TOO FREE WITH GUN, 'COP' MUST EXPLAIN

Safety Director Orders Inquiry Into Shooting by Officer and Unwarranted Arrests

Director Wilson today ordered an investigation into the actions of a vice squad patrolman, who is alleged to have followed Joseph Murray, 1224 Buttonwood street, into his home Saturday night and fired a revolver shot into the kitchen ceiling.

When Murray's brother-in-law, Private Maurice Condon, home on furlough, demanded an explanation, he was told that Murray, who is a contractor at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, was under arrest "for shooting crap."

The Baldwin inquiry was taken to the Tenth and Buttonwood street station and looked up by Patrolman Kravitz, the vice squad member. Private Condon went to the police station and asked for a copy of the charge. Kravitz ordered the soldier arrested for "interfering with an officer."

The men were arraigned in night court at the Central Station. When Magistrate Meclary asked for evidence against Murray the vice squad "cop" was unable to produce any. He said he "thought" Murray might have been shooting crap with some boys who had been playing in an alley.

Murray was allowed to explain that he had passed through the alley on the way home from work just at the time a crowd of boys was being dispersed by a vice squad patrolman. He said he paid no attention to the boys, and the next thing he knew Kravitz was shooting in his kitchen.

Magistrate Meclary discharged Murray and Condon. According to Murray, his three children and an aged servant were in the kitchen of his home when Kravitz fired.

CITY BETTERMENT AIM

Forty United Clubs Hold First Session Here Tonight

Representative members from forty prominent clubs and civic organizations have been invited to a meeting tonight at the Hotel Adelphia to secure the united activity of the clubs and their memberships in matters of civic improvement.

The first subject which will be taken up will be the Philadelphia school system, and effort will be exerted to bring about a survey to discover the causes for the inadequacy of the present system.

Among the clubs interested in the movement are the Poor Richard Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Rotary Club, City Club, City Business Club, Philadelphia Sales Club, Philadelphia Sales Managers' Association, National Advertisers' Association, Boosters' Club.

GREATER CAMDEN DRIVE

Dinner Opens Campaign to Get 1000 Commerce Chamber Members

A campaign for "a greater Camden" through a greater Chamber of Commerce will be inaugurated tonight at a dinner, followed by a civilian rally, in the Camden Y. M. C. A.

The five-day drive to increase the membership of the new Camden Chamber of Commerce from 300 to 1000 will officially begin tomorrow at 9 o'clock. More than 100 business men of the New Jersey city, divided into fourteen teams, under the direction of thirteen majors and fourteen captains, will participate.

Congressman-elect James T. Beggs, of Sandusky, O., is director general of the drive. His assistants are Charles C. Garman, of Cleveland, and G. W. Hanley, of Indianapolis.

Award Shipyard Village Contract

The contract for street improvements and the laying of curb and gutter stones, inlets and sidewalks at the Noreg shipyard village below Gloucester City, has been awarded by the housing department of the Emergency Fleet Corporation to Arthur McMullen, a Philadelphia and New York contractor. There were nine bidders and the total amount, which is about $128,000 submitted by McMullen, was the lowest. He will start the work at once, so that the 447 homes can be occupied.

KENSINGTON MILL STRIKERS RETURN

Workers and Employers Announce Satisfaction With Textile Dispute Settlement

HOSIERY FORCE BENEFITS

Full fashioned hosiery mills are open again today in Kensington, after a strike that lasted from early in January until Saturday afternoon. They are not yet running on their former schedules.

It probably will take several days, according to Frank McKoskey, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, and spokesman for the strikers, to restore normal conditions.

Many of the workers got work in other lines during the strike, and their places in the mills are now waiting for them. The knitters went back to work today, however, and this principal department of the hosiery mills once more is running smoothly.

Mr. McKoskey said "today that numerous small details of the resumption remain to be cleared up. This is not expected to take long, however."

C. Stanley Hurbit, secretary of the Full-Fashioned Hosiery Manufacturers' Association and president of the Men and Managements' Textile Council, gave out a statement this morning announcing the terms at which the men resumed work.

In his statement he expressed confidence in the dawn of a new era of prosperity in the stocking trade, and said that the wage increases granted the men were the same as those offered in January, before the strike was called, to become effective in March or April.

Employees Are Pleased
Though the strike was settled by compromise, the men are well pleased, because they won the forty-eight-hour week, material increases in wages and effected the abandonment of the men and managements' plan. This last was the one issue, according to the strikers, that kept the two factions apart in the final weeks of the strike.

The wage increases arranged for will be paid all workers in the mills, whether members of the unions or not. There are at least 4000 men and women involved; some of the leaders have estimated the number as nearer 6000.

The wage increases are as follows: Knitters' piece, cotton dipped and ingrain work, 20 per cent; silk dipped work, 18 per cent; ingrain silk, 10 per cent. Toppers will receive an average increase of 10 2-3 per cent, and seamers 10 per cent.

The forty-eight-hour-work week will be distributed over five or six days at the workers' choice. The suggested working day is from 7:30 a. m. to noon and from 12:45 until 5 p. m. on weekdays, on Saturdays from 7:30 a. m. until 11:45 a. m.

Strike Called January 2
The strike was called on January 2. At that time the owners refused to give the increases demanded, because, they said, the strike still on hand to be made up represented purchases made at wartime prices and could not be made up at a profit if the workers were to be paid higher wages.

The strike was determined, but marked by no disorder. Both the organized and unorganized workers in the plants affected quit work and joined in the general demand.

TARS HOME ON FURLOUGH

Jersey Boys Will Do Full Hitch in Navy

Percival H. Capewell and Kenneth Rambo, of Collingswood, N. J., both of the navy, have returned home from the scenes of war. Neither of the men have been discharged from the service.

The two boys called together at the beginning of the war, but became separated at the training station. They met in France, and after they were assigned to the same hospital as assistants to physicians in Brest, remained together until the end of the war.

Rambo had one of his knees badly slashed in an exhibition football game in Brest just after the armistice, and immediately on his arrival home was sent to a Philadelphia hospital for treatment. He is rapidly improving.

Capewell has temporarily accepted a position in husbandry at Pennsylvania State College, where he graduated a few years ago. Both men expect to be recalled to active duty.

DANCING "THE RAGE" AGAIN; SOLDIERS BRING ODD STEPS

Masters and Orchestras Work Overtime as Dress Suits and Evening Gowns Reappear—Siberian Slide Among Overseas Favorites

HEAVILY booted they've gone through mud and grime of trenches. They've hiked weary miles in dust or storm till feet were blistered and sores, despite the heavy woolen socks. They've lived in camps and huts and attics through many months of service, with only a chance once in a great while to talk to a Salvation Army lassie, a Red Cross nurse or a pretty cauteen worker.

But you'd scarcely dream it to see them now—these Beau Brummels who are dancing their way into the hearts of happy damsels.

Those blistered heels that the heroes so carefully bathed and binds before he hobbles down to breakfast these mornings are not the result of stiff boots or long hikes in No Man's Land. They're from the gentle rubbing of patent leather pumps against silken clad flesh. Those sore throats may be from too much gassing, but not with the same sort of "gas" as that used on the battlefield. And weakened hearts aren't from shell shock but from Cupid's darts.

In other words Philadelphia is witnessing a revival of old-time social whirl. Dancing masters are hiring more assistants and organizing more new classes than they've had since the war began. Orchestra leaders find their ranks increasing rapidly. The girls who danced with heavy hearts, thinking of friends over there as they tried

KRUSEN CITES DANGER OF DIPHTHERIA HERE

Scarlet Fever Epidemic Also Threatened, Warns Health Director, Urging Caution

Dr. Wilmer F. Krusen, head of the Department of Public Health and Charities, yesterday issued the following warning in view of the increasing number of diphtheria and scarlet fever cases throughout the city.

"Philadelphia is threatened with a widespread outbreak of diphtheria and scarlet fever. During the last week there were reported ninety cases of scarlet fever and eighty-six cases of diphtheria, while during the previous week there were seventy-one and 101 cases, respectively. This is far beyond the weekly records of the last few years and the daily reports of cases are not very encouraging for an immediate cessation. It is not our intention to arouse undue fear, but we consider the number of cases now existing of diphtheria and scarlet fever sufficient to take immediate and radical measures.

"Parents should call the family physician at once if the child has a sore throat, running nose, or coughy cough. Many deaths have occurred among children unattended during the first few days of illness.

"Do not allow children to attend public gatherings.

"Do not visit the sick under prevailing conditions. Children should never visit the sickroom.

"Caution the kiddies about trading candies, chewing gum, toys, pencils, or any article which may be placed to the mouth.

"Do not hesitate to send the children to school. They are better off in the classroom under medical inspection than on the streets.

"Don't forget that diphtheria is a curable disease. A positive cure, however, is only assured if antitoxin is administered during the first twenty-four hours of the disease.

"Early sore throat may be scarlet fever or diphtheria. Let the doctor decide which it is. Delay in treatment lessens the likelihood of recovery; increases the danger of complications; and predisposes to infection of other members of the household. It is the common experience at the present time to see more than one case in the same household. Early isolation and treatment would avoid this."

PLAN LATIN QUARTER HERE AS LOAN "AD"

Charms of Paris Vagabondia to Be Represented on Camac Street

ILLUSTRATORS TO BE SEEN

Camac street, between Locust and Spruce streets is to be transformed during the Victory Liberty Loan campaign into a gay corner of the Latin quarter of Paris, with artistic decorations, lively carnivals and habitues in characteristic attire.

Like the traditional Paris, it will be at night that this novel and ephemeral life of Camac street will be at its height. Then a subscription to the loan will be the requisite admission into the miniature French capital, permission having been granted by the city to close that portion of the street which the exhibition will occupy.

In the street behind Camac street a stage will be erected, where entertainments will be held. Two nights a week will be musical nights and two athletic nights. Arrangements are in the making to secure a number of celebrated musicians for these occasions.

The week before Easter and the Call for New Clothes find our Stores brim full

for the Men who are going to participate in the Boardwalk Promenade that bids fair to surpass anything of the kind in a handful of Easter seasons!

This is going to be a new and different kind of Easter in every way. The weight of war is lifted from our hearts, and our Boys are returning home in shiploads with the glow of Victory on their faces and in their souls. Both they and the friends who greet them are putting on the new clothes of a new era unhampered by the restrictions of the anxious days of a year and more ago.

And here at Perry's we are meeting their demand with Spring Suits that are new indeed. The fabrics in them were not in existence last November. They have come fresh from the looms since then. Not just one or two bolts of cloth; not just a few new lots or assortments, but tablefuls of NEW Spring Clothes!

New woollens—all wool, as always in this store. New patterns, new colors made with new dyes; new grays, new blues, new browns, new novelty mixtures—new stripes among which are the new VICTORY STRIPES—red, white and blue hairlines on brown and on blue flannels—new overlaid and new serges!

Single-breasted Juveniles for first-long-trouser young fellows; smart, slim, snappy double-breasted; vertical pockets, slanted pockets, crescent pockets; patched and inside bellows pockets— from new pleated lapels to bell sleeves, Spring Suits in which everything is new, the fabrics as well as the lines of style from rope shoulders to sleeve cuffs.

And the Maximum of Value of Service and of Style

For the Cool of the Evening Bargains in Spring Overcoats

No man should be without a light-weight Topcoat, and no man need be, if his size is among these odd lots, the remainders of the last few seasons. They are excellent coats—some staple conservatives among them. They were $20 to $30, now closing out at

$15 and $20
