The annual Philadelphia County Fair at Byberry will be held this season from the 1st to the 5th of September. This was decided at a meeting of the members of the Central Fair Circuit, held this week at the Elks' Home, Lebanon, Pa. A. E. Leatherman, the local representative at the annual meeting, asked that the local association be given the dates on which they have held their meeting in the past. This met with the approval of the schedule committee and permission was granted.

The dates for the members of the circuit follow:

- August 19-22, Kutztown. August 24-29, Lebanon. September 1-5, Philadelphia. September 5-12, Nazareth. September 16-20, Reading. September 22-27, Allentown. September 28-October 3, Lancaster. October 7-10, York. This is the same circuit which was in operation last season with the exception of Kutztown, which was admitted to membership at this week's meeting. This will greatly lessen the expense of the exhibitors and horses and will give eight fine tracks upon which to race. The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic in the history of the organization. Every member reported the outlook for a successful season the best ever. All plan to have more exhibitors of agriculture, livestock, poultry and horse races. A. E. Leatherman, of this city, was elected to the office of vice president. The other officers chosen are: President, A. S. Deysher, of Reading; and secretary-treasurer, H. C. Heckert, of York. The following attended the meeting: J. Rhoder, Kutztown, Pa.; J. Becker, A. P. Palmer, William Bolman and John F. Bolman, Lebanon, Pa.; A. E. Leatherman, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. R. CHORUS GIRLS ROBBED OF COSTUMES IN CAMP

Dressing Rooms Are Bereft of Finery Between Acts in Lee's Liberty Theatre

Camp Lee, Va., Feb. 21.—Thieves have been active in certain parts of the camp recently. The Knights of Columbus building No. 2 was robbed Wednesday night of $49.50. Also the girl members of the Marine Revue Company found that their stage costumes for one of the acts had disappeared when they went to the dressing rooms at the Liberty Theatre for Wednesday night's performance. Captain Warran Dyer, of Philadelphia, camp insurance officer, has returned from a Washington conference of insurance officers from all camps, and is prepared to furnish to all discharged soldiers information as to the permanent forms of insurance into which the present war risk insurance may be converted. Captain Dyer says the new insurance is the cheapest in the world, costing for $5000 at twenty-eight years $5.95 a month, or $82.10 a year. At somewhat higher rates he may take out twenty-year, life, thirty-year, life, twenty-year endowment, thirty-year endowment or endowment at the age of sixty-two, with other provisions that incorporate into the policy the combined advantages of life and accident and health insurance. The population of Camp Lee ebbed and flowed again today. Seven hundred and seventy-one men left the camp for other points where they will be demobilized and 637 overseas troops came here from Camp Upton and Hoboken to be discharged immediately or to other camps for final demobilization. The men who came were twenty-six officers and 159 men from a Hoboken casual company, 32 men from the 32nd Infantry and 142 men from the 37th Infantry. With the exception of the Hoboken company, the organizations were composed entirely of negroes. The 43rd and 48th Aero Squadrons were the organizations transferred to other camps. The Sixty-second Infantry is the only remaining unit of the Eighth Division now at Lee. The Sixty-second has demobilized 50 per cent of its men, and as it is a regular army organization, it will be recruited to peace-time strength from regulars reporting here from time to time. Major General Adelbert Cronkite, who commanded the Eightieth Division, has received citation for a Distinguished Service Medal by General Pershing. The formal celebration of Washington's Birthday will take place here Sunday night, when Dr. Elwood C. Perisho, president of the South Dakota State College, will address the officers and men in the big "Y" hut.

DEPLORES JUNGLE LAW

Recounts War Experience Before Large Audience in New York City

New York, Feb. 21.—Philip Gibbs, correspondent with the British armies for London newspapers, at his first public lecture in America at Carnegie Hall last night, recounted vividly many of his experiences from the first days of the war to the signing of the armistice. An audience of more than 3700 men and women heard his praise of British, French and American troops. In conclusion Mr. Gibbs said that the victory would not be worth much if it were the result of the blood sacrifice of those who took part in the conflict there did not come something better than the old philosophy of life which led to the war. The war would have been in vain, he said, if the Americans and British who fought shoulder to shoulder, did not seal in bonds of friendship the sacrifices made together in the trenches. Old Order Must Change "It will have been in vain if the old jungle law remains in Europe," he continued, "and if these same people separated in the future by trade competition and commercial rivalry. But by God's grace we shall not be separated. The English people desire the friendship of the American people, and I know that America desires the friendship of England, and here before you, in this great hall, the first time I have ever spoken to an audience, I dedicate my pen to furthering friendship between America and England." The subject of Mr. Gibbs' talk was "The Soul of the War." The chairman of the meeting was a former fellow correspondent, Lieutenant Colonel Frederick Palmer. He described the "miracle" of the first and second battles of the Marne, the British retreat from Mons, the Somme battles, the great attack of the Germans in 1917 and his great surprise on coming on the Americans of the Seventy-seventh Regiment in the historic forest of Crecy. In the tragic retreat of the British from Mons, said Mr. Gibbs, the men were so tired that they dropped asleep in their tracks. An officer went to a shop in the town, purchased some penny whistles and toy drums and distributed them among several sergeants. They played "The British Grenadier" and at the sound of the penny whistles and the toy drums the men bestirred themselves and followed the players back to battle. That day two Scottish pipers kept at their pipes, though seriously wounded, and received the Victoria Cross for their bravery. Describing the American soldiers, Mr. Gibbs said: "It was good to see such men. These fine upstanding lads with an erect look in their eyes, so different from the tired look of the men from whom I had just come. And when I passed those Ameri-

CONVERSION RATES OF WAR INSURANCE

Government Figures 30 Per Cent Less Than Those of Private Companies

General Martin, Who Lost His Command, Calls It Unjust

Washington, Feb. 21.—Conversion rates for government war risk insurance have been announced and average 30 per cent lower than rates for similar policies in private companies, it is announced. They are based upon the American experience table of mortality, with interest at 3 1/2 per cent, figured on a monthly basis, but because the government pays all expenses of administration a net rate less than demanded by commercial policies is possible. Rates for converted policies are at age attained, and no credit can be made for premiums paid for war risk insurance. Premiums paid annually are slightly less than when paid monthly. A monthly rate for $1000 or government insurance follows: Age 20-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 50-54, 55-59, 60-64, 65-69, 70-74, 75-79, 80-84, 85-89, 90-94, 95-99. PORTRAIT UNVEILED IN DELAWARE HOUSE

DECORATION FOR HIBBEN

Princeton's President Will Get Cross of Legion of Honor

Haver, Del., Feb. 21.—The unveiling of the restored portrait of George Washington in the Delaware State Capitol here yesterday in the presence of the two houses and a large assemblage of people from all over the state occupied the greater part of the day's session, the entire afternoon being given up to the affair, at which former Federal Judge and United States Senator George Gray delivered the address. The portrait had hung in the Delaware State House for 118 years. It was unveiled by Miss Marjorie Johnson, daughter of the Delaware Secretary of State. At the short session of the Senate three bills were passed, including the House bill, introduced by Representative Francis, regulating the sale of narcotics in the city of Wilmington. The bill was explained by Mr. Green, deputy attorney general. It is aimed more particularly at the illegal sale of cocaine, which has been increasing in Wilmington. Having passed both houses, it now awaits the signature of the Governor. The Senate unanimously passed the mothers' pension bill, increasing the appropriation from the several counties of the state from $2500 yearly to $8000. After a bitter fight the Senate bill limiting the length of seine nets to be fished with in the Delaware Bay was passed. Members of the House were apparently in a fighting mood. The House had not been in session more than fifteen minutes before a wrangle started over two bills called for final action, one by Representative Clandaniel concerning the Sussex County Levy Court and the other by Representative Klair, the state-wide prohibition bill. Because of objections to bringing the bills up in so short a time after being reported out of committee, Republicans and Democrats alike joined in having both bills deferred until a later date. Failing to agree on a bill that could be taken up for final action, the House had a recess until the afternoon, and after the Washington portrait exercises adjournment was taken until today.
