

K. OF C. WILL FIGHT BOLSHEVISM IN U.S.

Organization to Continue Constructive War Against Socialism, Says Flaherty

MAKES TOUR OF NATION

James A. Flaherty, of this city, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, who recently completed a tour of the United States, finds need of concerted efforts to combat the growth of Bolshevism. The Knights, through their 1800 councils, he declares, are prepared to fight to the limit against the importation of foreign anarchist doctrines and practices. In speaking today of his trip he said:

"Anybody making an intelligent survey of the United States at the present time will find that the end of this war discloses conditions akin to the end of all wars: gratification in victory less concentrated than in previous wars to have things restored to a peace footing. The present time is no exception to the rule that an interest follows in the wake of war, even of victorious wars. Fortunately the good sense of the American people insures us against what might be truly termed the turbulent conditions prevailing abroad, even in the countries of our associates in the war."

"This makes it all the more necessary for us to be on our guard and so carefully and skillfully manage the nation from a war to a peace basis that we shall avoid all of the disturbances that could arise with even the slightest mismanagement."

"It is not true," Mr. Flaherty added, "that there is a good opportunity for propagandists of extreme socialism in this country at this time. Certainly we are confronted with some difficult problems, and out of these difficulties numerous opportunities for the spread of Bolshevism may arise. The Knights of Columbus is a nation wide organization, is prepared to anticipate whatever Bolshevik movements may be launched. Long before our country entered the war, long even before the armistice took effect in Europe, the Knights engaged in a constructive warfare against Socialism in this country. Experts in industrial relations round the country under the auspices of the board of directors of the K. of C. giving public addresses on the subject and holding public question classes to enlighten the people regarding the dangers of Socialism. Now the Knights of Columbus throughout its 1800 and more than 12,000 units throughout, continuing any new form of constructive effort."

"With whatever healthy dissatisfaction may exist among labor circles, the K. of C. has no more interest than any other body of American citizens who stand for a square deal all around, but the soldier, as it now is opposed to the import and export of foreign anarchist doctrines and to fight them with all the power at its command."

GERMAN-BORN MAJOR OF WOODBURY, N. J., HOME WITH FAME

Henry Bootz Fought With Irishmen and Avenged Killing of Three Brothers

An American major, born in Germany, the man who led the first American raid against the Germans and participated in the final attack upon Sedan, was easily the most spectacular veteran from this section who has returned back to the United States.

He is Major Henry Bootz, of Woodbury, N. J., and he fought all through the war with the 16th Infantry, formerly the "Fighting Sixty-ninth," of New York National Guard, made up almost entirely of men of Irish extraction. This regiment arrived back in New York aboard the transport Harrisburg yesterday, and was given a formal reception by the people of that city.

Major Bootz is thirty-eight years old. He came to this country with his wife when he was five years old, leaving his parents and three brothers in Germany. He settled near Philadelphia and twenty years ago enlisted in the army, serving with honor through the Spanish-American war, and also saw service along the Mexican border, at which time he was a sergeant.

He won a commission as lieutenant shortly after the United States declared war on Germany and, having his choice of organizations, chose the "Fighting Sixty-ninth." And the fighting Irishmen and the fighting Germans got along in fine shape. He endeared himself to them when he led the first American raid.

Boy Drowned at League Island
Ten-year-old Casper Shihadi, 2027 South Percy street, was drowned at League Island Park yesterday. Police of the Fifteenth street and Snyder avenue station recovered the body. The boy, with several companions, decided to take advantage of the warm afternoon. Shihadi was the "first in" after a lively race.

DEPARTURE FROM FRANCE YANK'S HAPPIEST MOMENT

Sergeant Ralph Ebert in Diary Relates Experiences on Board Transport Great Northern En Route Home

everybody was recalled and the unit transformed into a labor battalion, because some humorous individuals chanted a parody that began, "Hello, Broadway," and ended with a few words not considered complimentary to France in polite society. Heaven help the one who says "Who won the war?" at an M. P.

Possession by Suggestion

"That story is told by every soldier entering Pontmain, and is a part of the Sunday school movement in France where the authorities insist in operating a most efficient system of keeping theistic homilies within bounds. As in every other part of France, there are Military Police, but they are only a part of the system (in small part). Most of the police work done by suggestion. For instance, it is suggested to you young recruit that a well disciplined company will give preference to subordination; that if the company's details work hard everybody will soon be having the Statue of Liberty, and it is further impressed upon the anxious troops, that an spectator is always hovering ready, ready to put in an unfavorable report if somebody behaves from the Sunday school tension. One half of units brought back from the front because they didn't march off to the docks, and when we left one company was marched back from the docks to camp because they had not polished their quarters.

"As a result of these suggestions, plus the regular camp rules, which are usually strict on account of the severe criticism of the camp in the states, it is noticeable as never before that no one seems anxious or afraid of punishment. He is a part of an caring, modest, trusting, bathing and sleeping machine. When the scheduled time for him to eat arrives, he makes with his company one of the numerous train kitchens and by miracle of attention, at least, is surprised to. When the scheduled time for him to bathe arrives, one notices even the day, he makes an effort to the bathhouse. He indulges at command, comes the same little room at command, uses soap, combs and deodorants, and departs when ordered to do so by the command. It does him no good to bathe a second time, because it is forced water until the last sufficient nerves.

"The fact that we are one of eight French armies everybody to begin a little more truly believe we can now allow ourselves to believe that the ship don't be recalled and some of us or all of us can get back to Camp Pinetree, the big British embarkation camp, because of some mislaid. Before leaving Germany we had been the all repeated story of how one unit was loading on it, transports, when
