AUGUSTA, GA., BELLES COMING ON 28TH PARADE SPECIAL

Many Southern Wives of Keystone Men Here—Others on Way—Mayor Heads Delegation of 200

Oh, those Georgia girls! They're coming here in a flock for Thursday's parade. All are from Augusta, where the soldiers of the Iron Legion made such a favorable impression when they trained at Camp Hancock, before going overseas.

Some of these Georgia girls are the wives of Philadelphia soldier boys. Others are sweethearts and still others are just friends—good pals. And they all want to see our lads parade.

Approximately 200 residents of the Georgia city are en route to Philadelphia on a special train, gayly bedecked with the colors of Augusta and the red keystone. Banners and pennants that will remind the soldiers of their first training camp will be shown in profusion. The train is scheduled to arrive here tomorrow. The delegation will be the guests of the Adelpheia Hotel.

Pennsylvania boys, while training in Augusta, married approximately a hundred girls of the southern city. Nearly all these girls will be here.

All the Girls Wanted to Come

Despite the fact that the boys of the Twenty-eighth Division left Camp Hancock between April 20 and May 10, of 1917, the impression made by the Pennsylvanians was so great that Augusta is extremely interested in their return. The women folk of the community are especially enthusiastic. Every girl, and in fact Augusta's womanhood, almost without exception, wanted to come to Philadelphia for government ownership," he said, "our people are not at all well pleased with the so-called government operation of the railroads."

As for the next Presidential campaign, South Dakota, the governor asserted, is still "up in the air" as to issues and candidates.

Elected on Republican Ticket

Although he was elected on a Republican ticket, he said party lines are not sharply defined in South Dakota.

With the governor as Adjutant General W. A. Morris and C. M. Henry, rural credit commissioner of South Dakota. They came here to extend an official welcome to the men of the 147th Field Artillery, expected at this port.

The regiment formerly was the Fourth South Dakota Infantry.

South Dakota has a state constabulary to enforce prohibition. It is headed by the sheriffs of the various counties and is composed of several hundred peace officers of the various counties.

A successful farm-loan system is in operation there. Since October, 1917, the rural credit board has loaned $13,000,000 to farmers, according to Commissioner Henry.

MAN RESCUED FROM BLAZE

Storekeeper Saves Family, Then Returns to Burning Home

Returning to his burning home to obtain some valuables after he had assisted the members of his family to escape over a rear shed, Solomon Levin, of 638 Emily street, narrowly escaped death from the flames early today before he was rescued by firemen.

The fire started in a grocery store conducted by Levin on the first floor. A neighbor first saw the flames and aroused the members of the family, who were sleeping on the second floor. Firemen erected a ladder, and it was necessary to assist the man to the ground.

The origin of the fire has not been determined. Stock in the store valued at $1000 was destroyed.

RADNOR HERO IS PATROLMAN

Soldier, Wounded Four Times, Accepts Township Post

Bearing four wounds from German bullets, John Tully, a former employe of St. Charles's Seminary, at Overbrook, has been sworn in as a patrolman on the police force of Radnor township. Policeman Tully was discharged several weeks ago from the military hospital at Lakewood, N. J.

He was drafted on April 28, 1918, and two weeks later was transferred to Company A, 319th Infantry, in the Eightieth Division, for immediate service in France. In July and August he fought in the Arras region. September 26, when his regiment went into action on the Argonne front, his company charged German machine-gun nests. Tully and others had to cross an open field. He was lying prone, firing, when a bullet inflicted a severe flesh wound in the arm. When he turned off and tried to ease his position to lessen the flow of blood another bullet struck him in the foot.

FIVE ARE INJURED IN TROLLEY CRASH

Two Women Among Victims of Thirty-seventh and Spring Garden Street Accident

WORKMEN CROWDED CARS

Five persons were injured and many others imperiled when two crowded trolley cars collided at Thirty-seventh and Spring Garden streets shortly before 7 o'clock this morning.

The injured are: Joseph Liberman, twenty-five years old, 807 North Union street, contusions, lacerations and possible internal injuries.

Beulah Young, twenty-two years old, 2819 Fairmount avenue, lacerations and contusions.

Josephine Booker, twenty-five years old, 303 North Thirty-ninth street, lacerations and contusions.

Robert L. Winn, negro, 3725 Brown street, lacerations and contusions.

Frederick Rivera, negro, 3337 Brown street, lacerations and contusions.

All the injured were taken to the Presbyterian Hospital. Liberman was taken in the patrol of the Thirty-ninth street and Lancaster avenue station, the two young women in the hospital ambulance and the two negroes in the patrol of the Thirty-second street and Woodland avenue station.

Both cars were crowded with persons going to work. A southbound 38 Route car on Thirty-seventh street had all but cleared the tracks on Spring Garden street when an eastbound 43 Route car on that thoroughfare crashed into the rear of the 38 Route car.

Passengers in both cars were flung from their feet and the Thirty-seventh street car was thrown from the track, the rear trucks of the big vehicles going almost to the pavement at the southeast corner.

The front end of the Spring Garden street trolley and the rear end of the car into which it crashed were badly damaged. Shattered glass was showered on the passengers and several received minor injuries in addition to those who were taken to the hospital. All of those more seriously injured were in the trolley that was struck. The motorman of the Spring Garden street trolley luckily escaped injury by the flying glass.

A near panic resulted in both cars, but the company employes soon quieted the passengers, and when the doors were open the riders fled to the street in an orderly manner.

AUTO DRIVER UNDER BAIL

Principal in Crash That Injured Fourteen Nurses Arrested

Frank L. Campbell, 6633 Torresdale avenue, driver of the automobile that is said to have struck a converted ambulance of the Frankford Hospital on the Roosevelt Boulevard on the night of April 19, was held in $800 bail for court today when assigned before Magistrate Costello in the Frankford police station.

Fourteen nurses from the Frankford Hospital who were riding in the ambulance were injured in the crash, as were four passengers in the car Campbell was said to have been driving. The accident occurred at Bustleton pike and the Boulevard.

After the crash the driver of the car that struck the ambulance is said by the police to have sped away. The arrest of Campbell was brought about through an investigation made by Detectives Fessmire and Boze, of the Frankford station.

POLICEMAN HALTS HOLD-UP

Captures Suspect, Who Must Explain Possession of Victim's Ring

Accused of attempting to hold up and rob Walter E. Lannigan, of 927 Lindenley avenue, after Lannigan had given him money, John Nash, a negro, of Bainbridge street near Fifteenth, was held in $800 bail for court by Magistrate Grellis in the Fifteenth and Vine streets police station today.

Patrolman Pennington testified that shortly after 8:30 o'clock last night he saw Nash and another negro going through Lannigan's pockets at Sixteenth and Ranstead streets. He drew his revolver and approached the group and Nash surrendered. The other negro escaped.

Nash denied that he had his hands in Lannigan's pocket, although a ring found in the negro's pocket was identified by Lannigan. The prompt arrest of the patrolman, Lannigan said, prevented the men from obtaining a large sum of money which was in a wallet in his vest pocket.

WESTERN GOVERNOR HERE, RAPS WILSON

Norbeck Says South Dakota is Displeased With Democratic Regime

ROOSEVELT WAS CHOICE

"President Wilson nearly carried South Dakota at the last election, but the people now are so incensed at Democratic extravagance and wastefulness that you could hardly find a Wilson man here."

Governor Peter Norbeck, of South Dakota, who is in this city, expressed this judgment today. He said that the voters of the West had lost faith in the Democratic administration.

"Roosevelt, had he lived, would have swept South Dakota and the Northwest," the governor added. He had no opinion, he said, as to the strength of Major General Leonard Wood, Roosevelt's friend, might attain in the West as a presidential timber.

"But if the Republican party is to succeed," the governor continued, "it must not be satisfied with investigations of Democratic wastefulness and mismanagement. The administration's wastefulness and mismanagement are too apparent anyway, to need investigation."

G. O. P. Must Be Constructive

"The Republican party must look forward not backward, must be constructive, if it is to succeed and shape the policies of the nation after Wilson steps out."

The South Dakota executive said the people of his state were opposed to government control of railroads.

Our first order from the Ladies' Home Journal—

Twenty-eight years ago, Library Bureau received its first order from the Curtis Publishing Company. It called for a 28-drawer card cabinet and 100,000 3 x 5 cards.

In the light of all that has happened since, the wording of the specifications is almost historic. It refers to the cabinet as "the first filing cabinet introduced in a large publishing establishment."

Twenty-eight years! It seems like a long time. It covers the period of our country's greatest industrial growth.

For the Curtis Publishing Company it has meant leadership in the magazine field. For Library Bureau it has also meant leadership—in all that concerns filing.

Today, Library Bureau is the world's largest manufacturer of card record and filing equipment—the originator of vertical filing, the card record system, the card record desk, the card ledger and practically all the filing methods that are so essential as part of modern business.

Particular proof of the continued value and progressiveness of L. B. Service is found in the fact that The Curtis Publishing Company, after 28 years, is still an enthusiastic L. B. customer.

Enormous Savings in This Linde Furniture Sale Clearance

From every angle—quality, assortments, prices—this is the most wonderful home-furnishing opportunity Philadelphia has seen in years because, in the face of a rising market, we are able to offer standard, staple goods at startling savings on today's figures. We purchased, months ago, large orders of Linde-grade furniture at 10 to 40 per cent below present-day prices. These shipments are now arriving. We must make room for them.

To do this quickly we have marked down all our odd suits and pieces and many discontinued styles far below their present value. A great many full suits, Library, Dining-Room and Bedroom, as well as fine individual pieces, are marked one-half or more than half their real worth. We have never had such bargains in this store of bargains. Look and see how much we can save you.

When the Keystone Men swing up Broad Street on next Thursday

Many of them will look forward with anticipation to slipping into the Perry Spring Suit bought here in the last week or so, and now waiting on its hanger to fit them once more to take their place in civilian life!

It has done our heart good to greet the steady stream of returned A. E. F. Men who in the last several months have been renewing old acquaintance here and establishing new friendships in this all-man's store.

The capping of the climax has taken place since the Gallant Keystone Division has returned in numbers to our shores. The red of their Insignia has brightened our aisles in increasing numbers day after day, and we are proud of their remembrance and confidence.

For these men know the tried and the true things of life better than they ever did before; they seek and find substantial worth, and having found it, tell the world about it.

May the skies smile blue upon their banners Thursday, and may their future never hold a regret for all they have been and done and accomplished!

Welcome Home to our 28th!
