threw stones and mud through windows at the Kulpsville School and it was necessary to dismiss the school.

Army Aviator Killed, One Hurt

Stilton, Ky., Jan. 30.—Second Lieutenant William T. Morgan, of the Twenty-ninth Aero Squadron, was killed, and Second Lieutenant Harold Edward Rice, of the Seventy-second Regiment Field Artillery, was probably fatally injured when an artillery observation airplane in which they were flying fell in a nose-dive from an altitude of a thousand feet at the Camp Knox flying field here late yesterday.

MARSHALL URGES WORLD TRIBUNAL

Vice President Addresses 214 Graduates of Peirce School

WOULD PUT END TO WAR

Bolshevists Called International Weary Willies Who Cannot Menace Peace of U. S.

Thomas Riley Marshall, Vice President of the United States, declared for a world tribunal to prevent wars in an address to the graduating class of Peirce School last night at the Academy of Music. There were 214 graduates in the class, twenty-five of whom are in the service.

"Either we must have some system for the settlement of international disputes peaceably or there will never be another noncombatant on the face of the earth, because the tank and bombing plane and submarine will spare neither old man nor maiden," said Mr. Marshall.

"We are in doubt what to do about a league of peace or a league to enforce peace or any other sort of league. There is just one thing we know, and that is we have had enough of war and we are hoping and praying and believing that in some way, under the providence of God and with the patriotic endeavors and peace-loving sentiments of the men who sit around the peace table in Europe, there may be some provision made so that never again till the stars grow old and the leaves of the judament book unfold shall the Son of God or the son of man be compelled to offer his life a sacrifice upon the altars of the military system of government.

No Menace to Peace

"There is a good deal said now about the Bolsheviists. I do not know who they are, and I wish you would quit thinking about them. You are going to scare yourself into a blue funk about them. These international 'weary willies' are no menace to the peace and order of America.

"My sympathies are with the man who wants to work and are for him to have all necessaries and many of the luxuries of life in this American republic of ours. I do not believe one man of the 2,000,000 who went across the sea or even in the 2,000,000 who stayed on this side entered the army that they might become objects of public charity at the close of the war. They are self-respecting, high-grade, consecrated American citizens, the finest type of men on the earth. Keep cool. They are coming back and will take hold of lawlessness and disorder the moment it raises its head in American life. I am willing to turn over my small reins to them and thank them for their services in the cause of God and humanity.

Worried About Russia

"You are worried about Russia and so am I. I repeat what I said some time ago, that there will not be a democracy in Russia for fifty years. You cannot organize self-control without having an educated people."

More than 1000 graduates of the Peirce School have answered the call to the colors and in the service flag are fifteen gold stars in honor of graduates who have made the great sacrifice. During the period of the school's existence more than 100,000 pupils have been enrolled.

Prof. John A. Luman, vice president of the Peirce School, presented the diplomas. The Rev. George Pentecost, D. D., pastor of Bethany Presbyterian Church, offered prayer and the Philharmonic Orchestra furnished the music.

RETURNING SOLDIERS TELL TALES OF UNUSUAL HEROISM

West Philadelphia Boy Risked Life to Go Through Barrage and Save German Women Gunners—Captain Drayton, Wounded by Shrapnel, in New York Hospital

Tales of American heroism on the battle lines in France, Belgium and Italy are told by Philadelphia soldiers returned from active service.

One local hero, Private Charles Iskin, Company A, 148th Infantry, 6026 Spruce street, risked his life to dash through an American barrage to save the lives of five German women chained to machine guns.

The rescue took place at the Argonne Forest. The Americans, Iskin says, had gone through "five days of hell," but were advancing. Then they saw the German women frantically trying to free themselves from the machine guns and Iskin effected the rescue.

About 400 marines, men of the Fifth and Sixth Regiments, the two marine regiments made immortal by their fighting at Chateau-Thierry and the Belleau Wood, are at League Island. Of the 400 men 190 are casuals and the majority of the remainder are men who were wounded or gassed but recovered.

The men of the Fifth and Sixth Regiments wear the highly prized fourragere, a unit decoration of plaited ropes worn over the left shoulder. This decoration is given to units of exceptional caliber after they have distinguished themselves on the field. So fierce was the fighting at the Belleau Wood that the French have renamed the place the Bois de Brigade Marine Americaine.

For bravery under fire six Philadelphia soldiers working with the armies in Italy have been awarded war crosses. They are Charles Cholmeley-Jones, of Broomall; David M. Uhler, 26 North Salford street; Ralph M. Woodruff, of Selinsgrove street; Wayne G. Steele, 1632 Margaret street; Victor Egbert, 4818 Springfield avenue; Harry G. Jester, 813 East Chelten avenue, and Harold D. Haslett, 1832 North Croskey street.

All are members of Ambulance Section 573, commanded by Lieutenant Claude G. Aitkens, and trained at Allentown. Other Philadelphians thought to be in the unit were decorated also.

Captain F. R. Drayton, Headquarters' Company, 315th Infantry, former University of Pennsylvania oarsman, has arrived at New York and is recovering from shrapnel wounds in the leg at the Polyclinic Hospital there. He was wounded at Montfaucon on September 28 and was later cited for bravery in the same action.

Captain Drayton received his diploma from the University of Pennsylvania in 1917 when he left that institution to enlist in the first officers' training camp at Fort Niagara. He was graduated and received his commission there.

"For faithful service" John Deitelbaum, of 2055 North Fourth street, has been decorated by King Albert of Belgium, according to a letter received from him by his parents. He is with the 428th Motortruck Corps. He makes no mention of the work that gained him the distinction.

Fifteen times over the top in five days and a score of twenty-five Germans to his credit is the record claimed by Mechanic Harry H. Beeby, in a letter to his wife, Mrs. Ethel Beeby, 1109 South Fifty-first street.

Daniel Cannon, 3059 Aramingo avenue, injuries at Camp Dix, is still wrought up over the barbarous action of the Germans in destroying the field hospital of the Seventy-ninth Division, the unit of Pennsylvania draftees trained and sent over from Camp Meade.

PHILADELPHIAN WINS D. S. C.

Germantown Boy Displayed Bravery in Carrying Messages

For bravery displayed in carrying messages through heavy bombardment from Jaulgonne to La Channel, July 26, Corporal Walter Kaufmann, a member of the Fourth United States Infantry, now with the army of occupation in Meisenheim, Coblenz was presented with the Distinguished Service Cross.

W. KAUFMANN

The news of the awarding of the honor emblem was received this week by Corporal Kaufmann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kaufmann, 1302 East Chelten avenue, Germantown, in a letter from their son.

Corporal Kaufmann enlisted in 1917 and trained at Camp Meade. His brother, Joel, is attached to the aerial squadron at Camp Meigs.

Launch Campaign for Twenty Per Cent Increase and Arrange Meeting

Public school teachers of Camden have launched a campaign for a 20 per cent increase in salaries. The present average pay of the Camden teachers is $825 a year.

A salary committee, representing the teaching body of the Camden High School and the thirty-eight elementary schools will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Genge School, Sixth and Market streets, Camden.

A taxpayers' petition, endorsing the movement, was presented last night to the Board of Education and the Board of School Estimate. Several hundred names were signed to the petition, including those of many of Camden's most influential residents.

Among the signers were Charles K. Hadden, vice president of the Victor Talking Machine Company; Charles A. Reynolds, president of the Keystone Leather Company; Alfred L. Sayres, president of the Parkside Trust Company, and E. G. C. Blakeley, City Solicitor.
