Nancy Wynne Is Delighted to Meet Some One Not in Uniform. She Tells of Plans for the Indoor Horse Show in May—Treble Clef Teas

DO YOU know it's a relief these days to see anything but uniforms in the way of clothes? I know they are neat and trim and every one looks nice in them, but I personally am sick of seeing them, and it was such a relief to meet Sophie Norris, for instance, wearing a blue serge dress with braid embroidery on the skirt and bodice both, and a big soft velvet Tam o' Shanter of black, I could shriek aloud with joy.

And I saw Jean Bullitt at an afternoon affair last Thursday, wearing a wonderful soft cloth coat of blue velvet, with a great wide collar of nutria. She had one of those little blue satin gowns headed in bronze and turned back in the front, and a dress of blue georgette with wide sleeves trimmed with tucks and edged with fringe of self-color, and about the open neck was a soft fold of light tan-colored georgette. The effect of the blue and tan with her tawny gold hair was most fetching.

THE Three Arts Club is having a series of informal teas on Thursday afternoons during the spring at the clubhouse, 1219 Locust street. I believe there are to be a number of prominent people as guests of honor at each one. Last week Mrs. John H. Irwin presided at the tea table and the guests were received by members of the executive staff. Mrs. J. Harry Muller is president of the organization and the members of the board are Miss Agnes Quinlan, Mrs. John P. Lelgo, Mrs. J. Howard Reber, Mrs. Austin Heckacher, Mrs. A. W. Kelsey, Mrs. A. H. Edwards, Mrs. A. Firmin Jack, Mrs. Flood Schaffer, Mrs. John Mickel Okie, Dr. Annie Hand and Mrs. L. D. Crispin.

You know the Three Arts Club is not essentially an art club; it is rather a clubhouse for girls who have come to this city to study the arts—a place where they can live and know nice people and study. It was organized in 1912 and seems to have accomplished its purpose quite satisfactorily. Students have come, I hear, from Canada, London, Paris and Belgium, so many, in fact, that the club can't accommodate them all and is going to try to get more room as soon as it is financially possible.

HAVE you heard that the Indoor Horse Show is going to have championship classes this year? It will be the first time in the history of the show, which reaches back all of eight years. There will be five of them. The show is on the 8th, 9th and 10th of May, you know, at the Third Regiment Armory, and Constance Vaucalin has announced that she will donate the prizes for all the classes. Something new this year will be the cafeteria. This is planned so that you can eat while you watch, or watch while you eat, whichever you prefer.

And a perfectly good Angora goat from the Fallowfield Farms will be chanced off during the three days. This goat is a soldier, or perhaps a sailor or mariner; anyhow, he's in the government service, for you see he was used at the testing grounds at Lakhurst, where 1500 of his kind were subjected to the effect of the gases used by the army during the war, in order to test their power. And some one had to be the goat! (Oh, Nancy, how can you?) Evidently the stuff that was used on him had to be "scrapped," because he came through the whole war and seems to be in fine condition.

There will be afternoon events, of course, and special sessions which are almost entirely for the youngsters. They are always crazy about the indoor show and have a wonderful time every year. Mrs. Walter Hancock is chairman of the committee in charge.

ALL I have to say is, were you there, too? I laughed and laughed and howled myself. I stopped in at one of our well-known and fashionable confectionery stores on Chestnut street on Saturday morning to get something sweet for Sunday.

As I approached the store door I heard loud shrieks, and entering found several girls and two customers—one of those customers a woman you know and I know—standing up on top of the counter. There were several scattered tables and at least five boys in their white coats racing about the room. Then there was an awful thud and they had caught him. Yes, it's true, it was a mouse; a weeny little mouse, that had upset the femininity of that store to such a degree.

Well, I got my cakes and calmed the friend I had found half up on the counter, and that's all there was to it.

NANCY WYNNE.

Social Activities

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. McVaine, Jr., of Ardmore, will entertain at dinner before the Friday evening, in honor of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Garrison, before the meeting of Mrs. Wurtz's dancing class.

Mrs. Matthew Balrd, Jr., will also entertain at dinner before the class.

Mrs. William H. Welsh, of Wayne, gave a fancy-dress party on Saturday afternoon for the Knitting Club, which has met at her house this winter and has made four blankets for the Red Cross. Among the guests were Mrs. Josephine Killinger, Miss Ruth Killinger, Miss Roberta Fox, Miss Alma Scherr, Miss Elizabeth Haukman, Miss Laura Haden, Miss Mildred Ramsey, Miss Josephine Bailey, Miss Eleanor Crossman, Miss Elizabeth Devereaux, Miss Joan Covert and Miss Margaret Covert.

Mrs. John Phelps, of Baltimore, who has been visiting Mrs. R. Emott Hare, is now stopping with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Chase, in Boston, but will return to Mrs. Hare's at the end of the week.

Friends of Mr. P. Williamson Roberts will be glad to hear that he is recovering from his recent illness and is at the Traymore, in Atlantic City. He expects to be able to go very soon to White Sulphur Springs with Mrs. Roberts.

Mrs. Abel P. Wetherill, of Kent road, Wynwood, and Mrs. J. Heron Crossman, of Haverford, returned from New York on Saturday.

Miss Eleanor T. Sloan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burrows Sloan, of Ardmore, will return tomorrow from St. Mary's School, Philadelphia.

Peelackill, for the spring holiday. Mr. and Mrs. Sloan will entertain at dinner on Monday, March 24, for their daughter before the dance at the Merion Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Justus Clayton Strawbridge, of Merion, are spending several weeks in Atlantic City. Mrs. Strawbridge will be remembered as Miss Margaret La Rue.

The regular monthly meeting of the Philadelphia chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy will be held at the Bellevue-Stratford this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Jennings, of 351 Gowan avenue, Chestnut Hill, gave a dinner on Saturday evening at their home in honor of their sons, Mr. William S. Jennings and Mr. Harris C. Jennings, who enlisted when the United States entered the war and have been released from the service. The latter was at the Harvard radio school and the former in the radio school in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings left for New York yesterday to visit Mr. and Mrs. William Melow. Later they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hogg at Mount Vernon.

Mrs. T. William Kimber and her daughter, Miss Natalie Bird Kimber, of 535 Church lane, Germantown, who have been touring through the West to the Pacific coast, have arrived in California.

Miss Sarah Alice Goheen, who has been spending three weeks as the guest of Mrs. Harold Johnson Clark, of 2000 Chestnut street, will leave tomorrow for her home in Tyrone.

Mrs. Max Sherritt, of Overbrook, gave a luncheon-bridge on Friday in honor of her sisters, Mrs. Louis B. Montague, of New York; Mrs. George W. Culver, of Virginia, and Mrs. Francis Q. Wheeler, of New York. There were sixteen guests, Mrs. Richard D. Nichols and Mrs. Harry O. Nichols, who have been spending the winter in Norfolk, Va.

Announcement has been received here of the promotion of Dr. Rutherford L. John, 248 South Twenty-first street, to captain in the United States medical corps with the American expeditionary forces in France. Major John received his first commission as lieutenant in the United States Army in 1912, and was in training at Fort Slocum for five months, later being sent to Allentown, where he joined the Episcopal Base Hospital No. 24, and was promoted to captain in December, 1917, when the Episcopal unit sailed for France. Major John has seen continuous service and he will remain overseas for an indefinite time after the unit leaves in the capacity of consultant in orthopedic surgery of the district in which he is situated. He is the son of Mrs. Hanson A. John, of Media.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Painter, who have been spending some time in Atlantic City, have returned to their home on Chestnut road, Chestnut Hill.

Mrs. Harvey Boyer, of Penarth, Ardmore, and her daughter, Mrs. Edward R. Irving, with a party of friends have called on the steamship Brazos for the West Indies.

Mrs. William Schultz, of Fifteenth and Ontario streets, will entertain the members of her card club at luncheon tomorrow.

Miss Rene M. Duffy, of 509 Spring avenue, Noble, entertained the Five Hundred Club of which she is a member Thursday evening. Her guests included Miss Irene Gillen, Miss Kathryn Douglas, Miss Hazel Wroe, Miss Howard, Miss Edith Graham and Miss Nan McCann.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Toplis have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emma Toplis, to Mr. Thomas B. Smith, 6209 Christian street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Greenfield, of 2103 Jefferson street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Bertha Greenfield, to Mr. Edward John Gilden, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Gilden, also of this city.

EVENING LEDGER MOVIE SHOWS LEAGUE ISLAND

Pictorial News of Current Interest Appears on Local Screens

That the needs of their country at war stimulated the inventive genius of men of all nations is being demonstrated by the number of new inventions that have come to light within the last few months, all the results, in one way or another, of war-time exigencies.

From Paris, France, come news and pictures, which are appearing in the EVENING LEDGER, of a portable radio set, consisting of 11, of a portable air shed—a hangar that is rolled up like a blanket and inflated like a balloon when needed.

Another invention is coming to the fore with a new invention for the unloading of steamers, an interesting machine that proves decidedly superior to the old-fashioned combination of derrick and stevedores.

Another invention developed by work during the war is the wireless telephone, and this issue shows Secretary of the Navy Daniels in Washington holding a conversation with an aviator in flight.

Other features show pictures of the "Ed-dytone Twins," the monster ninety-five-ton naval weapons that shelled Metz being unloading by a transport at the League Island navy yard, photographed by Charles M. Clark; pictures of Secretary Baker, with General Peyton C. March, starting on a tour of France, and scenes from the Camp Custer, in which Pershing's doughboys find relaxation from the strain of army life by derrick and stevedores.

O. H., and the Ladies' Auxiliary, Division No. 2. The proceeds from the entertainment will be donated to St. Patrick's Catholic Church. The cast will include Kathryn E. Tierman, Sarah McFay, Anna Joy, Mary McFay, M. O'Sullivan, M. Anderson, M. C. Tierney, Marie Westcott and M. Harvey. Robert Emmet, Joseph Mann, Frank McCowley, James Darragh, John J. O'Reilly, Patrick Gilson, James Mullis, William Ferris, Thomas Doyle, Michael Daily, John McGowan, Richard Doyle, Joseph Walsh, Joseph McKee, Daniel Walsh, John R. McGee and Michael E. O'Reilly.

PERSHING'S AIDE HERE

Colonel Robert C. Kelton to Be Y. M. C. A. Guest

Colonel Robert C. Kelton, a member of General Pershing's staff, will be the guest of the West Branch Young Men's Christian Association, at a dinner to be held tonight at 8 o'clock, at Fifty-second and Sansom streets.

Colonel Kelton, who returned from France in January, will tell of the work of the Y. M. C. A. men under fire during July 14, 1918, which he terms "the Gettysburg of the war."

Frank M. Havd is chairman of the committee which arranged the dinner.

MRS. HAROLD J. CLARKE AND HER BABY

Mrs. Clarke, who lives at The Netherlands, will be remembered as Miss Margaret Delk, of North Broad street

BOYS AND GIRLS HERE JOIN HEALTH CRUSADE

Charity Hospital Is Recruiting Headquarters for "Keep Well League"

"Are you a soldier in the health crusade?" Fifty-four boys and girls over five years old and under sixteen who live in the neighborhood of Seventeenth and Vine streets have already volunteered for service.

The Charity Hospital, 1731 Vine street, is the recruiting headquarters, and Miss Eleanor Cocoran, chief social worker at the hospital, and her assistant, Miss Margaret Hotel, are directors.

James Beatty, twelve years old, 1841 Carlton street, is captain, and Paul Derbin, eleven years old, Seventeenth and Deane streets, is herald in this band of crusaders. The weapons they use are toothbrushes, nail files, soap, water and brooms. The enemies they fight are ignorance, dirt and sickness. The fifty-four children call their army the "Keep Well League of the Modern Health Crusaders."

The modern health crusaders are thousands of children throughout the United States banded together in little groups under the general direction of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The movement transfers some of the romance of the medieval crusades to the activities of present-day children in behalf of public health. It holds up to them the strength, vigor and the protection of the weak. The prime objective in the crusade, which was organized in 1916, is the protection of community health by first inculcating personal hygiene in children.

Rules for Health

First. Always breathe fresh air. Never sleep, study, work or play in a room with window open. Take ten deep breaths of outdoor air every day.

Second. Eat wholesome food, including fruit and vegetables, and chew it thoroughly. Drink plenty of pure water and use your strength, rise up and stretch every day.

Third. Make sure that everything you put in your mouth is clean. Wash your hands always before eating and before handling food, and bathe your whole body at least once a week. Clean your teeth every day. Have a regular time every day for attending to each need of your body.

Fourth. Exercise every day in the open air. Stand up and sit up straight. Do not smoke before you are grown up.

Fifth. Get a long night's sleep. Get up smiling. Keep your mind clean and cheerful. To be a crusader in the "keep well league" a child must agree to keep the rules until the end of 1919, and must agree to take regular drill in personal acts and attentions toward the health. This drill is recorded upon a scoring chart. Every two weeks the league meets and the charts for health chores are distributed, and every two weeks the charts must be returned to Miss Cocoran or Miss Hotel.

The charts have printed upon them a statement of chores, and after each chore there are spaces covering the fourteen days of the week, which record of each chore may be kept. The statement of chores reads:

First. I washed my hands before each meal.

Second. I drank a glass of water before each meal and before going to bed today.

Third. I brushed my teeth in the morning and in the evening today.

Fourth. I took ten or more slow, deep breaths of fresh air today.

Fifth. I played outdoors or with windows open more than thirty minutes today.

Sixth. I came to school ten hours or more last night and kept my windows open.

Seventh. I tried to sit up and stand up straight, to eat slowly, and to attend to toilet after each need of my body at its regular time.

Eighth. I took a full bath on each day of the week that is checked.

Insignia Furnished

Insignia and titles are given crusaders who fulfill the requirements.

For instance, a square badge is awarded to the crusader who has done more than 80 per cent of the chores for two weeks; a knight's badge for the crusader who has done 80 per cent for four weeks, and a knight banner's badge for him or her who has a record of 80 per cent or more of health chores for ten weeks. The right to wear the various badges carries the privilege of bearing the titles also.

Moving-pictures, interesting health talks, for the purpose of spreading the knowledge concerning the cause and prevention of disease and concerning improvement of living conditions in homes, yards, streets, schools and in other public places, are arranged for the meetings of the league.

"The children are very enthusiastic over the league," said Miss Cocoran. "We organized our league on March 4, but the volunteers are coming in so steadily that we will have to split into two leagues. They are using the toothbrushes donated by the board of trustees of the hospital almost too vigorously. The children's enthusiasm is invigorating and very promising."

Comrades of Young Israel to Dance

A benefit dance and concert will be given on Sunday night, March 23, by the Comrades of Young Israel in Martel's Academy, 1710 North Broad street. This organization of young Jewish boys and girls is engaged in the child welfare work in certain sections of the city. The association was known last year as the Jewish Consumptives, when its work was confined solely to aiding consumptive Jewish children.

He Did: 'Steen Thousand Laugh Dear Evening Ledger—Did Uncle Bim pay his income tax and how much? WILLIE BANDERS, Philadelphia, March 16.

Proportional Representation To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger: Sir—The Philadelphia charter committee did not think it wise to incorporate proportional representation for the election of the Council in the proposed new charter. I took the other view. May I now explain my present position in respect to the charter and add a few facts which may be of interest to your readers in connection with the election of the Legislature under the new state constitution which will probably be drawn up some three years hence and also in connection with the election of that constitutional convention itself?

The new charter as introduced in the Legislature by Senator Woodward, with my minor changes that have been introduced by the charter committee's legislative committee, deserves the support of public-spirited citizens. Its passage by the legislature means a much improved civic life for Philadelphia.

So much for the new charter—good luck to it—and now for the other matter. By the time the Pennsylvania constitutional convention is elected, some three years hence, any other method for its election than proportional representation will be far behind the times. Why? Because the proportional system has been adopted by three countries even since our charter movement began in December. Since last July it has won new countries at the rate of nearly one a month, having been adopted since that time by the Czech-Slovakian (Czechoslovak), Poland (National Assembly), Hungary (National Assembly), and Hungary (National Assembly).

If there is any sort of body which everybody admits ought to be truly representative of all elements in the community, it is a constitutional convention. We shall do well, therefore, to elect a convention that will be now, so that the state will have its mind made up in respect to the best method of election for the convention by the time the time comes to elect the convention. If the proportional system is used for the election of the convention itself, it will be easy for the convention and the people to decide whether the same system should be used for the Legislature.

One minor advance of proportional representation abroad is of sufficient interest to deserve like mention even in a brief statement like this. We are to have a referendum on the welfare of Ireland, and we know the difficulties of the political problem there. Now, three things have happened in Ireland since December 1, which are considered together, are very significant.

First. In the parliamentary elections in December the Sinn Fein party of Ireland, which it cast less than half the total vote, elected forty-seven members of Parliament as against twenty-nine for the Constitutional Unionist and Nationalist parties.

Second. When the city of Sligo, Ireland, elected its council by the new method in January, the Sinn Fein party, who were the opponents secured nothing, but the Sinn Fein party, who would probably have won the seats under the old system, are said to be satisfied, for the election has been done. (Most people are satisfied, by the way, when justice is done.)

Third. We read in the London Times of February 25 that a significant vote of the city which bears out strikingly the prediction made in the article on the Sligo election in the Public Ledger of February 5, that the solution of the problem of representation in the Sligo council indicated "in a large measure the character of both the Irish problem and the lines upon which its solution may yet be possible." Here are the paragraphs from the Times:

The Irish Secretary, Mr. Macpherson, in his official statement on the Sligo election, says that the result of the election is a significant vote of the city which bears out strikingly the prediction made in the article on the Sligo election in the Public Ledger of February 5, that the solution of the problem of representation in the Sligo council indicated "in a large measure the character of both the Irish problem and the lines upon which its solution may yet be possible." Here are the paragraphs from the Times:
