

A State House Glimpse : On the Peaks at Chamonix : Varied Views From Home and Abroad

A LITTLE GROUP AT PLAY on the old cobblestone driveway at the rear of Independence Hall, merry in the springtime sunshine of early March.

ONE OF THE FEATURES OF THE PARADE of returned veterans in Washington was this U. S. engineer portable sound detector. Its purpose is to warn of the approach of enemy airplanes.

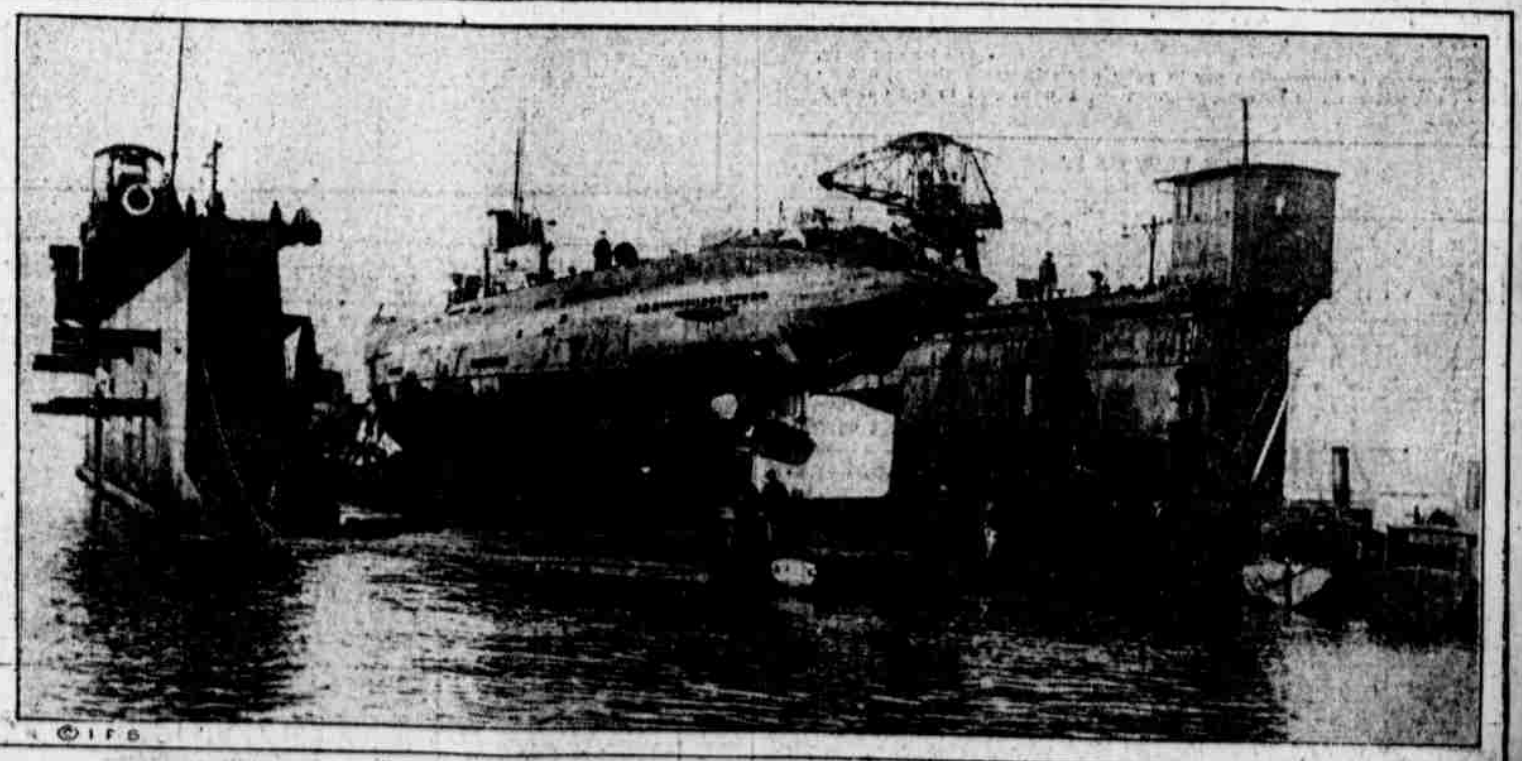

AMERICAN SOLDIERS from the top of one of the heights near Chamonix hailing Mount Wilson, one of the peaks named in honor of the President. Chamonix is one of the famous French winter resorts high in the Alps, and is now a leave center for American soldiers.

AFTER-THE-WAR spring millinery. A straw hat shaped on the lines of a Yank's trench helmet.

ONE OF WASHINGTON'S pretty debutantes, Miss Courtney Letts, will be one of the aides at the Free-Milk-for-France carnival and ball in Washington tomorrow.

ENGLAND OVERHAULING SURRENDERED U-BOATS. One of the relinquished German submarines in a floating drydock at Harwich, England, undergoing repairs.