Exist Secretly

Washington, Jan. 20.—(By A. P.)— Nearly 590,000 railway employes, or onefourth of the entire number of railroad men, have effected some sort of organization in recent months, according to reports reaching labor leaders here. Most of these men had been wholly unorganized previously or had belonged to trades which were only partially organized. Many local organizations, it was said, now exist secretly and are known to railroad executives only through committees which claim to represent the men, though not as union spokesmen.

A large proportion of the recently organized employes are clerks, maintenance-of-way men, shopmen and diningcar employes.

"We believe that nation-wide prohibition having been adopted it would be wrong to have a President who was opposed to cnforcing the dry laws.

"Our organization is not putting Congressman Fess forward as a presidential candidate, although we are friendly to Mr. Fess, as we are to about 200 other Congressmen who have voted with us.

"There are certain persons in cur organization, of course, who would favor a straightout presidential candidate on the dry ticket, but that is not favored by the majority of our members, and is contrary to our official policy.
