SAW Mrs. James M. Anders Saturday Lenjoying the marvelous subshine on Chestnut street-wasn't it wonderful on Satur-And she looked so perfectly stunning that I almost lost an eye taking in the cos-tume. It was a dark blue dress, with an overskirt of very dark gray jersey silk, and I think the girdle was of the jersey, too. Then she wore a long blue cape and a hat of dark gray straw braid-an unusual look-ing material-1 had never seen anything quite like it, and it matched the dress to perfection. The crown was sort of soft and easily flopped to one side or the other, according to the preference of the wearer--said wearer flopping it a little to the right in such a way as to show her beautiful carly gray hair most becomingly.

DID I tell you that the Orpheus mixed D quartet is going to give another concert on Wednesday night of this week? This time the charity is the Children's Bureau, and that always appeals, does it not? Mrs. Louis Madeira is president of the Chil-dren's Bureau, and do you know that about. thousand kiddles are cared for by this bureau each year? That's some work, don't you think? I must say I think the Orpheus mixed quartet is one fine institution, too, for you know these four young people sing the most elaborate and difficult music and sing it extremely well, and they give their talent for the simple thank you. That's real giving, for it's not only digging down into your pocket, but it's giving your time and talent for others pleasure. The concert given in December these four singers cleared more than $1100, which was given to the Pennsylvania Auxiliary Navy Relief Society.

The Schmidt Quartet and Alton Dough erty, accompanist, will assist the Orpheus Quartet, so what with the good music and the fine dancing floor of the Bellevne-Strat ford ballroom, it reads to me as if we would have one fine time there on Wednesday night

By the way, the singers in the quartet are Edna Harwood Baugher, soprano; Elizabeth Dickson, contralto; Philip Warren herit Cooke, tenor, and Donald Redding, bari-

HUNDREDS RECRUITED BY TEACHERS' UNION

Accomplishments Under Way Cited in Campaign to Boost Membership

Activities of the Teachers' Union of Philadelphia, first organization of its kind to be formed in this state, in behalf of public school employes, is attracting hundreds to its ranks and its membership is rapidly grow

The union has obtained the introduction of a bill equalizing salaries in first and second class cities of Pennsylvania. This bill has the distinction of being the Phila delphia union's "own" bill, and marks the first attempt at legislation by the organiza tion. The bill carries no state appropriation, and simply provides that local boardmust equalize the standard of women teach ers up to the men's minimum.

By the teachers this bill is looked upon as a great stride forward. The economic principle has been that where there are two standards of wages for the same kind of work the tendency is to keep the entire scale down. Philadelphia's low wage schedule has been directly attributed to this. Further nore, cheap labor ever tends to demoralize an industry.

With wages at the present low rate it is hardly probable that the best men and women will enter the teaching profession. In order to get the most desirable teachers for the children it is logical that a most desirable recompense should be offered. The movefor equal pay for equal work for men and women teachers is progressing through out the United States ...

To give power to its work the union has authorized the issuance of a series of resolutions. These will be distributed to all members of the union and among the voters of this city. The signatures of the voters will be presented to the state Legislature as rep resenting the backing of the bill in Phila delphia.

SEES PANACEA HERE IN FIVE-CENT BREAD

Mrs. Derr Thinks Nickel Loaf Would Thwart Trend to

Bolshevism "Anarchy, bolshevism and radicalic a gen erally would be prevented if Philadelphia had five-cent brend."

This is the opinion of Mrs. William B. Derr, organizer and head of the Philadelphia branch of the National Housewives' League,

"The campaign started in New York by Mrs. Julia Heath, founder of the National Housewives' League." said Mrs. Derr today, "should be emulated in this city. It is a worthy move and one of vital importance to the welfare of the country. Reduction in the price of bread would mean reduction in

SEATS FOR ORCHESTRA TO COST PUBLIC MORE

Arthur Judson Announces Increased Prices for Saturday Night Concerts

To cover increased salaries awarded the musicians of the Philadelphia Orchestra for the coming season a rise in the cost to the public for seats at the Saturday night conerts is announced by the manager. Arthur Judson.

These increases will range from 16 to 33.1.3 per cent, according to the location of the seats. But the new prices will not be as high as those for the popular Friday fternoon affairs.

Mr. Judsen, in making the announcement. says that the necessity for this increase arises in the fact that $30,000 will be added to the salaries of the orchestra at large. The salary of the director, Leopold Stekowski, is to remain as at present.

"We shall afford the same high standard of musical entertainment throughout the season as before." says Mr. Judson, "but we did not conscientiously feel that we ought to add to the yearly deficit which the backers of the organization are called upon to bear, hence the rise in prices for the Satur day concerts.

"Philadelphia's growing appreciation of music has been attested by growing audi ences. We feel that the public will cheer fully share the burden of added expense in order that the performances be not cheapened or the attractiveness of our offerings lessened.

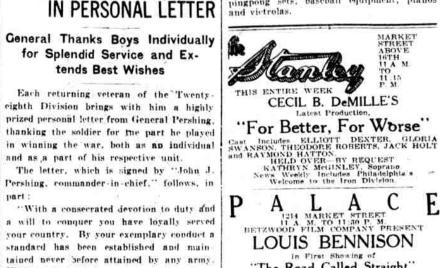

It was stated that musicians believe "jazz" may go the long trail with John Bar-leycorn and that for the musical tastes of the masses there is added hope in conse quence.

With FLORENCE MOORE

I mother and daddy had some people at the house to dance on Saturday night. was allowed to stay up and watch them for a very few minutes. Of course, everybody was much interested in her, and she was just as much thrilled with them-especially with one, who went through with a most businesslike process of making up before she started to dance. The baby stood swaying with open-mouthed awe while the lovely lady powdered her nose and chin and around-the way you do-and then applied the other little puff, talking all the time. and then finally got out a little stick and applied it to her lips. Then, perfectly satisshe turned away from the mirror and said. "Now, will you give me a nice kiss before I go?" And with the spell all shattered the baby came down to earth with a bump and answered with a little laugh, , not while you have that sticky stuff "Oh NANCY WYNNE. on your mouth."

TO AUCTION OFF GAS MASKS

Sixteen Thousand Will Be Sold at Camp Meade as Souvenirs

Sixteen thousand condemned gas masks, exactly like those used by the American ex-peditionary force in France, will be sold at auction at Camp Meade. Admiral. Md., by order of the War Department, between May 5 and May 26, inclusive. Purchases may be made singly, as souvenirs of the great war, or in bulk.

These masks were used in training troops in the cantonment and new ones were sup plied them when they went overseas. They offer no protection against mine gases, but others of the same type saved hundreds of thousands of American soldiers from the agonies of inhaling the poisonous vapors which the Germans used at every oppor-turity against their encudes.

of the Phil harmonic Society was given last evening at the Shubert Theatre before a fairly large and appreciative audience. The concert was one of chamber music, thus being a depar-ture from the two others, which were orchestral.

The performers were John K. Witzemann, first violin; S. Carlton Cooley, second vio-lin; Erich Haltenorth, viola; Alfred Len-nartz, cello; Frederick C. Rauser, piano; Arthur Luck, contrabass, and Miss Bertha Levin, contralto. The instrumental num-bers were the Beethoven string quartet in A major, a short double number, the popu-lar Andante Cantabile from the D major quartet of Tschaikowsky, and an attractive waltz by Dvorak, also for string quartet, and the "Trout" quintet for piano, violin, viola, cello and bass by Schubert, so-called because the theme of the variations of the fourth movement is based on Schubert's own song, "The Trout." The members of the instrumental ensemble played together in a remarkably creditable manner when the few rehearsals that they were able to hold is taken into consideration. There were one or two slips in the matter of time and one apparent mis understanding as to whether or not a repeat should be made, but the tonal balance good, the tempos correct and the dynamic effects fairly well observed. The selections were very well received by the audience. especially when their length and severe clas sicism is considered. Miss Levin has a voice of good quality and moderate power, and sang with much self-possession. She was encored after her number, the well-known aria from "Samson," and as cordially received after her second group of three songs, which, however, had the disadvantage of all being
