

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Discusses the Samuel-Adams Engagement. Miss Isabel Gittings Sails for France—Pony Show This Wednesday

WERE you surprised about Elizabeth Adams' engagement to Snowden Samuel? I really am, for I was because a "little bird" had sniffed the news from afar a while ago and so I was simply waiting for the confirmation of the announcement.

Elizabeth is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clifton Adams. Her mother was Mabel Smith of this city, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. Ross Smith and sister of the late C. Ross Smith, Jr., and Harry Smith. Elizabeth's father you remember, married a second time, his wife, the present Mrs. Adams, having been the sister-in-law of his first wife. She was Mrs. Harry Smith. You probably also remember the awful tragedy at Cape May two summers ago, when Mr. and Mrs. Adams were driving and were run into by a train. He was killed outright and she was badly injured and was in the hospital for many months.

Elizabeth lived with her step-mother for quite a while and then went to live with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Harding, the latter having been Miss Phoebe Adams. Snowden Samuel is a son of the Frank Samuels who live at Locust and Twenty-second street. His mother was Miss May Snowden. He is the only son of his father, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Snowden. His sisters, Rebecca and George Pouffe respectively, are a grandson of the late Colonel A. Loudon Snowden, who was United States minister to Greece, Rumania and Servia and later to the Spain, and was also president of the Philadelphia Commission and superintendent of the Philadelphia Mint.

DO YOU know that on Wednesday of this week the Pony Show will be held out at the Billie Clothier's place in Wynne, and everything else you will be going on all day and half of the evening. You know the first year they had the affair it was really a pony show and had a dog show as a side affair then the next year they added a restaurant and then a baby show and then a doll show and then a rummage sale and now if you please, they are going to have a real honest-to-goodness artist to paint the portraits of the grown-up and the animals. And, my dears, said artist is none other than the celebrated Charles Saspardas. He will donate his receipts to the show, isn't that great?

It's really most attractive out there and as I told you the other day, I would not miss it for worlds, even though it is to be the day before the Parade.

SPEAKING of the Parade reminds me, did you know that the fifteenth at Sibley Club? You know that every day in May there is a luncheon at the Sibley Club and lots of people entertain. But this week, of course, everybody will be cheering and smiling and crying their heads off along the line of parade if they are fortunate enough to be able to get a seat in one of the many grandstands, or else they'll be hanging out somebody's office window. Did you ever see anything like the number of them? And those banners on Chestnut street are stunning with the names of the various battles written on them.

I HEAR that Isabel Gittings has sailed for France. She is going in for overseas work with the Y. M. C. A. and expects to remain with the armies abroad for at least six months. Her mother, Miss Morton, you remember, is the sister of Arthur V. Morton and Miss Helen Morton of this city. Her grandfather was the late Dr. Samuel G. Morton, who was one of the most eminent of the Philadelphia doctors of his day. The family used to live on Chestnut street between Broad and Fifteenth. Now Miss Helen Morton and her brother live at 1842 Spruce street. The Gittings live on South. Isabel has been going splendid work at Camp Mead, Va. I mean Va., not Md. Well, be that as it may, she was one of the students at the first Chevy Chase camp. Do you remember that camp about four springs ago, when Marian Sharpless (now Mrs. Marion Butler) and Betty Night and Katherine Field and Sophie Bisham and lots of other girls from here, went down to Chevy Chase and drilled and did all kinds of stunts on time and went to bed at 9 P. M. and rose at 6 G. M. and had a perfectly great time.

Isabel has had a lot of experience in entertaining, she has gone to girl's camps as a counselor for several summers and that is some training, believe Nancy. She is altogether a perfectly charming girl and there is need of just those kind of girls who are healthy, and sensible; and with understanding minds, over there.

TALK about restricted vocabulary. My dears, I lied me to the circus the other night when everyone in Philadelphia went too, and as I was passing the elephants, one of the pachyderms (don't you like that) threw back its trunk and opened its funny mouth for peanuts. Of course everyone threw peanuts to it and then came the joy of the evening. As I stood there, I saw two persons approaching. She was holding on his arm and they were having a wonderful time. Then they came to the elephant, whose queer mouth was still wide open and who weighed at least ten ton. And she gurgled to He "Isn't he sweet?"

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES
An interesting engagement announced on Saturday in New York was that of Miss Virginia Deems, daughter of the Rev. Edward M. Deems and Mrs. Deems, of Statton Island, to Dr. Hugh Chaplin, of New York. Miss Deems is a graduate of the Baldwin School in Bryn Mawr.

An interesting engagement announced in Pittsburgh recently is that of Miss Virginia Schley and Mr. John H. B. Phillips, both of that city. The engagement was announced at a tea given by Mr. Phillips's sister, Mrs. Norman Woodridge, of Haverford, another sister, who is visiting Mrs. Woodridge.

Mrs. William Gray Warden, of Red Gate, Germantown, will give a theatre party, followed by a supper, on Wednesday, June 4, in honor of her daughter, Miss Agnes Brookline, and Mr. John H. Mason, Jr., whose marriage will take place on June 17, and their bridal party.

Miss Marie Louise Cauldwell, of Ardmore, will give a luncheon on Saturday, in honor of Miss Helen B. Moore, daughter of Mrs. George Cameron, of Germantown, whose marriage to Mr. R. Fenton Fisher will take place on Wednesday, May 21.

ORCHESTRA DEFICITS CALLED UNAVOIDABLE

Association's Statement Shows High Salaries and Limitation of Performances Cause Losses

Necessary high salaries and the impossibility of frequent performances are given as the chief reasons why orchestra concerts do not pay expenses, in a bulletin just issued by the Philadelphia Orchestra Association. Contrasting the profits made by successful plays and the income derived from orchestra concerts the association states: "A play is put in rehearsal and on the stage, is played eight times a week, and the same play will run for twenty to forty weeks. After the first few weeks the profits begin. "An orchestra changes its program each week. This means five new rehearsals each week. During those days it cannot be away and play in other cities; it must rehearse in the same building in which the concerts are given, so that the proper effects can be judged for the public concerts. "An orchestra seldom plays more than five times a week, at rare times, on four, six times. But, usually, it is physically impossible to give more than 100 good concerts during a season of twenty-five weeks. All the rest of the time must be given to rehearsals, and the rehearsals mean salaries going on, but no income. "Again, the average play has a cast of, say, from twenty to forty persons. The Philadelphia orchestra has 100 men on its pay roll. "The salary list of an orchestra must necessarily be high. Scores of compositions have solo parts. For those solo parts, when the violin, the cello, the flute, the horn, the harp or whatever instrument is called for, plays and the rest of the orchestra is silent, there must be the best musician obtainable. The best musicians mean high salaries. A program may not call for a solo for the flute once in three months; but when it is called for, the skilled musician must be there with his ability. An orchestra conductor is necessarily high-salaried; his work is so arduous and so much depends upon his skill. His salary must go on for fifty-two weeks of a year, for in the summer he must prepare his programs and study new compositions. A star actor's salary stops when he stops playing. "A play is conducted by an administrative organization that has from five to twenty plays at one time. The overhead expenses are divided and charged against each play. "An orchestra must have a similar administration, but its entire cost must be charged against the single orchestra that it manages. "If the present two almost-sold-out audiences which gather every week to hear the Philadelphia Orchestra could be repeated, as is a play, six or eight times a week, then the orchestra could pay its expenses. But so such number of concerts could be given in Philadelphia or in any other city. Therefore, the orchestra must travel to other cities and conduct its part of the losses on the Philadelphia concerts. And so large are those losses that even by traveling they can only be made up in part, because the orchestra cannot too often be away from Philadelphia."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Lea returned from New York to their home in Devon on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Divrell Henry Oglesby announce their marriage. Their daughter, Miss Sally Amelia Oglesby, to Mr. Theodore Leo Disharoon, Jr., on Wednesday, May 7, at 6 o'clock at their home, Mountain Hall, near Lynchburg, Va. Mr. Disharoon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Disharoon, of 1249 South Fifty-third street, this city. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert A. Coe, of Riverton, N. J., are being congratulated upon the birth of a son, Herford, on May 4. Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Douglas have left the Touraine and are spending some time at 1830 South Rittenhouse Square before moving into their country home in Media for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Lacey, of 4944 Rubicon avenue, Germantown, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary tomorrow evening. Mrs. Lacey has been secretary and treasurer of the Old Ladies' Home in Wisconsin for forty-three years. Mr. and Mrs. R. Lacey have three children, Miss Edith R. Lacey, Mr. Adin B. Lacey and Mr. Fred W. Lacey, and four grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. John Edmund Hubbell and their daughter, Miss Marian Hubbell, of 222 Riverside drive, New York, will return to their home in Mount Airy the end of this week. Miss Hubbell's engagement to Mr. Donald M. Gwentrop, of Germantown, was recently announced. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ewing, of East Walnut lane, have been entertaining Mrs. Victor Shaw and Miss Beatrice Weightman, of Washington, D. C. Mr. John Engelson, of Stanton avenue, Chestnut Hill, has purchased the large country place of Mr. Horace G. Fetterolf, on Church road, which Mr. Engelson and his family will occupy this summer. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Jennings, of Gowen avenue, Chestnut Hill, had as their house guests over the week-end Dr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Hollowell, of West Tioga street.

MISS PIKE A BRIDE THIS AFTERNOON
Wedding Takes Place in St. Clement's Church, Followed by Reception at Home

An interesting wedding will be solemnized this afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Clement's Roman Catholic Church, when Miss Beatrice Pike, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles P. Pike, of 7280 Woodland avenue, will be married to Mr. George D. Still, of 2232 South Fifteenth street. The Rev. Frank Dougherty will officiate at the service. Doctor Pike will give his daughter in marriage. She will wear a gown of white satin and georgette crepe, a leghorn hat and will carry white orchids and sweet peas. Miss Eleanor Estelle Pike will be her sister's only attendant. Mr. S. Joseph Pike, the bride's brother, will be best man. The ceremony will be followed by a reception for the families at the home of the bride's parents. The bridegroom and bride will leave on a short trip to the coast at home after May 19 at 2741 South Marine street.

SCHNEIDER-SYKES
An attractive May wedding was that of Miss Clara Sykes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Sykes, of 1318 West Allegheny avenue, and Mr. William D. Schneider, also of Tioga, which took place on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in the Trinity Reformed Church, Broad and Venango streets. The pastor, the Rev. James M. S. Isenberg, performed the ceremony, and a reception at the home of the bride's parents followed. The bride wore a gown of duchess lace with a court train, veil of duchess lace, carried with purple and carried a shower of roses, lilies of the valley and sweet peas. Her father gave her in marriage, Miss Edith Morgan was maid of honor, and wore pink satin, with a leghorn hat, and carried a basket of pink roses. Miss Edith Sykes, Miss Beatrice Sykes, the bride's sisters, and Miss Emma Schneider, the bridegroom's sister, were bridesmaids. They wore pale blue satin, with leghorn hats, and carried blue parasols, with pink sweet peas. Mr. Richard Shepherd was the best man, and the ushers included Mr. Erner Goodman, Mr. Fred Schneider, the bridegroom's brother; Mr. Frank Kriebel and Mr. Sherard Christie. After an extended tea, Schneider and his bride will be at home at 4543 North Camac street.

YSAYE AND ELMAN PLAY
Give an Interesting Recital of Music for Two Violins
Eugene Ysaye, who may almost be called the dean of violinists, and Mischa Elman, the young Russian virtuoso with the untamed temperament, gave a most unusual concert before an immense audience at the Metropolitan House Saturday evening. The numbers were confined to selections for two violins, and opened with a Concerto by Mozart, followed by the G minor Sonata of Handel, the great D minor Concerto by Bach and Moszkowski's Suite No. 1.

Both these artists rely more upon beauty of tone combined with a certain smoothness, rather than upon absolute accuracy of tempo and tonal adjustment of the highest type. This has its advantages, especially in solo playing; but where there is another party to be considered, ensemble work must come first, even to the sacrificing of some other detail of playing. In the early numbers of Saturday's concert there was an apparent lack of this ensemble, which, however, was corrected before the program had progressed very far. Probably the best done number of the evening was the Bach double concerto, unquestionably the greatest composition ever set down for two violins. The tone quality of the work, notably in the slow movement, was exquisite, and it was given with great refinement of feeling and poetry. The other selections, which were all lesser in scope and in which, were also well played, and the large house demanded many encores, which, owing to the fact that both artists had to return to New York on a relatively early train, it was impossible to grant.

The Resurrection of "Fashion"
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—Doubtless due to a slip of the pen June 19 is given as the production of today. Mrs. Maxwell's old comedy, "Fashion," by the Zoölogical Society of the University of Pennsylvania. Possibly the writer had in mind that this revival was to be part of the mid-june commencement week festivities of the Zoölogical Society. As a matter of fact, the Zoölogical Society will give its performance on Monday evening, May 19, at the New Century Drawing Room.

The revival of Mrs. Maxwell's social satire is in line with the society's custom of resorting to plays that have had important bearing on the development of the drama in the United States. The staging will be historically accurate, as the foremost authority on Mrs. Maxwell is kindly co-operating with all the resources of his collection of pictures, etc., relating to the playwright and this particular specimen of her endowments. Philadelphia, May 10. ZELOSOPH.

Our Boys in Khaki
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—Will you please publish the following verses in the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER as an obligation. MRS. M. MADGE MAJOR, 1417 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

To Our Boys of the Twenty-eighth Division Hurrab for the boys in khaki; God bless them one and all. Hurrab for the boys of the Twenty-eighth. They answered to the call. Hurrab for the boys in khaki. They're for the shoulder guns. Hurrab for the boys of Pennsylvania, Hurrab for the boys who beat the Hunns. Hurrab for the boys in khaki. The Pennsylvania braves, God bless the ships that brought them o'er. Those routing for the boys of the Twenty-eighth. Hurrab for the boys as they're brave, Hurrab for the boys of Pennsylvania, Hurrab for the boys who saved. Hurrab for the boys in khaki. They fought with all their vim, Hurrab for the boys of Philadelphia, And lift your hats to them. Hurrab for the boys of the Twenty-eighth. Hurrab for the Hunns they did trim, Hurrab for the boys of Pennsylvania, For freedom they did win. Hurrab for the boys in khaki. As they march along in line, Hurrab for the boys of the Twenty-eighth. Hurrab with unshook in their prime, Hurrab for the boys in khaki, They look so brave and fine, Hurrab for the boys of Pennsylvania, They broke Hindenburg's line. Hurrab for the boys in khaki. As they're marching on, Hurrab for the boys of the Twenty-eighth, We will all sing their song, Hurrab for the boys of Philadelphia. As they're marching on Broad street, Hurrab for the boys of Pennsylvania, Shouts every one you meet.

Italy and Fiume
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—In answer to a letter signed John Giardin, financial secretary of the National Croatian Society of Philadelphia, answering a letter of Mr. Randonji J. Scott, chairman Junior Alliance for Italian Relief, both published in your valuable paper, Mr. Scott will pardon me if I answer the letter for him.

President Wilson's public note on Fiume is all wrong and does not show the public sentiment of Italy to Italy. Sooner of later President Wilson will have to retrace his steps, and Fiume will go to Italy without any doubt. Fiume has been and is Italian since time immemorial. The present population of Fiume is more than 80 per cent Italian. All representatives of the city of Fiume have voted as one to be united to its mother country, Italy. This fully comes under the now famous fourteen points of President Wilson (now virtually all about pieces), of self-determination. With all due respect to the American army and her allies, Italy was never saved by any army in this world war but her own. After the Italian disaster at Caporetto, due to in-sidious intrigues, lack of adequate help from her allies and not having a unified command at that time, the Italian army alone held the Croats & Company, which composed the Austro-Hungarian army at the Piave.

Before the armistice was signed the Italian army victoriously alone, and with only one regiment of American soldiers, completely routed the Croats and Austro-Hungarian army, leaving the greatest victory in the world, capturing 500,000 prisoners, etc. The American public and all civilized nations should never forget that those same Croats were the most savage sub-servants of the now defunct Hapsburg dynasty, and have always been the foes and enemies of all free loving people, and especially of the Italians. What I have above written is not my belief, but the common knowledge of all intelligent readers, but this is what the Jugo-Slavs will get a part on the Adriatic, but Fiume—they might as well forget it.

Nurses Who Parade Assured of Welcome
Committee Making Plans for Accommodation of Visitors—Homes Opened to Them
Members of the Philadelphia reception committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Henry Brinton Coxe, are preparing to take care of the hundreds of nurses from all over the state who will arrive in Philadelphia to participate in the parade next Thursday. Special effort is being made to locate all of the overseas nurses who are living in Pennsylvania or who served with Pennsylvania units. The committee has 350 on the lists at present, all of whom have been asked to take part in the parade and to be present at the luncheon which will be given in their honor at the Bellevue-Stratford afterward. The committee in charge is asking all nurses to register at the general committee headquarters in the Liberty Building, Broad and Chestnut streets. Because of the limited hotel space, several members of the nurses' reception committee, including Mrs. William Norris, 1530 Locust street, and Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt, 1418 Spruce street, have opened their homes to the nurses during their stay in Philadelphia. A rest room will be provided the visitors at 1512 Spruce street, where aid and information will be given them. At 8 o'clock on the morning of the parade ten and coffee will be served there. The nurses are asked to wear their overseas army, navy or Red Cross uniform during the march. The executive committee includes Miss Susan C. Francis, director of Red Cross nurses for Pennsylvania and Delaware; Mrs. J. Willis Martin, Mrs. Charles Scott, Mrs. William R. Mercer, Mrs. Norton Downs, Mrs. Thomas J. Dolan and Miss Anna Rogers.

The reception committee includes Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, Mrs. Charles H. Scott, Mrs. Charles E. Ingelsoll, Mrs. Theodore W. Cramp, Mrs. Joseph Leidy, Miss Helen Fleisher, Mrs. Philip Rhineland, Mrs. E. Walter Clark, Mrs. J. Hopkin, Mrs. William Norris, Mrs. Charlton Yarnes, Mrs. Norman MacLeod, Mrs. Arthur H. Lea, Miss Florence Caldwell, Mrs. George B. Frazer, Mrs. Roland Taylor, Miss Mary K. Gibson, Mrs. Charles F. Da Costa, Mrs. Henry P. Vaux, Mrs. Joseph N. Snell, Mrs. Thomas Potter, Jr., Mrs. Benjamin Rush, Mrs. R. L. Montgomery, Mrs. William J. Clothier, Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell, Mrs. Sydney W. Keith, Mrs. T. De Witt Cuyler, Mrs. F. P. Patterson, Mrs. George W. Lehigh, Mrs. John H. Gibbon, Mrs. Edward T. Stotsbury, Mrs. Randall Morgan, Miss Roberta West, Mrs. William B. Campbell and Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt.

Jewish Welfare Board Entertains
The Jewish Welfare Board has arranged for an "open house" all this week at the Young Men's Hebrew Association headquarters, 1119 Master street. Numerous plans for the entertainment of returned soldiers have been arranged. Four welfare workers are coming here from Washington to assist in receiving men of the Twenty-eighth Division.

EXPERT TO DISCUSS EXPRESS PROBLEMS

Robert Cowie Addresses Chamber of Commerce Friday on Government Service

"Express Service Made in America" will be the subject discussed by Robert E. Cowie, vice president of the American Railway Express Company, at an open meeting next Friday afternoon, at 2:30 in the assembly room of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

In announcing this meeting the Chamber of Commerce states that so many inquiries for information concerning express services have been received by the chamber from shippers that it was thought best to invite an authority on the subject to explain the problems with which shippers are confronted and the efforts which are being made by the government in its management of the express companies to render better service to the public.

Invitations to send representatives to this meeting have been extended to the following organizations: Board of Trade, Commercial Exchange, Lumber Men's Exchange, Moroccon Manufacturers' National Association, National Association Hoopery and Ladderwork Manufacturers, National Varnish Manufacturers' Association, National United States Dry Goods Association, Paint Manufacturers' Association of United States, Pennsylvania Association Wood and Timber Association, Philadelphia Bourse, Philadelphia Maritime Exchange, Builders' Exchange, Hardware Merchants' Association, Philadelphia Wood and Tinsmith Association, Philadelphia Drug Exchange and Retail Grocers' Association.

Each of these organizations has been asked to make known to its membership the object of this meeting, so that funds of establishments as well as other employees who are interested in handling the express business of their companies may attend.

ARTISANS TO ELECT TRUSTEE
"Big Surprise Party" Also on Program Tonight of Fidelity Chapter

In addition to electing a trustee, "a big surprise" is planned for the meeting of Fidelity Chapter No. 21, Artisans' Order of Mutual Protection, which will be held tonight at 1626 Arch street.

The candidates for office are Robert Barandon, Clyde B. Horvath, Frank G. Griffiths, Sr., and Jack Schwartz. The entertainment committee is keeping the "surprise party" details in the dark, but one of the features will be a guessing contest for six prizes.
