DENY DISCRIMINATION IN FARES TO SHORE

Atlantic City Nearer and Entitled to Lower Rate, Rail Official Says

R. J. DeLong, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said today that the new railroad fare schedule between Philadelphia and South Jersey resorts, effective yesterday, does not favor Atlantic City against Wildwood, Cape May and other resorts on the Jersey shore.

Hotelkeepers and business men in Wildwood, Cape May, Ocean City and Sea Isle, protesting against the boost in the price of one-way tickets, charge that Atlantic City is favored by railroad officials.

Mr. DeLong denies these charges and to sustain his position pointed to the distances between Philadelphia and the various resorts.

"The distance to Atlantic City," said Mr. DeLong, "is a trifle more than fifty-nine miles, while the mileage to Cape May is more than eighty-two. Wildwood is seventy-nine and a fraction."

"For years the railroads, in order to aid the more distant resorts, applied virtually the same tourist rates that prevailed for Atlantic City, but last year when the railroad administration faced the problem of greater revenues, it became necessary to increase the price of tourist or what are known as round-trip tickets. The price of these tickets, good for seventeen days between Philadelphia and Atlantic City, was increased to $3, while the rate between Philadelphia, Cape May and Wildwood was fixed at $2.50.

"When you figure the great difference in the mileage between these resorts it can be seen that Cape May and Wildwood received very fair treatment. The so-called tourist ticket schedule on September 30.

"These resorts do not enjoy a winter tourist business," said the Pennsylvania official, "and from September 30 until May 15 are classed with ordinary commercial or residential communities. That means that nothing but one-way tickets are sold and on the basis of three cents per mile. That is the universal rate of fare."

Railroad administration officials in Washington have promised to make an investigation of the South Jersey protest and adjust schedules, if the investigation discloses that distant resorts are being subjected to discrimination.

GREET CAMDEN SOLDIERS

Delegation Also Named to Confer on Admiral Wilson Reception

Camden plans to tender a welcome to Vice Admiral Henry B. Wilson when he visits his former home in that city. Mayor Ellis has appointed a committee to visit Admiral Wilson, now in Washington to learn from him how he feels about the reception. The men appointed to consult Admiral Wilson include James J. Scott, the Rev. J. P. McCloskey, James H. Long and Charles Wise.

Admiral Wilson is planning to visit his aged mother, Mrs. Henry B. Wilson, a resident of Fourth and Mount Vernon streets, Camden. The reception, if Admiral Wilson consents, will be held at that time.

The victory jubilee committee also plans to send a reception committee to New York to greet Camden boys returning with the Seventy-eighth and Twenty-ninth Divisions. In the meantime plans are progressing for a vigorous fight to secure Camden as one of the cities to entertain either of the two returning regiments.

BUSY REVOLVERS HIT NOBODY

Empty Wagon Serves as Barricade in Street Battle

After a half hour battle at Lombard and Durien streets, in which a fusillade of shots was fired and clubs and fists were subsequently used, Philip Johnson, a negro, who recently arrived here from Georgia, was arrested by Patrolman Randolph and Lawrence Viscount, a night watchman. Before he was subdued Johnson climbed into a wagon, which he used as a barricade, and from which he fired five shots at the patrolman and watchman.

Johnson was halted shortly after midnight by Viscount as he walked along Lombard street twirling a revolver. The watchman ordered Johnson to surrender the weapon. The negro refused, and, as Viscount closed in on him, he fired pointblank at his face. The watchman drew his revolver and returned the fire. Johnson ran toward Durien street, firing another shot as he fled.

There he climbed into an empty wagon. Meantime Randolph appeared and with the night watchman essayed to rush the wagon. Johnson fired five more shots at the two men before they grasped with him five hand mallets followed, during which all three of the combatants suffered bruises and cuts.

Johnson was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital for treatment after the fight and was removed subsequently to the Twelfth and Pine streets station.

WORK FOR MANY ON SEWERS

City Opens Bids for 3 Main and 17 Branch Lines

Work for several hundred men will be provided in a few days when construction of sewers in the northeastern and southern section of Philadelphia will be started. This will be the first work on sewer construction since the war.

Bids for the work, which will cost approximately $470,000, were opened today by Assistant Director of Public Works Baldwin. Seventeen branch sewers are to be constructed and three main sewers.

Examination of the bids showed close competition among the contractors. As the bidders were obliged to submit their prices in unit form—specifying prices for various grades of work separately—the awards will not be announced for a few days.

It is estimated that the branch sewers will cost slightly more than $100,000 and the main sewers about $370,000.

MRS. R. M. ELLIOT, JR., SAILS

Naval Officer's Widow to Aid Reconstruction in France

Mrs. Richard McCall Elliot, Jr., whose husband, Lieutenant Elliot, lost his life with seven other members of the crew of the destroyer Manley a year ago, left New York for France today as a member of Mrs. Anne Morgan's committee of reconstruction work. Mrs. Elliot has signed an agreement binding her to a minimum of six months' work in France.

Lieutenant Elliot was killed when a depth bomb exploded on the Manley a year ago following a collision with a British destroyer. His wife was formerly Miss Jean H. Eckhard. Lieutenant Elliot's parents live at 1824 De Lancey street.

Mrs. Elliot sailed on the liner Espagne.

ATTEMPTED MURDER CHARGED TO NEGRO

James Roan Must Stand Trial for Attack on Norristown Man

Charged with the attempted murder of Charles Freese, wealthy coal dealer, sixty years old, of Norristown, Pa., James Roan, a negro, twenty years old, of Norristown, was returned to that city today for trial by order of Magistrate Meclary.

According to the Norristown police, Freese, who is owner of the Penn Coal Company, was assaulted in his offices by John Lewis, a negro, who struck him with a hammer several times. Roan, who was with Lewis at the time, is alleged by the police to have planned the attempted murder and robbery and to have furnished Lewis with the hammer used in the assault.

Freese is now in the Charity Hospital, Norristown, where he is expected to die.

The police version of the assault has it that Roan entered the coal dealer's office and ordered some coal. While Freese was verifying his address in the directory Lewis approached him from behind and knocked him unconscious with the hammer. The two negroes then ransacked the office, but failed to find anything of value. Lewis was arrested shortly after the attack, while Roan, the police say, fled to Philadelphia.

At the hearing today Roan denied all knowledge of the crime and protested against being sent back to Norristown.

TRY TO HARMONIZE ON CITY FUNDS PLAN

"Get Together" Is Slogan of Experts in Budget Tangle

Daily conferences are being held by city officials and others interested in obtaining a revised budget system of municipal financing. City Solicitor Connelly's office has been the scene of a number of the get-together efforts. Chairman Gaffney, of Councils Finance Committee, and others are scheduled for further conference tomorrow.

The suggestion to shorten the period from five to two years as a basis of striking an average estimate of a succeeding year's income has started discussion. During the last five years the excess of revenues shows quite a divergence of figures and it is to permit a closer estimate that the shortening of the term has been suggested. The excess amounts each year were used almost entirely to meet deficiencies, so the differences were not actually as great as the figures show.

Opposition has also developed to a change from a cash to a revenue basis for computing the estimated revenues for succeeding years. The present plan for using loan funds early in the year to finance current obligations has proved satisfactory to city financiers, and the revision plan to disperse this method is meeting with opposition at the hands of a number of the conferees.

Whether the provisions of either of the two measures can be passed in their entirety is a question for the Legislature. Stories of a compromise have been abroad for weeks, but have been denied by those interested in passing the charter revision bill as it was submitted, including the financing scheme advocated by the Bureau of Municipal Research.

LIVES OF SIX SAVED BY AN ALARM CLOCK

Ringling Awakens Rescuers of Lansdale Family, Threatened by Gas Deaths

Six persons were saved from asphyxiation early yesterday by the ringing of an alarm clock.

Fumes from a leaking gas pipe had almost filled the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Reese, 616 Broad street, Lansdale, while the family were asleep, when the alarm clock began ringing.

It awakened Howard and William, sons employed at a nearby foundry. As they rose both fell to the floor, unconscious. Mr. Reese heard the fall and, though almost overcome, he crawled into their room and saved their lives by opening the windows. Mrs. Reese, though ill, could move about. The daughters, Hattie and Margaret, were unconscious. They and the sons were later revived. Virtually all members of the family are suffering from the effects of inhaling the gas.

Caution commands: "FREE YOUR RECORDS OF FIRE DANGER!"

Many so-called safes and other containers have been purchased with the hope that they would be as good as THE SAFE-CABINET—that they would give adequate protection to the priceless records that were consigned to their care. But in the hour of critical need, these buyers have learned that fire respects nothing but heat resistance.

THE SAFE-CABINET "The World's Safest Safe"

Will you learn now of the true value of your records, of the fire hazards that menace them and the dependable protection of THE SAFE-CABINET—protection that is proved by scientific and practical evidence of its heat resistance? Or will you neglect this all-important duty until that day—the day that ashes bring remorse?

The proof awaits you. Ask us about it.
