Insamuch as the only source of pree-ent supply of linens is Ireland increased production of household linens and lower prices for both piece goods and fluished merchandise is out of the ques-tion for at least six months, and for a decidedly longer period in the opinion of not a few importers of linen and other goods and of the Belfast mill men themselves, whose expressions are given out by recipients of cable and letter in-formation passing between dealers in linen in this country and abroad.

Sellers of crude drugs reported a con-tinuance of jobbing business from the general trade. The tone in most do-mestic products is comparatively firm, this being especially the case with yerba anna and uva jeaves as well as genega

Canned goods prices showed signs of fecovery on Saturday and there was a firmer tone in evidence throughout the market. It was generally believed that Thursday's and Friday's declines were at least premature and that no wide-spread break in prices might be expected for some time yet to come, possibly until next season.

MEN IN BUSINESS HOLD VARIED OPINIONS ON CONDITIONS ABROAD

Visitors, Returning From Europe, Come Back With Quite Different Stories-Trade Reports Show Surprising Situation-Gossip of the Street

"HOW is it," remarked a prominent banker, "that men like Mr. Gug-genhelm and Mr. Schwab and one or two others bring back such pessimistic stories from Europe, while Judge Gary, who is thoroughly informed, and some others who also have been over there, come back with quite different stories?" If we consult the government trade reports, he said, we find a sur prising condition of affairs. The highest amount of exports for any one menth in the nation's history was in January last, but by analysis of the destination of these exports we find that to most European countries our exports show a decrease for that month, with the exception of the Scandinavian countries, which were largely increased. At the same time our exports to South American countries, Asia and Australia also in-

The thought in this connection is, are we again feeding Germany through these greatly increased exports to the Scandinavian countries, as we discovered we were during the war? He added that it is safe to say Mr. Hoover is looking after that.

Comment in the Street and in banks and brokers' offices on Saturday was very favorable toward the offering of $7,410,000 New York Central Railroad equipment trust of 1917 certificates, paying 6 per cent interest, and $7,800,000 Michigan Central Railroad equipment trust of 1917 certificates, paying 6 per cent. These certificates are secured by first and only charge upon equipment leased by the trustees respectively to the New York Central Railroad Company and the Michigan Central Railroad Company.

The syndicate was composed of the Bankers' Trust Company and Hallgarten & Co., of New York, and the Union Trust Company, of Pittsburgh. The applications for an interest in the syndicate underwriting were for an amount much greater than the syndicate managers could allot

These certificates were offered to the highest bidder by the railroad administration and were secured by the above syndicate.

Dividends on Baldwin Common

From time to time there have been rumors of various kinds affoat in the Street about Baldwin's, nearly all of which subsequently proved without foundation. A broker when speaking of the strength of Baldwin's, especially since the recent annual meeting, said he understood that a good authority had stated that certain stockholders have been assured that not later than May next a dividend would be paid on the common stock, but while the rate was not stated, the indications were it would be around 6 per cent.

There is a possibility that this rumor may share the fate of many others circulated about the same stock, and fail to materialize.

On Saturday Baldwin's was the star performer in the last hour of trading. It moved up 4% points to 87%. It was said that a certain New York house, which was represented at the Baldwin annual meeting a few days ago, had bought 1000 shares during the Saturday short session.

Clearing System for Negotiable Securities

The frequent robberies of bank and brokers' messengers, especially in New York, has started a movement in that city for a central clearing system for Liberty Bonds and other negotiable securities, so as to make the actual delivery unnecessary.

No one could be found to give an estimate of the amount of such securities which each day are being carried, virtually without protection, around the streets between the uptown and downtown financial

The plan which is suggested in New York is that the bonds be de sited in a central clearing house and that receipts be issued similar to those for stock clearings and bank loans, in this manner changing these securities into non-negotiable receipts of a clearing house. In fact, the plan is, in a way, similar to that now employed by the Federal Reserve system in the case of gold.

Local Brokers' Opinions on Market

Edward B. Smith & Co. in their market opinion for the week say: The failure to pass the emergency appropriation bill and the reduction in dividends of copper companies had no adverse effect on the market and prices continue to improve. This indicates that stocks have been well liquidated and further improvement may be expected whenever favorable news is received."

Speaking of business conditions, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York remarks:

"There is general agreement among observers of business conditions that the slowness with which prices are receding from their high war levels, and the certainty that they will come down eventually, have combined to make buyers timid about making contracts. The rule of dayto-day purchasing, therefore, continues in effect, and producers are not accumulating stocks except where there is a prospect of foreign markets. The result is a steady increase of nonemployment. This tendency to mark time, arising from ordinary conditions of demand and supply, is aggravated by the uncertainty of Congress in handling problems affecting fundamental industries. Railroads and shipping are subjects of extended debate, but definite action is wanting. A tendency to dally with the possibilities of extending government ownership and control is not helping the situation."

Bonbright & Co. believe that:

The tide has turned in the public utility situation and there is a decided change for the better, investment bankers report, as the result of a study of recent net earnings of the companies. In expressing this view they cite: Among increases in net earnings for December, 1918. compared with December, 1917, American Gas and Electric Company, an increase of 65.6 per cent: American Power and Light Company, 25.4 per cent; Detroit Edison Company, 17.4 per cent, and Southern California Edison Company, 18.6 per cent. Among increases in net earnings for January, 1919, compared with January, 1918, Nashville Railway and Light Company, 11.4 per cent; Scranton Electric Company, 12.9 per cent; Ten nessee Power Company, 54.1 per cent; Chattanooga Railway and Light Company, 40.9 per cent; Duluth Edison Electric Company, 26.7 per cent; the Excelsior Springs Water, Gas and Electric Company, 28.3 per cent."

Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, in his annual report for the Bell System which was made public today, makes another strong appeal for a nation-wide universal telephone service and appeals strongly for a regulated monopoly rather than government ownership. Attention is called to the present operation of the telephone lines by the government, but Mr. Vail explains to the stockholders that the control is not permanent.  Regarding the uniformed plan he says that it "would be extremely unfortunate if, with a pronounced public sentiment in favor of it, a wire system with nation-wide, universal, comprehensive service and complete utilization of all the facilities cannot be evolved from the existing conditions. It seems paradoxical that the interpretation and application of existing laws against restraint of trade should be an obstacle in the way." that regulated monopoly is better than unregulated government ownership, and there is no longer any extensive conviction that there can be effective competition in the electric transmission of intelligence."

Changes in the existing laws concerning control and regulation, competition and combination are held to be necessary, and Mr. Vall closes with a few basic principles upon which such changes should be built. The conclusion is that similar utilities in territories economically determined, should be combined; should have an operating organization shown to be efficient and economical and with their administration there should be somehow combined by legislation the power, freed as far as possible from political and class influence and subject to reasonable review. To equilibrate capital charges, operating costs and revenues.

For these reasons, he explains, the first consideration in the arrangement with the government was the preservation and conservation of the property and its organization. and continuance of an essential service, hence the tery of the agreement were substantially ed by existing conditions.

It is shown that the extraordinary rapidity of the increase in wages and in cost of material could not be met by economies in operation. To provide revenue against them a campage of readjustment of rates had been started during 1917 which was well under way during 1917 which was well under way when the properties were taken over, the total increase deemed necessary to meet abnormal increase in expenses being something under 16 per cent. The necessity of continuing this campaign was fully set forth to the Postmaster General. The business policy of the Bell system was exhaustively discussed and ing something under 19 per cent. The necessity of continuing this campaign was fully set forth to the Postmaster General. The business policy of the Bell system was exhaustively discussed and recommendation for compensation as submitted to the President by the Postmaster General "was substantially in accord with the Bell system's proposal."

"There is an absolute and immutable relation between the total cost of production of any commedity or service and the total costs of the factors or elements which contribute to production," he as-

which contribute to production," he as-serts. This sounds so commonplace that it seems useless to state it. It would also seem unnecessary to state that the price at which any service can be continu-ously sold is governed by the cost at which it can be continuously produced, and yet the public have, without any consistency with their individual pra tice in their other activities, persistently disregarded these truisms and resisted the application of them to charges for the service of public utilities of necessity."

Mr. Vail presents a diagram which shows the rise in commodity costs and wages, while telephone rates have re-mained almost stationary, and relatively to prices of commodities in general they have decreased 30 per cent. "About 12 per cent increase in rates is needed, which appears almost negligible when compared with advances in the cost of other commodities," he claims,
