Laws to Check Increasing Stolen Car Menace Are Also Submitted

Harrisburg, March 10 .- Not until some greement is reached on what legislation recement is reached on what legislation to be passed regulating the size and seight of motortrucks in Pennsylvania an any steps be taken by the state High-my Department toward the building reconstruction of permanent frunk he highways. The whole question contonting the road engineers is "now such weight must we make the road arry."

The present law carries a maximum weight regulation of 24,000 pounds, but the truck associations of the state are endeavoring to have this weight regulation increased to 28,000 or 30,000 pounds. During past administrations of the Highway Department the roads have been built with foundations of five inches on the sides and seven inches in the center, but under the plan to carry 24,000. ber, but under the plan to carry 24,000 pound traffic the new specifications call for six inches on the side and cight inches of foundation in the center of re-enforced roads and for seven-inch side and nine-inch, foundation in the center of plan couls.

The truck people also desire legislation permitting trucks of ninety-six sheher in width instead of inventy inches and truck lengths of twenty-eight feet instead of twenty feet. There is considerable opposition to these increases as the majority of roads are but sixteen feet wide, and it would be difficult and dangerous in many places for eight-foot wide trucks to pass each other. The long sweep around curves by trucks of state hespitals will be passed upon by state hespitals will be passed upon by the function of the fu this provision, but the general consensus of opinion is that a limit of thirty sules an hour will probably be declided upon. This will increase the speed from the present mark of twenty-four miles an hour. Another suggestion that will increase the speed from the present mark of twenty-four miles an hour. Another suggestion that will likely receive faverable consideration by the lawmakers will be to make every one exceeding the speed limit finally adopted responsible for accidents without out consideration of negligence.

The stolen are will has caused the introduction of a number of bella in both branches of the Legislature regulating sales of motor vehicles and placing upon all public garage owners certain requirements in the way of records that will enable police to roadily locate stolen automobile. Some garage owners are objecting strenuously to making the records required in some of the bille, but it is almost certain that some legislation numbers of sumediate notice much be for in and for atorized or repairs.
