JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Tells Date of Abington Hospital Fete-She Hears Various Bits of Gossip About People in Her Daily Comings and Goings

TT IS so pathetic to see the young widows ! one meets now and again since the war. is it not? I saw Emily Thayer Dixon just recently on the street. She looks perfectly lovely in her wislow's weeds, but so sail. And it must be extra sad for the wives and mothers now that the boys are coming bome every day and they realize that their sous and husbands will not come back. Mrs. It. Franklin Pepper is another widow, whose husband. Major Pepper, was killed about the same time as Bean Dixon; and Mrs. Norton Downs is still another whose husband was Joan Packard Elliot, whose husband, Dick Elliot, lost his life in the explosion of his ship, has gone abroad to do Red Cross work for six months or more. She has no chil-dren, but Mrs. Pepper, who has been married some ten or fifteen years, has several children: Mrs. Dixon has two, a think, and there is a wee Downs haby.

All honor to these brave women, who saw their husbands go without faltering and who have borne their lower so mugnificently.

ON THE other side we see happy regulous. With the ceturn of Base Hospital No. 10 came many of the doctors who had been senneated from their wives for nearly two years. They arrived last Thursday and Friday and went to Dix at once. Many of the wives went down to them, but they have all been impaered out since. Noreis Vaux was among those doctors and so was Charles Mitchell

I hear that Joe Bailey is home, too, and has been mustered out, and he and Ethei have gone to Charlo reville. Ya. Joe is studying law there and so has taken a house that Ethel may be near him. He is the son of former Senator Bailey, of Texas, you remember. He married Ethel Huku about a ar ago, just two days before sailing for MRS. ROBERT LESLEY tells me that St. Vincent's Home is to be the beneficiary of the welfare dances at the Ritz next week. Mrs. Lesicy is president of the home, you know, and it appears that they have so many little children out there this year tidue, to the "flu" and wart that it's quite impossible to carry them up and down stairs to the garden every day, and so the women on the board of the home are anxious raise money for the installation of an elevator out there. The welfare dances next week will be one of the ways of caising money for this charity. Associated with Mrs. Les ley on the committee are Mrs. Robert Thaxter Bicknell, Mrs. Ashton Devereux, Mrs. James Mundy, Mrs. Arthur Primrose Baugh. Mrs. Fielding Otis Lewis and several other prominent women.

T HEAR that plans are already under way and the date is finally decided for the annual fete for the Abington Hospital. The date is June 3 and the affair this year is to be called the "Rainbow Fete." and you know that name has possibilities. I have been told that there is even to be the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. It will be an open-nir bazaar, as usual, and there will be an awfully attractive tea garden under the direction of Mrs. Barelay Warburton and s dinner dance in charge of Mrs. George W. Elkins, Jr. That ought to make a hit, for if there's one thing that people want to do nowadays it's dance—and incidentally ent. The military atmosphere will largely prevail-that is to say, will prevail largelyand as far as that goes, some atmospheres are noticeably "large." A bugler will au-nounce the events of the day as they used to do at the tournaments of the Middle Ages. and each booth will bear the name of a certain division. Then Salvation Army girls will make doughnuts and there will be a Y. M. C. A. bur, and at the dog show there's to be a real live Red Cross dog, who has seen service overseas. And then there will be a collection of war trophics. So you see it's to be quite unusual, and I hope it's a wonderful day! Mrs. George Horace Lorimer is chairman of the affair, as she was last year, and the committee includes Mrs. Edward Marshall and Mrs. Laurance Butler.

THE Art Club is going to give a reception I this afternoon at 5 o'clock in honor of Mr. Leslie W. Miller. Mr. Miller is, a founder of the club, you know, and its first secretary, and has been for many years its artist vice president. The reception is given as a recognition of Mr. Miller's services to the art interests of the city, and a large attendance is expected to do him honor.

MOTHER and Father have been awfully careful of Danny, and he is one of the best-brought-up children you ever saw. He has that pink and white look of perfect angelicuess which makes you think that he is never bad-unless you catch a glimpse of that 'Just give me half a chance and see how good I am' look in his eye. He was taken to see his grandmother and aunt the other day, and of course they rave over him and think he's just about the sweetest piece of humanity that ever walked up their steps. He behaved brautifully and didn't ask for another piece of cake, and talked so nicely that they had to kiss him three or four times when he left. And Danny submitted with a lovely smile and then turned to go. As he started out of the gate he turned back to wave once more, and then gave a very bigboy hitch to his cap and called out in his oldest voice, "Well, so long, old stocking." NANCY WYNNE.

Nationalization of Women

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger Sir -An editorial in a recent issue of your paper, "A Word to the Open-Minded. voices the reasonable suspicion that the Bolshevist movement is committed to the nationalization of women. And certainly the Munich report which you quote furnished sufficient warrant for your attitude. But unfortunately for the plausibility of the dispatch, it recalls another, of similar import. from Russia, which made its way into a certain type of American newspaper a short time ago for the delectation of the prurient. This set forth, in revolting detail, what was alleged to be an official decree of the Soviet of Samara, a city in central Russia, on the Volga. As such it was widely exploited. Impartial investigation of the authenticity of this vile document yielded revelations that do not tend to inspire confidence in reports coming out of castern Europe under present conditions. Actuany it proved to be altogether spurious. To begin with, the heading, atributing it to the Soviet of Samara, was peculiar to the American version. Jerome Davis, secretary of the inter-national committee of the Y. M. C. A., ex-plains it as the malicious invention of some unidentified individuals circulated over the name of the local Federation of Anarchists for the purpose of discrediting that body, which had made considerable headway and threatened the authority of the local council. Upon discovering it the anarchists indignantly repudiated it. Mr. Davis was on the scene at the time and his veracity is unquestionable.

Madam Breshkovaya, who can certainly be absolved of Bolshevist sympathies, has repeatedly declared that the socialization of women forms no part of the program of Soviet Russia. Her testimony ought to be accepted as final.

The enlightened western democracies are as immune from Bolshevism as they are from kaiserism. But irrespective of menace, certainly our political ideas bave too much logic and truth behind them ever to justify, even on grounds of expediency, the employment of nasty defamation in their defense. FRANK RAHILL. defeuse. Philadelphia, April 24.

(The official translation of the Bolshevik decree was presented to the United States Sepate committee by Robert' H. Simmons, former representative of the Department of Commerce in Russin. The particular docu ment was for the government of the city of Saratow. - Ed.

Burning Men Alive

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger: Sir-I do not find any words in the Eng lish language to characterize adequately in abhorrence of the dastardly crime of the burning alive of human beings, a thing of frequent occurrence in the South. 'The last case recently reported was of a returned soldier from France, and the excuse for the infamous crime was that he wore his uniform longer than certain of his neighbor thought he ought to wear it.

It is believed by some of the people in the North that the lynchings are for crimes against white women, but the torturing and burning alive are for all kinds of crimes and suspicions, and not unlikely sometimes re-sult from personal enmity. Is this civilization of which we proudly boast or is it barbarism? What wild tribes anywhere in the world would commit savagery worse than this? I know of none.

It is most gratifying to note that the yearly meeting of Friends, held at Fourth and Arch streets recently, expressed deep concern upon the subject, deeming lynching to be a sin and a shameful blot on the fair name of our land. The meeting declared that it is injustice and barbarity to those helpless victims, be they innocent or guilty. and brutalizing and disastrous to those who perpetrate the crimes and to those who stand to see their fellow beings tortured and killed.
Last July. President Wilson, under the stimulus of the necessity of raising an army to overthrow the crimes of kaiserism in Europe and to win the help of the colored in the enterprise, declared that 'no man who loves America, no man who really cares for her fame and honor and character, or who is truly loyal to her institutions, can justify mob action while the courts of jus-tice are open and the governments of the states and tife nation are ready and able to do their duty." This was well said, but the trouble is, the courts of justice are not al-ways open, as they should be, and the governments of the states and nation are neither ready nor able to do their duty. They may able if so disposed, but they do not seem to be ready or willing. A way must be found to eradicate this odious cvil, or our people will store up days of wrath such as swept over us in 1861 for the crime of A untional conference on lynching will be held in New York on May 5 and 6, at which there will be representatives from many states, including several governors from the South, who will endeavor to formulate ways by which this crime may be climinated. It is hoped that the whole country will be represented, and the action taken may be en forced by a powerful body of law-abiding men and women. The Armstrong Association will be represented at this conference by Talleo Williams. WILMER ATKINSON. Washington Square, April 23

The Philadelphia Printer's Cat To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger.

Sir You have published so much on the 'ent" question that I rise to say a word in defense of the Philadelphia printer's ent.

I have a cat that possesses a real sense "impenetrability," and proves it by lifting a door-knocker to knock at the kitchen door whenever she wants to come in. The prize show cat is an immeasurably higher developed unimal than the very low est type of German human being. It shows "gratitude" as a moral-psychological trait. For instance, one stormy night in the winter I found a blue and white Manx cat in the street, seemingly lost, if a cut ever does get lost. I put the eat under my coat and brought her home. Her tail was two inches long. Her gratitude was longer, for she is with me today.

LEWIS JAMES HOWELL IN SONG RECITAL

Baritone Gives Fine Performance. Assisted by Nina Prettyman Howell, Violiniste

Lewis James Howell, one of Philadel phia's best baritones, gave his sixth annual Griffith Hall to the doors last evening and was as entimeinstic as it was large.

Mr. Howell was in fine voice and had to the full his dramatic style of delivery. He began the program with a series of songs of older misters, "Care Salve," from on of Handel's forgotten operas, a selection from Bononeini, concluding with Bach's "My Heart Now Is Merry," which was one of the finest and best received numbers of the program. The second group consisted of operation of Marchetti, and the "Madamana," from Mozart's "Don Giovanni." The latter was well received by the audience that Mr. Howell was obliged to respond with an enore, which he did with a brief anology for the selection following Mozart, the famous Large at Factorum," from "The Barber of Seville." The apology was unnecessary from the clean vocalization and enunciation of this difficult number, which evoked as much applause as the aria which called it

Mr. Howell's third group consisted o four songs of a later date, of which the first two, "I Have a Rendezvous With Death" by Vieh and an Irish air, "Over the Hills and Far Away," proved the most popular. His last group comprised Fay Foster's "Nip ponese Sword Song" and three negro spiritrals of Reddick and evoked great applause. but as the hour was growing late Mr. How ell refused the encore which the audience demanded.

The recitalist was assisted by Nina Pret tyman Howell, the violiniste, who played is manner that bore out in merit and spirit the performance of Mr. Howell. She played first the romance from the second concerto of Wieniawski, in which she showed a good technique and a fine tone. Her second appearance was in the well-known "Hebrew Melody" of Achron and the difficult (although it does not sound so: 'Rondo des Lutius' of Bazzini, both of which were finely done. She closed the concert with Max Reger's "Lullaby" and the Slavonic Fantasic of Dvorak, arranged by Kreisier. The recital as a whole was excellent from every standpoint. It was varied in style. not too long and, most important of all, was admirably performed in every detail,
