Thomas W. Kelly Victim of Poison Vapor in Last Moments of War

48 CITY MEN WOUNDED

Over 270 Pennsylvanians on Today's Casualty List, But None Killed

ello VILLIAM C. PETERS. THOMAS W KELLY Gaused

To go uninjured through several of the fercest engagements of the war and to severely gassed while carrying an order from headquarters to officers in his to cease firing because of the armistice, was the experience of Thomas W. Kelly, one of the Philadel-phians reported wounded in today's ofmalty list.

Kelly told of his experiences in a let-ter to a sister. Mrs. Mary Streifig, 4661. Ogie street, Manayunk. He said: "I came through several engagements without a scratch, until on November 11, in the eleventh hour, I was detailed to take orders down the line notifying to take orders down the line horitying the officers that the armistice had been signed, when I ran into a boche gas barrage and was knocked out." He is recovering. Kelly is a member of Company H. 109th Infantry, and was formerly in the National Guard Penn-sylvania. He enlisted in July, 1917, and was to interesting the family of the second was in intensive training at Camp Hancock until May of last year, when his regiment salled overseas. On his ar-rival in France he was promoted to corporal, and selected as a dispatch bearer, which entailed many dangers. Kelly is twenty-one years old. He expects to sail for home soon.

Fought in Eight Battles

Another Philadelphian named in the report today has written home of the thrilling experiences he had, and of how he was wounded. 'He is Corporal Wil-liam C. Peters, 444 Ripka street, Rox-Peters, who is a member of Company

F. 109th Infantry, was wounded Sep-tember 28. In a letter home he said that he was in the battles of the Arconne, St. Mihiel, Arras, St. Agnes and four others. "A part of my right hand was blown off by a bursting shell," wrote Peters. "and that put me out of commission." The is twenty years old. He enlisted in March, 1917, and trained nearly a year before sailing. Henry Swartley, Peter's grandfather, is a Civil War veteran, A brother of the soldier. John B. Peters, was in the army during the war, but was not assigned to foreign dury.
