

MARTYR'S WIFE PROUD IN TEARS

Overwork Killed Physician Who Released Others for War Service

HERO, SAYS MRS. GRIGGS

Doctor Persuaded Friends to Go Overseas When He Was Rejected

He was a martyr to his country and his profession, was the tribute paid today by his widow to Dr. William C. Griggs, 558 North Thirty-eighth street, who died yesterday from overwork.

Dr. Griggs fell dead in the operating room at the Misericordia Hospital, when stricken with heart disease. He had been attending hundreds of patients for three other physicians, whose practice he took over to enable them to offer their services for work overseas, after he had been rejected. Loss of sleep and the constant strain proved fatal.

It is not a matter of his husband as if he had been killed in action," said Mrs. Griggs, through her tears.

Doctor Griggs not only accepted the responsibility of caring for the patients of his friends, but he also gave to their dependents left behind all the income accruing from the work. The task he set for himself was almost insuperable at one time during the height of the influenza epidemic more than 125 calls a day being made, but he stuck bravely to his post, despite frequent warnings of overwork even by his wife.

He died in the operating room at the Misericordia Hospital. He had been overworked.

AGAINST FIXING PRICE OF WHEAT

Chicago Board Opposes Control by U. S. Grain Corporation

AN ECONOMIC FALLACY

Breaks Law of Supply and Demand, House Committee Is Told

Washington, Feb. 2.—Legislation to continue the food administration's grain corporation to maintain the 1918 price guarantee was attacked today by P. Gates, representing the Chicago Board of Trade, before the House Agriculture Committee. He urged that wheat be sold at the world price and declared the Chicago Board was in favor of returning to the law of supply and demand.

The price guarantee was given bidders to the grain corporation for price control and appropriate $1,250,000,000 for its working capital.

It is a fallacy to suppose that if the business men of the country had the knowledge of it, they would come to Washington and camp here until the measure was disposed of," declared Mr. Gates.

A. E. Reynolds, of Crawfordville, Ind., chairman of the Grain Dealers' National Association legislative committee, said if the proposed legislation prevailed the only thing to do was to wait and see what the agency's course would be and that too much uncertainty was involved.

Mr. Reynolds presented resolutions of his association urging Congress to appropriate not less than $125,000,000 for maintaining the price and that consumers buy wheat and wheat products at the export price. A loss of $1 a bushel on wheat, he estimated, might be suffered by the consumer.

"The government," Mr. Gates asserted, "adopted an economic fallacy at the start by breaking the law of supply and demand. There are two ways out; one to drag along by some agency disregarding the economic law, and the other to pay the penalty. The latter will cost less and be more certain."

What is the keystone of the cost of living? he added, saying that "the whole thing will tumble if you knock out the keystone of the arch of wheat."

Many representatives of the grain trade appeared at the hearings, which will continue through Wednesday. Miller and two ways out; one to drag along by some agency disregarding the economic law, and the other to pay the penalty. The latter will cost less and be more certain."

Committee Will Not Meet Every Transport Reaching This Port

Every army transport arriving at Philadelphia with soldiers from overseas will be inspected by a committee which has been empowered to arrange official welcome for returning heroes, according to Robert D. Driggs, chairman of the committee.

Mr. Driggs made this announcement when he was asked why there was no official demonstration to greet the nine Philadelphians who reached here Saturday.

Mr. Driggs said that the committee was not held because the men were formerly attached to the 11th and 11th Infantry, and had been wounded and gassed in the battle from Chateau Thierry to Argonne Forest.

PROBES ASKED OF WAR CONDUCT

Representative Siegel Presents Resolution Calling for Searching Inquiry

Washington, Feb. 2.—The way was paved today for a searching investigation by Congress into every phase of the American conduct of the war at home and abroad when Congressman Isaac Siegel, of New York City, introduced in the House a resolution of inquiry.

The proposed investigation, which seems assured, would reveal much of interest regarding the treatment of the Pennsylvania troops in camps in this country and in France, and disclose facts concerning the care of their dependents at home, charges of mismanagement, discrimination and inefficiency in many branches of the army.

The resolution will have the almost unanimous support of Republicans and a large number of Democrats.

The resolution calls attention to the declarations that 10,000 soldiers who went to France are reported missing without any trace of their whereabouts. It also mentions reports affecting the honor and integrity of high army officers.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Suspension of government control over coal prices, which was effected Saturday, has increased prices on the higher grades of bituminous coal. The advance amounted to $1.00 a ton on Pocahontas coal.

The National Coal Association in its official organ, the Daily Digest, says today on basis of telegraphic reports, in some of the anthracite districts, that a selling without Federal restrictions "prices generally held firm at the prevailing government level, though in several districts the better grades of coal have advanced."

Reports from various districts in Pennsylvania and Maryland, the operators' bulletin reports, "show sales generally at the previous government prices, but high quality coals, well prepared, in some districts, were sold at a premium, increases over the previous government prices."
