Tomorrow and Two More Days of the Furniture Sale

Do the Wild Ducks and Pelicans of the South

have an almanac of their own to tell them when the State clocks strike the hour when their governmental protection from sportsmen ceases and when it begins again?

A gentleman familiar with the facts has just told us that at Mare Island, near San Francisco, a military station where the gunners have constant target practice, the quail and other game have a season of protection from sportsmen—the birds are running and flying everywhere.

Despite the sharp, resounding reports of rifles, the birds and ducks never notice guns or gunners.

But the remarkable and well-known fact was recorded also that with the return of the first day terminating the closed season, all the game disappeared, not to return again until the open season had passed.

Are these curious little living creatures endowed with an intelligence equivalent to a thinking apparatus or is it to teach men and women not to be reckless of enemies surrounding them against whom they should be on guard?

The danger zones of life, trade or profession are not always plainly marked on the maps.

Every Woman Will Like the New Spring Wraps—They Are Lovely!

Designers seem never to have lost sight of beauty when planning these new wraps, for they are charming.

Some are of silky duvetyne, a fabric that makes handsome wraps, because it lends itself so admirably to the new fashions. One taupe duvetyne wrap is quite full, but has sleeves and is absolutely unadorned save for many tiny, tiny tucks. It is lined with rose-colored silk.

Another wool duvetyne coat is in a rich golden brown with one of the new and very full collars and slits for armholes, and is belted across the front. It has blocks of velvety chenille on the collar and the bottom of the wrap.

But there are many other wraps of evora, of bolivia and of silk duvetyne—some embroidered, others plain—but all stunning. They are richly lined and beautifully made and there is usually but one wrap of a kind.

$125 to $275. (First Floor, Central)

New Mesh Bags—Some in Green Gold Finish—

For Their Majesties, the Babies, the Spring Carriages Are Ready

Babies were never so important as they are this minute.

The State puts a higher value upon them; experts are more earnestly concerned about their health, even fathers and mothers might be said to care more about them, if that were possible.

All of which suits the small autocrats to perfection. Also it means more pink cheeks and more shining eyes, more dimples and fat legs. More sheer well-being, in short, than babies ever boasted of before in all their tumbling, small lives.

And baby carriages have a very large finger—or rather wheel—in the pie, being indispensable to those rides in the open air and sunshine which are one secret of the rosy cheeks and all the other prize points of babyhood.

American Dishes Added to the White House Collection

In telling of the work of beautifying and redecorating the White House at Washington, a dispatch states that "a new set of china has been added to the collection of former Presidents."

"Strange to say," continues the dispatch, "it is the only set since Washington's time that is 'made in America.' It is heavy, in burnished gold and blue enamel, and in the center in embossed gold is the seal of the United States."

America has made tremendous strides in the art of pottery-making of late years. The most striking proof of this is the exceptionally fine collection of

American Dinner Sets in the Spring China Sale

These can be had at prices ranging from $17.50 to $50. Some at $32.50 are particularly good examples of what the American potter is doing. These include American sets of 107 pieces, decorated with coin gold bands and with solid gold coin handles. These sets usually sell for more than half as much again.

On another American set of 106 pieces the narrow border decoration has the touch of black that so individualizes china, daintily wrought in a fine and tiny running pattern, broken artistically here and there, that sets off the wee pink roses most beautifully.

A very interesting feature of the China Sale is the special display of dinner sets, shown on one long continuous counter running through the center of the China Store, and on which we show in most convenient form our entire selection of dinner sets of American and English porcelain, French and Japanese china, all of which are being offered in this Spring Sale at 20 to 50 per cent less than regular prices.
