

114TH INFANTRY WILL PARADE IN CAMDEN

Plans for Demonstration Indorsed Today by Edge—Men to March Within Few Days

Soldiers of the 114th Infantry will parade in Camden, Governor Edge, of New Jersey, today indorsed plans for a parade which is to be held within the next three or four days.

Frank Sherwin, chairman of the historical committee of the Victory Jubilee committee, received a telegram from the governor in which the latter said plans for a turnout of the men in Camden had been approved and the date will be named definitely today by Adjutant General Gilkison.

The 114th is composed of the old Third Regiment, of Camden, and many other South Jersey companies. In the battle of Sedan and the Argonne the Yanks of the 114th especially distinguished themselves and their deeds have not been forgotten.

The boys will land at Broad Street Station and will march onto Market street to the ferry and thence cross the Delaware river to Camden.

The New Jersey lads came in on the Madawaska, advance regiment of the Twenty-ninth Division. After a greeting by mayors of Camden, Newark, Passaic and other Jersey towns they were sent to camp near here.

Audience Cheers Wounded Soldiers

Convalescents From Cape May Hospital Receive Ovation at Moose Hall Show

The audience at an entertainment in Moose Hall last night cheered when wounded soldiers from the convalescent hospital at Cape May were brought on the stage and introduced. The entertainment was for the purpose of replenishing a fund with which some Philadelphia young women have been ministering to the wounded Yanks at Cape May.

The boys who were introduced to the audience were part of a detachment brought up from Cape May to attend the entertainment and dance given for their benefit, and for the benefit of their comrades at the hospital.

The Philadelphia girls have been ministering to the wounded soldiers at United States General Hospital No. 11, formerly the Hotel Cape May, by visiting them and taking and sending them good things to eat, such as candies, preserves, fruit and also keeping the boys supplied with cigarettes, knitted articles, etc.

Last night's entertainment was "A Night in a Cabaret," a mélange of comedy, song and instrumental music. The artists were mostly the girls who have been ministering to the Cape May wounded.
